DR. MORGAN DEFIES PRESIDENT

DEMOCRATS PUT ON SPOT, REJECT ECONOMY PLEA

Senate Votes Down 10% Cut in Costs.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—By a record vote of 56 to 28, the United States senate formally determined today that economy is not one of the objectives of President Roosevelt's scheme to reorganize the federal government and concentrate vast new powers in his hands.

Senator Harry Flood Byrd [D., Va.], long an advocate of government reorganization in the interest of economy, forced the administration leaders into the embarrassing position of having to go on record against a saving of 10 per cent in the so-called regular costs of government.

Senator Byrd's amendment merely asserted, as one of the objectives of the reorganization bill, a reduction of such expenditures by 10 per cent. It was nothing but a declaration of policy, the expression of a legislative hope, but it was opposed so vigorously by the administration forces that it was defeated 2 to 1.

Labor Opposes Measure.

In a telegram to all members of the senate President William Green tonight threw the strength of the American Federation of Labor behind an opposition movement to recommit the reorganization bill for further study.

"The reorganization bill now being considered by the senate is highly objectionable to the American Federation of Labor and its entire membership," Green's letter said. "It presents a broad and sweeping delegation of congressional authority to the executive branch of the government. Congress ought to retain all its constitutional authority in conformity with democratic procedure and democratic government. Said power ought to be broadened and extended, but never curtailed.

"I assure you labor is greatly alarmed over the serious implications involved in this legislation."

Warns of National Bankruptcy.

The vote on the Byrd amendment came after Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], had warned the senate of the possibilities of uncontrolled inflation and national bankruptcy. To the argument that expenditures could not be reduced without throwing government employés out of work, Senator Bailey replied:

"When the government goes into the business of enlarging itself in order to employ people, there cannot be any doubt as to where it will wind up. That is exactly what state socialism is; that is the totalitarian socialistic form of government."

Senator Byrd's amendment originally called for a declaration in favor of reducing all regular expenditures, aggregating about 5 billion dollars a year, by 10 per cent, thus saving 500 million dollars a year. Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], manager of the reorganization bill, objected to this declaration of policy, arguing that savings could be accomplished only by reducing the personnel of the government. A saving of 500 millions, he said, would require the elimination of one-third of the 841,000 employés in the executive branch, exclusive of the armed forces.

Borah Enters Fray.

"Does the senator maintain that such a large number of employés cannot be perceptibly reduced?" asked Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho]. "The object of this bill, as I have understood it, is to turn over to the President these powers so he can bring about a reduction of expenditures."

"O, no," said Senator Byrnes. "The object of the bill is to effect such reductions in expenditures as will be consistent with the efficient operation of the government. In all common sense, you cannot reduce the appropriations for this government by 500 million dollars and have efficient operation."

Senator Byrd then produced the famous radio address made by Senator Byrnes in May of 1937, in which he advocated a horizontal slash of 10 per cent in all regular expenditures exclusive of fixed charges and appropriations for the army and navy.

Investigates, Ther Recants.

"The senator stated in that address that the 10 per cent cut would apply to 3½ billion dollars of expenditures, resulting in a saving of 350 million dollars," said Senator Byrd.

Byrnes replied that his radio speech

CHICAGO DEFEATS NEW YORK, 9-7, IN GOLDEN GLOVES

Chicago's Golden Gloves boxers defeated New York, nine bouts to seven, in the annual intercity match in Madison Square Garden last night, scoring its sixth victory in the eleven year series. It was the first time an invading team has achieved an intercity triumph.

JUVENILE CRIME A WEED IN CITY'S SOCIAL GARDEN

Needs Attention at Source, Say Experts.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Juvenile crime as a broad, cultural problem that has reached a critical stage in Chicago, needs attention at its source, according to all the sociological and other expert opinion on this subject.

This source is the mental soil, the group behavior patterns that have been built intensively in certain sections of Chicago, as well as in other cities. Under present conditions, despite churches, schools, boys' clubs, and other efforts, the production of anti-social beings, beginning with truancy and ending with prison, is as certain as weeds in an untended garden. Punishment is a secondary problem.

Cases of 5 Boys Cost $30,000.

One investigator, studying the careers of five boys, all normal, who have followed this route, has found that to date they have cost the city and state $30,000. In one case a boy of 3 years was found with his brothers in the act of robbing a house.

The causes of crime are as complex as its cure, but it is significant that the crime map of Chicago, whether made from police, juvenile court, boys' court, or truancy statistics, has its heaviest shadings in the areas immediately surrounding the loop and in the large industrial districts such as the stockyards and the South Chicago steel mills.

The second important fact is that this proportion holds good over decades, no matter what racial group happens to be preponderant in the section during a particular period.

Cultural Influence Breaks Down.

This is not to say that poverty in itself produces crime, nor that the deteriorated districts produce crime, but that the good cultural influences such as the family have broken down; that the community has become disorganized; that a definite delinquent social pattern has arisen. Police become enemies. The gang code becomes the real standard of action. Certainly race does not produce crime.

The problem in police figures shows a rising tide of juvenile crime, but underneath it a steady production by districts over a period of forty years.

Juvenile court cases numbered 12,240 in 1936 and 13,247 in 1937. They have averaged about 10,000 a year.

Nationality Distribution Changes.

A study of the nationality distribution of delinquent boys in Chicago was made by the National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement. It was made by Clifford R. Shaw, head of the department of research sociology of the Institute for Juvenile Research, and Henry D. McKay, associate sociologist.

The results are tabulated in ten year periods ending with 1930. These percentages, according to Dr. Shaw, remain about the same today, except that of the Negroes and the Germans. Following is the table.

Nationality —	Pct.	Pct.	Pct.	Pct.
American:
White	16.0	16.5	23.0	19.5
Negro	4.7	5.5	9.9	21.7
German	20.4	15.5	6.3	1.9
Irish	18.7	12.3	6.1	1.3
Italian	5.1	7.9	12.7	11.7
Polish	15.1	18.6	24.5	21.0
English-Scotch	3.4	2.5	.9	.6
Scandinavian	3.8	2.9	2.3	.8
Austrian	.1	.9	.8	1.7
Lithuanian	.1	1.1	2.2	3.8
Czechoslovakian	4.6	5.5	2.2	4.2
All others	8.0	11.8	9.1	11.8
Total	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0

The rate for Negroes is now said to be 26 and the rate for Germans .4.

Dr. Shaw Explains Shifts.

The changes in nationality percentages, together with the stability in area percentages, are explained by Dr. Shaw as follows:

"In the eighties the area bordering the loop was occupied largely by German, Irish, and English immigrants. As later immigrants came in they settled in the same areas and displaced the former occupants. For example, along Milwaukee avenue just northwest of the loop the Scandinavians followed the German and English settlers and displaced them to some extent. In a short time, however, all former immigrants in this area gave way to the influx of Polish and Italian immigrants. These in turn are retreating before the Negro settlers. Within the Negro area the same general process takes place. The newest immigrants settle in the areas of greatest deterioration and push the earlier Negro inhabitants out into areas of less physical deterioration."

BEEN STUFFING HIM FOR FIVE YEARS

TIRED OF IT ALL, PHIL SUCCEEDS MERELY IN KILLING THE BOTTLE

Philip Hoffman bade the police a touching farewell when his groans brought them to his home at 2225 Lincoln avenue last night. And then, finding that death still hadn't quite overtaken him, he explained that he had just taken steps to end it all by swallowing poison he had bought from J. C. Lindahl in a drug store at 2201 Lincoln avenue.

The police were as surprised as Mr. Hoffman to find a little life remaining when they got him to the County hospital. They made inquiry of the druggist to find out when to send flowers, and Mr. Lindahl said not for years yet. He was afraid poison wouldn't mix well with what Mr. Hoffman had been drinking, he said, and gave him quinine instead.

Nude Body of Hoodlum Left Near Hospital

Nuns at the Mother Cabrini hospital, 1200 Cabrini street, were roused by heavy pounding on the entrance door early today. As they opened the door an unidentified man, with hat pulled over his eyes, silently pointed to what seemed to be a large bundle on the sidewalk. Then he ran to a waiting automobile and drove away.

Dr. Joseph Mirmelli and two other physicians ran out to investigate. They found a dead man, entirely nude, wrapped in two blankets, one baby blue in color and the other baby pink. He had been dead about two hours. Deep gashes were found on his head.

Victim Has Police Record.

The victim was identified as Ambrose Russo, 27 years old, 725 South May street, better known as Tony Panico, a minor hoodlum. In 1933 he was sentenced to prison for one to three years on a charge of arson for setting fire to a police squad car. He was discharged a year later. In 1932 he was placed on probation for larceny and again for robbery.

Police said that Russo was believed to have been a member of a window smashing ring and attributed his death to ironic justice. Early yesterday three hoodlums smashed the window of the Kerman store at 160 North Michigan avenue and stole several fur pieces.

One Wounded by Watchman.

They exchanged shots with Gordon Canada, a watchman, in their getaway. But in the escape one of them was cut by a jagged piece of the heavy glass as he pulled his head from the broken window.

Examination at the county morgue revealed a deep slash across the back of Russo's neck from ear to ear and a deep wound behind the right ear. The slash and wound had been stitched, apparently by a physician. The wound, police believe, was caused by glass.

Police began a search for a girl and a man with whom Russo associated. They believe the man was involved with him in the Kerman window smashing and that the girl might be able to give information about them.

Girl Medical Student Makes a Week-End Profit in Jail

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—[Special.]—Miss Isobele Nelson, 22 years old, a medical student, spent the week end in Lincoln Heights jail rather than pay a $7 fine for a trafic violation. She explained she had a lot of studying to do over the week-end, wanted to catch up on some sleep, and being in jail, she couldn't go to any week-end parties. Besides, she earned $7, and saved $10 she would have spent outside. Total, $17.

HITLER COUP PICTURES!

STORK CAN'T GET TO THE HOSPITAL AND VICE VERSA

Dr. Arthur J. Atkinson, a specialist with offices at 55 East Washington street, and his wife, Inez, last night started out by automobile from their home at 45 Lakewood drive, Glencoe, for the Passavant hospital in an effort to beat the stork.

At Lake Shore drive and Grace street, Dr. Atkinson decided the stork was going to win, halted his car, and called to Park Policemen Clarence Welsh and Robert Oman, who were approaching in their machine.

The policemen offered to join the race. They placed Mrs. Atkinson in their car. The doctor went along. Then they raced down Lake Shore drive at 65 miles an hour. If the Passavant hospital had been at Oak street instead of Superior street, they'd have made it, for the baby—a seven pound boy—was born at Oak street and the drive.

ASKS FOR RIGHT TO BATHE IN HIS OWN BACK YARD

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—William Heller of Easton, Conn., asked the Supreme court today to let him bathe in the creek which flows through his back yard.

He was arrested when bathing there for violation of a Connecticut statute against bathing in reservoirs or streams tributary to them. Heller's creek flows, eventually, into a reservoir which supplies Bridgeport its drinking water.

Heller argued the law was not intended to cover bathing by the owner of the property through which streams flow, adding that, if it did, then it deprived him of his common law riparian right and violated the provisions of the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution.

If Your Tires Seem Weak, Park Car Near Professor's

Albuquerque, N. M., March 21.—(AP)—Dr. T. C. Donnelly of the University of New Mexico, hurrying to a luncheon, discovered a flat tire and called a repairman. When the job was done he climbed in, but his key wouldn't fit—his own automobile was parked immediately behind, tires O. K.

Vienna of Song Fades; Suicides Banish Smiles

For decades on a spring evening like tonight it used to be "Drink, Drink Brother of Mine! Leave All Your Sorrows at Home," at suburban wine festivals.

This epitomizes as much as anything the subdued, if more purposeful spirit that traditionally joyful Vienna has gained from her short Nazi rule.

You don't see many smiles. Faces are more serious. There are too many arrests and suicides for laughter. Prussian efficiency is replacing Viennese gemütlichkeit—jovialty.

American Films Lose Out.

Political uncertainty of previous years has disappeared, but uncertainty remains over coming currency measures and among the Jews.

Theaters feature German films, especially one about the career of Adolf Hitler. Vienna's ninety main motion picture houses preferred American films when they could get them, but today only one American production was shown at two theaters and a French picture at another.

Business has slowed up considerably. Most Jewish stores still are open, but sales almost are nil in many. Some have been taken over by the Nazi business organization; others display signs showing Jewish ownership.

Students Called Home.

The wealthier Jews, whose dreams now are of the United States, are being asked for "voluntary" contributions to the Nazi party. One offered a solicitor 100 shillings [formerly $18.90], but 1,000 shillings [$189] was demanded.

There has been a swift exodus of foreigners. Many American students obeyed parents' instructions by cable and telephone to return home immediately.

Tourist trade has dropped sharply, but it is hoped German tourists will compensate for the expected summer slump of British and American visitors, especially at the famous Salzburg music festivals.

Coffee houses, a Viennese trade mark, have been affected seriously—some are almost empty, some are overcrowded with uniformed Nazis and soldiers.

Fewer Flower Stands.

Thousands of lawyers and other functionaries are spending their nights poring over German laws and regulations.

There are fewer flower stands in the streets, but hawkers are doing a big business in swastika emblems and pictures of Hitler and other Nazi notables. There are books and maps showing Austria and Germany united.

Beggars are disappearing, except for a handful persisting in remaining at their old posts. They are soon to disappear entirely.

Commodity prices show little change—coffee still retails at $2.50 a pound, butter is 64 cents, sugar 13 cents, and beefsteak 60 cents a pound.

Church attendance is increasing except in Nazi-occupied synagogues. A sexton of Jewish cemetery said perviously burials averaged four to six a day; now there are twenty to thirty a day.

Col. Lindbergh Flies to Dublin for Air Conference

CROYDON, England, March 21.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, piloting his own plane, flew today to Dublin to attend the imperial conference on trans-Atlantic aviation opening tomorrow. A number of air ministry and postoffice officials also flew to Dublin.

TVA CHAIRMAN REFUSES TO GET OUT OR RETRACT

Challenges Power to Remove Him.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—After defying a Presidential ultimatum that he retract, resign or be removed, Chairman Arthur E. Morgan of the Tennessee Valley authority tonight walked out on the dramatic showdown of the TVA directorate row which President Roosevelt had scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. He left Washington.

Dr. A. E. Morgan. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

President Roosevelt delivered his ultimatum to the TVA chairman at the conclusion of the third and shortest of the three unprecedented hearings he has held on the charges Dr. Morgan has leveled against the integrity of his colleagues, David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan.

Ultimatum from President.

The President called upon his one-time warm friend publicly to withdraw his charges against his co-directors and agree to coöperate in the White House hearings; to resign if he did not wish to adopt the first course, or to face immediate removal or suspension if he did not wish to adopt the first or second course. Mr. Roosevelt gave Dr. Morgan until 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to make a decision.

Shortly after he left the White House Dr. Morgan said that he will not resign and has no intention of retracting his charges. He also challenged the President's power to remove him from office.

At the same time he announced that he would not go to the White House tomorrow afternoon to be present at the President's showdown on the TVA feud and that he has no intention of communicating with the President in any manner before or at that hour.

Leaves for Ohio.

At 6 o'clock Dr. Morgan boarded a train for Yellow Springs, O., site of Antioch college of which he was president before he was called to head the TVA directorate. His departure left Mr. Roosevelt holding the bag on his ultimatum.

White House chagrin over the departure of the TVA chairman, which made an anti-climax out of the ultimatum, was deepened by the fact that his challenge of the President's power to oust him was echoed on Capitol Hill by Senator George Norris [Rad., Neb.], the "father" of TVA. Senator Norris, who wrote the TVA act, expressed doubt that the President has such power. He added hastily that he had not carefully examined the legality of presidential removal as defined in the law.

The TVA act provides that a director may be removed by the President if he is guilty of 'requiring political credentials from employés. No one expects that Mr. Roosevelt will act under this provision and chop off the chairman's head because Dr. Morgan may have accepted selections of Postmaster General Farley.

Designed to Be Independent.

Last Wednesday during debate on the government reorganization bill Senator Norris defined his purpose in drawing the TVA act was to make the Valley experiment independent of the President. His statement at that time clearly asserted that he did not intend to vest any implied powers of removal of directors in the President.

"The very theory of the Tennessee Valley authority act itself," he said, "was to make the organization independent of any department, independent of any President, independent of any political change which might come over the country by which we would go from one extreme to another, as the country often does; to put the Tennessee Valley authority as nearly as possible upon a business basis, upon a permanent basis, so that it would be beyond the power of either party, if it came into power at some time, to overthrow the Tennessee Valley authority before it would or possible to have a friendly administration in power."

The act also provides that any director may be removed at any time by a joint resolution of congress. Because the only exception cited is that regarding political activity, it is argued that the President cannot remove or suspend Dr. Morgan, but must proceed against him before congress. The pending reorganization bill will grant the President power to suspend or remove all employes in the executive branches of the government.

Mr. Roosevelt encountered difficulty when he removed the late William B. Humphrey from the federal trade commission. The Supreme court ruled that Mr. Roosevelt had usurped authority and ordered payment of Humphrey's back salary with interest to the day of his death.

The Humphrey case is not directly in point, according to legal experts, because the federal trade commission is a quasi-judicial body where the TVA is purely an administrative body.

Heads Press Conference.

Dr. Morgan made it plain he has no intention to resign or retreat at a press conference he held after the White House hearing. He answered a barrage of questions slowly, quietly, and without displaying feeling.

"It is my judgment," he said, "that my resignation at this time would not be in the public interest. Therefore, I do not tender my resignation.

"I am leaving for Yellow Springs, O., for a short time. I do not intend to communicate with the White House between now and 2:30 tomorrow afternoon."

Then when he was asked what were his intentions, he said: "If I may sum up my attitude it is this: I do not choose to run away."

The inference was unmistakably that he would not quit or retract because he wants a congressional investigation into the TVA. He asked for such an investigation in the interests of "honesty and decency in government," when he first directed his accusations at his colleagues March 1.

Legal Course Not Determined.

Dr. Morgan would not say whether he was preparing to go to court to test the President's power to remove him should Mr. Roosevelt make such a move tomorrow. He added that he had not retained an attorney but was being advised by friends and admirers of the President.

He added that at no time during his attacks on his colleagues has he been advised by persons other than friends and admirers of the President.

"I had very warm affection for the President," he said.

He refused to amplify his employment of the past perfect tense. A slow smile gave the implication, however, that his affection had suffered during the hearings at which Mr. Roosevelt has acted as judge, jury, and prosecutor. Morgan supporters have likened the hearing to "Russian state show trials."

He would not say whether he will attempt to attend board meetings or otherwise exercise his position as TVA chairman. He said that he has been more or less out of the TVA picture because the other directors have been holding hearings without him.

He would not reveal his personal plans for the future. He said he did not know whether his "key would fit" Antioch college. The reference was to his replacement as president of the institution after a series of leaves of absence had been granted him by its trustees to direct TVA affairs.

Administration Backers Silent.

Dr. Morgan would not discuss the composition or method of procedure of a congressional investigating committee.

The day's developments gave impetus to the demand for a joint congressional investigation on Capitol hill. Supporters of the investigation demand rejoiced at Dr. Morgan's defiance of the White House and laughed over what they termed the ludicrous position President Roosevelt had thrust himself into by his ultimatum.

Administration supporters were silent. Privately they confessed that the presidential hearings were a grievous blunder and had stimulated rather than retarded the demand for a congressional investigation into the TVA scandals raised by Dr. Morgan. They agreed with Norris that Mr. Roosevelt will encounter difficulty in attempting to oust the chairman of the valley experiment.

At the outset of today's hearing Mr. Roosevelt recalled that last Friday he gave Dr. Morgan until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon to present evidence in support of his charges. The hearing of last week ended with the President accusing his old friend of contumacy.

Dr. Morgan read a letter, written today, as his answer. It read:

"Dear Mr. President: Since Friday last I have given the deepest consideration to the question you put to me at the end of the session. For reasons which I have given in the two conferences already held, I feel impelled to say that I cannot participate further in these proceedings.

"Assuring you of my deep respect, I am, "Very truly yours, "ARTHUR E. MORGAN."

President Reviews Case.

"I feel, especially because you are a very old friend of mine, and I have great respect and admiration for you, I feel very sorry that you have felt impelled to make this decision," the President said.

Mr. Roosevelt then launched on a 3,500 word review of the controversy between Dr. Morgan and his colleagues, which was in the nature of an indictment for the chairman's persistent refusal to give his evidence to the White House rather than to a congressional committee. He painted Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan as maligned men.

At the conclusion Dr. Morgan said that it was his deep conviction that the only course for him is the one he has pursued at the hearings. He has refused to give any evidence against his colleagues with one exception. He offered support of his charge that they were willing to enter into an agreement to settle the 5 million dollar claim brought by Senator George L. Berry [D., Tenn.] for alleged marble deposits under Norris dam reservoir when they knew Berry was acting in bad faith. The claim was disallowed last month by a federal commission.

The session ended, as revealed in the White House transcript, with:

CHAIRMAN MORGAN—I want to say this, that the opportunity to work under you in the TVA represented a very great opportunity for any one. I accepted that opportunity sincerely. In my opinion, I have used it in good faith and with reasonable effectiveness, and it is very painful, indeed, to me to have a situation of lack of harmony between us. That is a matter of very great regret to me, and I want to say that my position is taken not at all in any spirit of defiance—only in a spirit of trying to do what to me seems the necessary and proper thing to do in the circumstances. I thank you for your consideration.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT—I think we feel equally badly about this whole thing. Anything you want to say [turning to Dr. Harcourt Morgan and Mr. Lilienthal]?

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT [interposing]—The present status, if I can sum it up for information of all three of you, is that I have told Chairman Morgan that if he cannot accede to either of the two suggested courses, those being either to withdraw the charges or to resign, that I will, nevertheless, have to take some further action, and that I am giving him until tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 to present to me in person or in writing any reasons why, as chief executive, I should not take further action as a necessary result of the findings based on the record as it stands.

United States Navy Expansion

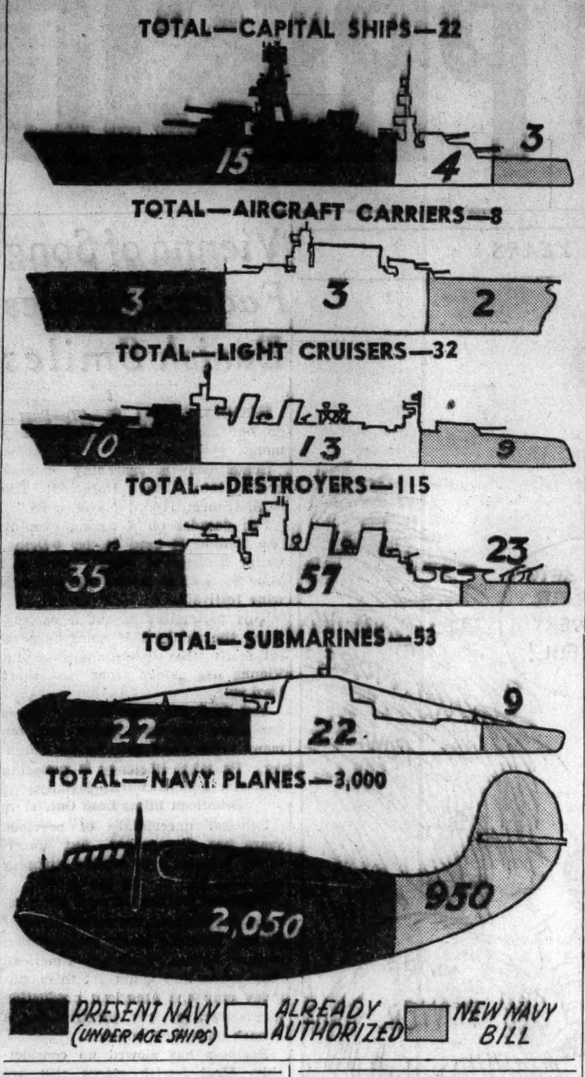
The complete ship or plane in each of the diagrams below shows what the total strength of these arms of the United States navy would be if the navy bill passed by the house is put into effect before the present units become obsolete. The total is reached by adding present strength (black), vessels already authorized (white), and those provided in the bill (shaded). Only those vessels under age were included in figures for the present navy.



OVER A BILLION VOTED BY HOUSE TO EXPAND NAVY

Bill Authorizes 46 Ships and 950 Planes.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—The house today swiftly approved by a vote of 292 to 100 the bill authorizing the construction of forty-six new combat ships and 950 additional navy planes at a cost of one billion 113 million dollars. The measure was sent to the senate.

The purpose of the big navy bill is to put the United States back on a 5-5-3 ratio with Great Britain and Japan. President Roosevelt, in a message on Jan. 28, said this ratio must be maintained to protect national security.

Enough ships have been authorized by congress in the bill approved today and in previous bills to keep the navy busy on construction for the next twelve years if existing shipyard facilities are not expanded. The navy hopes to acquire such facilities and reach the authorized maximum strength in five or six years.

Increases Provided For.

1. Three capital ships of 35,000 tons each. At present the United States has 15 such battleships and four more authorized.

2. Two aircraft carriers of 15,000 tons each. At present the United States has 3 carriers and 3 more authorized.

3. Heavy cruisers—none. At present the United States has 17 heavy cruisers and 1 more authorized.

4. Nine light cruisers carrying guns not exceeding 6 inch caliber. At present the United States has 10 light cruisers and 13 more authorized.

5. Twenty-three destroyers. The United States now has 35 under age destroyers [168 over age] and 57 more authorized.

6. Nine submarines. The United States now has 22 under age submarines [62 over age] and 22 more authorized.

Auxiliary Vessels Included.

7. Twenty-two auxiliary vessels, such as submarine, destroyer, and seaplane tenders.

8. A $3,000,000 dirigible.

9. Nine hundred and fifty airplanes, to bring the total authorized air strength of the navy up to 3,000 planes.

The bill also authorizes the expenditure of five million dollars for experimentation with small fighting craft of 3,000 tons and less.

The declaration of naval policy carried in the bill had been attacked by opponents as upholding the interventionist policy in Asia. But the house refused to eliminate the clause which stated that a bigger navy is necessary "to protect our commerce and citizens abroad and to support our national policies."

261 Democrats Vote Aye.

Voting for the bill were 261 Democrats, 30 Republicans, and 1 Progressive. The opposing 100 votes were cast by 31 Democrats, 57 Republicans, 7 Progressives, and 5 Farmer-Laborites.

Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, said his committee would begin hearings on the bill next week and that the sessions would be brief in view of the long hearings conducted by the house naval affairs committee. The bill is expected to pass the senate, although the opposition may be stronger than in the house.

Immediately after action on the navy bill the house passed and sent to the senate a measure liberalizing death compensation benefits for widows and children of world war veterans. It was estimated approximately 15,000 cases would be affected by the legislation and it would cost 2 or 3 million dollars the first year.

Finds She's Not Wed

VERA REYNOLDS.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—(AP)—Robert Ellis Reel, actor-writer, testified today he and Vera Reynolds, one-time screen favorite, lived together for years as man and wife but never married.

"We decided we were better off without a marriage ceremony—that we had the edge on some of our married friends who were unhappy," he said, "because if we ever came to a split, it would be a clean one."

Miss Reynolds is suing Reel for $150,000 for breach of promise. In her complaint she said she believed until 1935 that they were married but learned that a ceremony they went through in Greenwich, Conn., in 1926 was not valid. On the stand Reel denied there had been any ceremony at Greenwich.

U. S. BALKS AT CANADIAN PLAN FOR POWER PACT

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—The United States government tonight reiterated its willingness to enter into an agreement with Canada for a general development of power in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence river basin, but it balked at a particular Canadian proposal.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in a note to the Canadian government, refused Canada's request of Jan. 17 for exclusive water power rights in connection with a proposed diversion of the Kenogami river into Lake Superior.

President Roosevelt recently told a press conference he objected to importation of Canadian power because it could be shut off suddenly in time of war, and it might raise embarrassing problems of neutrality.

MORGAN BACKED BY REPUBLICAN WOMEN OF N. Y.

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. Henry R. Caraway, president of the Women's National Republican club, made a vigorous appeal to women today to send telegrams to Washington upholding Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority.

"Wire to Dr. Morgan," she said, "and tell him the people of the United States are behind him, that we know the President has no authority to put him to this inquisition, and that the people protest this high-handed kind of government."

LEHMAN SPLITS WITH ROOSEVELT ON SOAK RICH TAX

Hits Policy of Killing Goose That Lays Golden Egg.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's tax policy of soaking the rich was condemned today by his former close personal and political friend, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

In a letter to Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, Gov. Lehman said the existing and proposed federal estate taxes would infringe upon the independent sovereignty of the states by monopolizing their sources of revenue.

He said the proposed law would break up large estates and require the payment of taxes out of capital; and, taken in conjunction with the individual surtaxes reaching a maximum of 75 per cent, would prevent the accumulation of large estates, resulting in a diminution of revenues in future years.

In effect Gov. Lehman expressed the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt's tax policy is to kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

Produces Case of Jitters.

Gov. Lehman's letter denouncing the administration's tax policy came unsolicited and unheralded and caused great concern among the President's followers when word of its purport spread through the senate. The effect was similar to the sensation produced by Gov. Lehman's letter to Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.] last July when he assailed Mr. Roosevelt's scheme to pack the Supreme court. Prior to that time Gov. Lehman had been one of the President's most loyal supporters and closest friends. It was at Mr. Roosevelt's urgent request that Gov. Lehman consented reluctantly to run for reëlection as governor of New York in 1936.

Gov. Lehman recalled in his letter that the federal revenue act of 1926 graduated estate tax rates to 20 per cent and allowed, as an offset against the federal tax, death duties paid to the states, but not to exceed 80 per cent of the federal tax. In 1932, he added, the government imposed an additional estate tax with rates graduated to 70 per cent, but with no additional credit on account of death duties paid to the states.

Shows Abridgement of Rights.

Then, referring to the pending tax revision bill, Gov. Lehman said:

"It now is proposed, and sensibly so, to combine the two federal estate taxes. However, it is proposed to allow against the combined taxes a credit of 16⅔ per cent on account of death duties paid to the state.

"Stated bluntly, this ignores the equal rights of the states to levy death duties, and for every practical purpose tells these sovereign states they have a right to but one-sixth of the revenue to be derived from estate taxation.

"There is no justification for such an attitude on the part of the parent government. Its position cannot be defended.

"The effect of the measure before you will be to break up sizable estates and require the payment of taxes out of capital. The result will be a diminution of yield in future years, and this even though there be an increase in national income as great as reasonably may be expected."

Osgood Assails Provisions.

The estate and gift tax provisions of the pending legislation were assailed by Roy C. Osgood, vice president in charge of the trust department of the First National bank of Chicago, who testified before the finance committee in behalf of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

"Federal estate taxes have been increased heavily in recent years," said Osgood. "Combined with the state death duties, the taxes upon estates of moderate size have been increased nearly sevenfold since 1931. The severity of these taxes, coupled with the high income taxes and the onerous capital gains provision, have retarded the flow of capital into employment and wealth-producing enterprise."

3 Sailors Washed Into Sea as Big Wave Hits U. S. Ship

LONDON, March 21.—(AP)—Three members of the crew of the American steamer Aquarius were washed overboard off the Grand Banks during an Atlantic storm, Lloyds was advised today when the vessel docked at Cobh, Ireland. The Aquarius reported her tailshaft coupling bolts were broken in the storm. A mountainous wave swept the three seamen from the forward deck.

HORNER FORCES CARRY FIGHT TO NASH DOORSTEP

Wage Day's War of Words on "Bossism."

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Horner and his Chicago allies carried the fight to the Nash-Kelly Cook county Democratic organization yesterday in a big loop meeting dedicated chiefly to a systematic attack on "Bossism," the subject chosen as their theme for the Chicago phase of the spring primary battle.

Each of the four headliners at an overflow rally in the ballroom of the Hotel Sherman assailed the Chicago leadership of the party. They were the governor, Congressman Scott W. Lucas, the Horner candidate for United States senator; State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, Horner's principal ally here, and County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, who was omitted from the slate of the regular organization.

Hammer on Ballot Charges.

Their assault was based principally on the ditching of Judge Jarecki, which was assailed as an effort to grab the Chicago election machinery for dishonest purposes. The method by which the Cook county organization chose its state candidates was also attacked, and there was a contention that the Chicago machine method was far different from the downstate machine method which produced the Horner slate headed by Lucas.

While this bombardment was under way the Cook county central committee was in session in the Hotel Morrison only two blocks away. But while the Horner managers were ballyhooing their meeting through clusters of powerful loud speakers and a sound truck, the Nash group barred even newspaper men from its gathering.

Note Grimness in Silence.

Observers thought they saw a definite grimness in the silence, a determination to have the local machine go ahead with its systematic grinding, leaving the noise making of the campaign to the downstate machine. P. A. Nash, chairman of the committee and national committeeman for Illinois, did not even attend the meeting, leaving the instruction of ward and township committeemen to others.

This impression was strengthened by the fact that no orders were issued to drum up a crowd for the opening of the enlarged headquarters in the Morrison this afternoon. The house warming, it was said, will be only a housewarming and not a demonstration.

And the Republicans? They also had a session at the Hotel La Salle, also within a radius of two blocks. A gathering of county committee members and candidates listened to a talk on national issues by State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield. Those in attendance were referred to as "a happy family."

Loud Speakers Help Out.

The Horner meeting in the Sherman almost lived up to the predictions of the promoters. In addition to the 3,500 packed into the hotel ballroom, there were possibly as many again in the hotel corridors and lobbies and on the Randolph street sidewalks where they could hear the speeches over loud speakers.

A large portion of the crowd consisted of state employés. Many whose faces were known were seen there and it was reported that state offices were deserted all afternoon. As an indication of how the attendance was obtained, it was said that about sixty state highway policemen received their orders to attend without uniforms, but with stars, revolvers, and identification cards.

Governor Is Keynoter.

Although Gov. Horner was the last of the quartet to speak, he was considered the keynoter for the opening assault of the campaign, which will wind up exactly three weeks from today. Therefore there was some surprise that his condemnation of the Nash-Kelly organization—he called it Kelly-Nash—was less bitter than that of the other speakers. But he paid his compliments to his opponents of 1936.

He referred to this campaign as the "fight against the bossism that is destructive of everything I deem fine and purposeful in the principles of our party."

"In this campaign," he said later, "our fellow Democrats must make the choice. The people of this county and state will have to choose one of two sides. They are either for or against the Kelly-Nash machine. There is no middle road in this fight. We smashed the machine in '36. This time it has got to stay smashed."

Although Congressman Lucas went to some length in presenting his favorite downstate argument that Chicago is entitled to one United States senator but that downstate should have the other, he was not far behind his associates in denouncing the pet issue of the day.

Lucas predicted that he and the rest of the Horner state ticket will come up to the Cook county line with a lead of 300,000 votes.

Courtney Foresees Victory.

State's Attorney Courtney also expressed his confidence of victory on April 12.

The prosecutor asserted that the refusal to indorse Judge Jarecki for renomination proved that the organization will not tolerate public officials "who defy back room orders from the penthouse."

"If this policy on the part of the bosses is permitted," he continued, "there is no inducement whatsoever for sincere effort on the part of any public official. If the Kelly-Nash machine should be successful in ousting Judge Jarecki, it would be a warning to every judge on the bench—the criminal bench as well as the others—to obey the bosses or be thrown out."

Courtney used extreme emphasis in making this statement:

"The big issue is the ballot box!"

Judge Jarecki attacked bossism particularly as he said it was manifested in his own case.

"The bosses learned," he said, "that they couldn't be against the people all the time unless they could control the voting. So the machine decided to take over the ballot box.

"I am proud to say that I have stood in the way of their scheme. I am proud to say that is one of the real reasons they left me off their slate.

"Fortunately the Kelly-Nash machine hasn't got its hands on the ballot box yet, and if the voters turn out on primary day they will stop Kelly and Nash from ever getting the ballot box in their grasp. That must be done at all costs."

Rogers' Son to Wed

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

James B. Rogers, son of the noted humorist, and Miss Marguerite Kemmler, as they applied for license to marry in Los Angeles.

Hollywood, Cal., March 21.—[Special.]—James Blake Rogers, the late Will Rogers, youngest son, and Miss Marguerite Astrea Kemmler filed notice of intention to wed today. The marriage will take place in St. John's Episcopal church next Saturday evening. James, 22 years of age, lives at his father's old Jalana ranch near Lompoc, while Miss Kemmler, 20, resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Kemmler. James' mother will attend the marriage ceremony, but his older brother, Will Jr., is in Spain.

9 CHICAGO AREA WOMEN SEEKING ASSEMBLY SEATS

2 Incumbents Campaign for Re-election.

Woman's gentle voice is evident in the current primary campaign, but in smaller volume than it has been for many years. Of fourteen women seeking nominations for the general assembly, only four are from Chicago proper and five from suburban towns.

Of the nine candidates in the Chicago area, some are campaigning for motherhood, some for a revision of the school system, some for old age pensions—all issues intended to arouse the woman's vote. All have a driver's license law as a plank in their platforms.

Two Now in Legislature.

Only two women now sit in the legislature. Both are Republicans, and both are campaigning industriously for reëlection. One is Mrs. Bernice T. Van der Vries of Winnetka, who has represented the winding 7th or "shoestring" district since 1934. The other is Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove, who went to the house of representatives in 1922 and has stayed there ever since.

With Mrs. Van der Vries, nomination means election. Consequently, her campaign is intense. Although she voted against the Schnackenberg parole reform bill, the Legislative Voters' league terms her a dependable and valuable legislator, with sound judgment and marked independence in legislation, an earnest and effective worker on committees dealing with educational and municipal problems, and an able debater.

"I'm making from five to six speeches a week," she said, "talking in favor of a state board of education, city manager plan [for cities that want it], a driver's license law, and a permanent relief department in the department of public welfare."

First Woman in Assembly.

Mrs. O'Neill, Illinois' first woman legislator, formerly was known as "the little lady from Du Page county." She still is little, but can be both aggressive and acid when aroused. The Legislative Voters' league says "she is ending her seventh term with a good record."

Like Mrs. Van der Vries, she voted against parole reform, and likewise against a slot machine investigation. She favors, she says, local control of public education, an old age pension of $1 a day, revision of the election laws, the merit system in civil service, and a driver's license law.

From Manhattan, Will county, comes "Blue Eagle" Ruth Brannon [Dem.], a candidate in the 41st district. Ruth received her name in 1934 when she hovered under the protective wings of the NRA emblem in campaigning unsuccessfully for congress.

Now, however, she calls herself "Look Up the Record" Ruth. This slogan refers not to her record, for she has none in public office other than as chief deputy coroner of Will county, but to that of Joseph Sam Perry [Dem.], the incumbent.

Through strange coincidence or gallantry, the name of Matilda Fenberg [Rep.], 5401 South Cornell avenue, heads the legislative ballot for the 5th or Hyde Park district in violation of the practice of listing the incumbent first.

Miss Fenberg has practiced law in Chicago for fifteen years. From 1929 to 1931 she was assistant corporation counsel. She favors economy in government, decrease of taxes, home rule and women on juries.

Candidate in 6th District.

Helen M. Sewell, 6585 Lakewood avenue [Rep.], is conducting a quiet campaign in the 6th district which includes much of the north side. She is 43 and terms herself a parliamentarian, having been active in many women's clubs, among them the American Legion auxiliary. She wants a driver's license law, parole reform, the city manager plan, the merit system and state help for Chicago schools.

In the 9th district, the southwest side of Chicago, Irene Gorywoda Tomas, who received the Republican nomination for congress in 1936, is running without official endorsement. She is 34, a widow and the mother of a 13 year old son. While campaigning, she also practices law, does accounts, manages a real estate office and a dry goods store and teaches the piano.

Two Republican women are running in the 14th district [Kane and Kendall counties]. One is Mrs. Maud N. Peffers of Aurora, widow of John Peffers, who served the 14th district in Springfield for six terms and died shortly after having been elected to his 7th in 1936.

Has Six Men Opponents.

Mrs. Bertha Robinson George of Geneva is the other 14th district candidate. She is the wife of Dr. Edward George and the mother of two grown sons. Resident of Geneva for 33 years, she says she is in politics now "because for a long time people have asked me to run." She has six male opponents as well as Mrs. Peffers.

One Chicagoan is a candidate for nomination to the upper house of the general assembly. She is Mrs. Antoinette H. Nauseda [Dem.] of 917 West 33d street, a candidate in the 9th district. Mrs. Nauseda is a Lithuanian social worker and writer, who has represented her people in many international events. During the war she was the only woman member of the Lithuanian national council.

"My platform," she said, "is this: Conservation of motherhood through more liberal mothers' pensions, old age security and maximum wages."

FAITH BROKEN BY ROOSEVELT, LYONS CHARGES

Recalls Job and Security Promises of 1932.

Rockford, Ill., March 21.—(AP)—Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, accused the national Democratic administration tonight of failing to provide the jobs and security he said had been promised in the 1932 campaign.

Lyons, a state representative, addressed an audience in the Masonic cathedral, where Republican candidates for state and congressional offices opened the third week of their campaign. Starting next Wednesday they will conduct ten meetings in four days, opening at Lawrenceville and closing at Harrisburg Saturday night.

Jobs and Security Missing.

"They said," Lyons recalled, "they were going to give people jobs and security. Here's a full page advertisement from their campaign of 1932 saying so. But where are the jobs? More men are out of work today than ever before. Where is the security? We are now in the midst of the most serious business recession that the United States ever has known."

Other speakers at the rally were George E. Lambur Jr. of Chicago, candidate for clerk of the Supreme court; Frederick A. Virkus of La Grange, who is seeking nomination as congressman-at-large; and state Senator Simon E. Lantz of Congerville, candidate for congressman-at-large.

Tells Fear of Roosevelt.

"Little business," Virkus said, "is vocal today for the first time in its history. There was a time when any man could launch a new business with some hope of success. Today, even long established concerns hiring ten, twenty, and fifty persons are fearful that they cannot continue in business under policies of the Roosevelt administration.

"There can be no real prosperity in this country until the buying power of agriculture is reëstablished," Lantz said. "This represents 40 per cent of the buying power of the country, and with labor makes up seventy per cent of the buying power. Give these two factors in American economic life a chance and they will buy the country into greater prosperity than we ever have known."

FREE ALBERTA LEGISLATOR; IN JAIL FOR LIBEL

OTTAWA, Ont., March 21.—(AP)—The Canadian government tonight ordered the release from prison of Joseph Unwin, social credit member of the Alberta provincial legislature, who was serving a three month term for defamatory libel.

No mention was made of G. F. Powell, British adviser to Premier William Aberhart's social credit government, who is serving a six month term on a similar charge.

Unwin had served approximately half of his term.

Congressman Avers Congress Wastes Half of Tax Funds

Business men attending a luncheon at the Union League club yesterday were told by a fellow business man who knows congress as an insider that congress wastes half of the money collected in taxes.

The speaker was Congressman Arthur P. Lamneck, a Democrat, of Columbus, O. He said he is one of the few Democratic business men in the house of representatives and that John L. Lewis of the C. I. O. has threatened to spend $50,000 to prevent his reëlection. His talk on taxation was extemporaneous after a prepared speech was broadcast over the radio.

Tells of Bribe System.

"The system we have of collecting money in every state and dispensing it in Washington is a bad one," Congressman Lamneck said. "I don't like the word bribe, but this system enables the administration to offer something to members of congress for their votes.

"For instance, the state of Alabama paid ten million dollars in federal taxes in 1937 and got back sixty-one millions. Suppose a congressman or senator from Alabama gets off the reservation. The administration calls him in and tells him what's what. Arizona paid three millions and got back twenty-three millions; Arkansas paid six millions and got back fifty-seven millions.

"And so it goes all the way, with a few states paying the nation's bills. Illinois paid 409 millions and got back 221 millions. If congress keeps up as it has in the past you will have to pay 820 millions next year, and no business in the world can stand up under such a taxation system.

Asks Aid for Business.

"We take the tax money in Washington and dissipate half of it. If business is not aided in the next few months business will not be able to pay taxes and the relief rolls will be greater."

Lamneck warned against letting the federal government take over the educational system of the country.

"When you place education in the hands of the federal government," he asserted, "you are losing the liberty your forefathers fought and died for."

In his prepared speech Congressman Lamneck said he was disgusted with the way in which high and responsible officials have been speaking of the business man and of the exaggerated and distorted picture they have painted of the distribution of wealth in the country. Regarding the "recession" he said:

"Last summer a chill went through the business world, as well as into the hearts of millions of orderly, sane, moderate middle class people when the wave of sitdown strikes went over the land.

"The government, you will recall, remained silent on the subject and the secretary of labor even remarked that the legality or illegality of such strikes had not been determined.

Uneasiness Brings Slump.

"It almost seemed for a month or two as if lawlessness, disorder, violence, and disregard of property rights were to continue unchecked over great industrial sections of the country. Naturally stocks, commodities, and all business took a tumble.

"Too many actions have been taken in recent years to punish business. It is not only unfair but a constantly disturbing factor for business to be subject to cut-throat competition from the government itself. Such competition is usually made possible only by subsidies from the general taxpayer and it always discourages private investment, upon which we must rely for the major part of employment."

OPEN 13TH TRIAL FOR VOTE FRAUD AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., March 21.—(AP)—A 1st ward Democratic precinct captain issued orders at the 1936 election, the government charged today, that in case Republican judges protested the way the vote was handled to "knock their damned heads off."

In the government's opening statement in Kansas City's 13th vote fraud case, Richard K. Pheips, assistant district attorney, said the prosecution would produce testimony that William J. McMahon, Democratic precinct captain and head of the city's building inspection department, told Republican judges:

"We don't care anything about the law. We've run things in this precinct 16 years and we'll run them today as we always have." The six defendants—five Democrats and one Republican—are charged with conspiracy to commit frauds by altering Republican ballots and changing them to Democratic.

BLAZE LEAVES 12 HOMELESS.

BRITAIN TO TELL WHAT SHE'LL DO TO STOP HITLER

Premier to Bare Policy in Commons Thursday.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 21.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today told the house of commons he will make a definite declaration of his government's foreign policy on Thursday.

Ever since Adolf Hitler's conquest of Austria Chamberlain has been besieged on all sides to announce what his government would do in case Germany invaded Czechoslovakia. France, particularly, demanded that the prime minister show his hand.

In response to a query whether the United States had been consulted during the European war crisis, Chamberlain said: "The British government has kept the United States government generally informed of its attitude toward recent events in Europe."

Reports Progress in Rome.

The prime minister announced that "good progress" had been made in Rome by British and Italian negotiators for an accord. He said no agreement has been reached.

It was predicted that the pact would embody an agreement on differences in the Mediterranean; a British agreement to recognize Premier Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia through the league of nations, and an Italian agreement to withdraw Italian soldiers from the Spanish civil war.

Chamberlain's declaration on foreign policy is awaited eagerly. Calculation of the forces in play which might precipitate a European war has presented Chamberlain with the most onerous task a British prime minister has had to face since 1914.

The focal point of tension is Czechoslovakia — the composite state created under the Versailles treaty after the world war with a mixed population of 14,750,000, of whom almost 25 per cent are Germans. This German minority is clamoring for some kind of autonomy. German troops are standing by at the frontiers of the western half of the country in which 3,250,000 Germans are concentrated.

France and Russia Back Czechs.

Because Germany annexed Austria by military occupation, it is feared she may attempt a similar coup against Czechoslovakia. France has said that she will defend the Czechs Russia has declared she will do the same.

France can help Czechoslovakia only by launching an attack against Germany in the west. She has said that is what she would do. Under these circumstances where would Britain stand? This is the question which Chamberlain will answer.

The British government has been called upon to make clear whether it will support France in offering an effective opposition in case Germany invades Czechoslovakia.

The cabinet now has before it the objective reports from the war, air and navy departments on the implications of war if joined on this basis. It also has full summaries of the political considerations. These cover both the actual situations in other nations and the possible consequences arising from various courses of action.

Fear Spread of Power.

On one hand it is represented to the British government that failure to join with France in upholding the principle of national integrity and independence in Europe will have grave consequences. It is said that Germany, encouraged by her conquest of Austria, will proceed rapidly to establish herself in accordance with the doctrin of Hitler's book "Mein Kampf" [My Struggle] as the unquestioned dominant power in Europe.

This achieved, it is claimed Germany will have acquired control over sufficient resources to fortify herself for a prolonged war with France and Britain whose colonial possessions and customers she covets.

If disinterest is proclaimed by Britain, the Labor opposition says, it would create a wide gulf between France and Britain and convince smaller European powers that they must come to terms with Germany on the best basis they could negotiate in their weakness.

HULL CONDEMNS REBEL BOMBING OF CIVILIAN AREAS

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's air bombardments of Barcelona brought from Secretary of State Cordell Hull today an emphatic expression against such methods of warfare. He voiced "a sense of horror" at the air raids, in which he said the loss of life among noncombatants was perhaps greater than ever before in history.

In a formal statement read at his press conference, Mr. Hull said he felt he was speaking for the whole American people. There was no indication at the state department that the air raids would be the subject of a diplomatic representation to the Spanish insurgent leader.

LOYALISTS BUILD NEW FRONT UNDER MACHINE GUN FIRE

Line Reinforced; Rebel Push Halted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France, March 21.—The Spanish loyalists today based their reconstructed defense line in eastern Spain just outside Torrevelilla and went ahead with the construction of barbed wire barricades despite strafing by machine gunners in rebel planes.

Torrevelilla is nine miles beyond Alcaniz, the rebels' advance base in Aragon province. The government command at Barcelona declared the rebel push has been halted, loyalist troops have had a rest, and are capable of resisting any new push toward the Mediterranean. Reinforcements have been added to the line.

Rugged Hills Natural Barrier.

Between Torrevelilla and the sea is a low but rugged range of hills which the loyalists count on as a supporting barrier against the motorized rebels who swept across the plains of Aragon. Torrevelilla is about nineteen miles from the border of Catalonia and about forty miles from the sea.

Meanwhile the rebels were reported "mopping up" within a triangle nine miles on each side, with its points at Torrevelilla, Alcaniz, and Calanda. After the rapid advance of last week, some government troops had remained behind hidden in villages within this area.

Britain to Rescue Subjects.

Barcelona asserted that Gen. Francisco Franco used 150,000 men in last week's campaign and charged that only one out of eight was a Spaniard.

The British consulate at Barcelona today advised British subjects to be ready to leave Barcelona Wednesday when the British cruiser Penelope would arrive to rescue them. There have been no new air bombings of Barcelona since Friday, but today the official count of last week's toll stood at 834 dead and 1,279 wounded.

FUNDS FROM HOME FREE 2 U. S. GIRLS FROM POLISH JAIL

WARSAW, March 21.—(AP)—Ruth and Zina Dickstein, two New York City girls arrested March 7 on charges of "insulting Polish officials," were released today on bail of 1,000 zloyts [$190] which relatives had cabled from America.

The American embassy was negotiating for an expedited trial. The girls were arrested at Zbaszyn, Poland, in an altercation over passport visas. They were en route to England.

Now in Warsaw, awaiting trial, they said they had become hysterical when told at the frontier that their visas had expired.

Nazis Tell League Austria Is No Longer a Member

GENEVA, March 21.—(AP)—The league of nations today announced receipt of notice from Berlin that Austria "no longer is considered" a member of the international body. Joseph Avenol, secretary general of the league, said, however, that the usual two-year notice must be complied with before Austria's withdrawal is completed.

BRITONS TOLD NOT TO BOW TO JAP SENTRIES IN PEIPING STREETS

LONDON, March 21.—(AP)—The British government does not want Britons to bow to Japanese sentries.

Asked in the house of commons today if the Japanese command at Pieping had not issued orders that foreigners bow to Japanese guards, Prime Minister Chamberlain replied: "Instructions have been sent that if this practice existed it should be discontinued at once."

STOKOWSKI TAKES GARBO ON AUTO TRIP TO SO. ITALY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 21.—Greta Garbo and her "good friend," Leopold Stokowski, symphony orchestra conductor, slipped away from their haven at the Villa Cimbrone in Ravello in Stokowski's automobile at 8 o'clock this morning.

Tonight they were reported to be "somewhere in southern Italy." Police in the village where they stopped said the film actress and her companion were headed for Taormina, Sicily, where, it is reported, they intend to get married.

Exiled Spanish President's Son Dies of War Illness

BARCELONA, March 21.—(AP)—José Alcala Zamora, youngest son of the exiled former president of Spain, died in Valencia tonight of illness contracted at the war front. He was 25 years old. He and an older brother, Luis, joined the government cause last June against the wishes of their father. Niceto Alcala Zamora, first president of the second Spanish republic, went to Paris a short time after he was dismissed by the Cortes [parliament] on April 7, 1936.

Relief Shelter Inmate Found Slain in Alley

With his head bashed in, a man identified as William Czchowski, 55 years old, was found murdered early today in the alley in the rear of a tavern at 2601 West 24th place. His coat was thrown over his face. Stanley Piechowicz, the tavern owner, identified the body. He told police that Czchowski was unemployed, and lived in relief shelters.

LITH SURRENDER TO POLAND STIRS CABINET CRISIS

Kaunas Cabinet Reported to Have Resigned.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 21.—The entire Lithuanian cabinet has resigned as a result of the government's surrender to Poland, it was reported in this capital tonight. Officials declined to confirm or deny the reports.

Premier Jonas Tubelis, it was rumored, had presented his resignation to President Antanas Smetona, but it is not known whether it was accepted.

Foreign Minister Stasys Lazoraitis and Minister of Justice Silingas are known to have offered their resignations. The foreign minister advocated surrendering to Poland's demands to end the unofficial state of war which had existed between the two nations since 1918.

Quarrel Over Surrender.

The reported resignations are said to be due to disagreement over the Kaunas government's capitulation to Warsaw in the face of Poland's threat to invade Lithuania.

Meanwhile, representatives of the big powers said that peace has been immeasurably strengthened by the outcome of the Polish-Lithuanian conflict. They believe that the possibility of forming a strong bloc of neutral nations to stand between Germany and Russia is now more likely.

Through achievement of peace between the two countries they said that the Baltic entente, which links Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania, has become strengthened. Some diplomatic observers predicted the road is now open for closer coöperation among the Baltic and Scandinavian countries and Poland.

Aim to Prevent War.

These countries, the diplomats said, are interested in maintaining the present political arrangement along the Baltic. They intend to prevent Germany and Russia from coming to blows if at all possible. Lithuania, the diplomats added, now realizes that Russia cannot be depended upon as an ally, and predicted that her policy will be changed accordingly.

A special agent, dispatched to Russia to discover whether the soviet government was making preparations in White Russia to intervene on the side of Lithuania in the nation's conflict with Poland, reported that no special troop movements had been observed.

Russia is the only country which had recognized Lithuania's claim to Vilna as valid and promised intervention if either Poland or Germany attacked Lithuania. Lithuania was forced to give up her claim to Vilna which the Poles seized in 1920.

MEXICAN TROOPS QUELL FARMERS WHO SEIZED TOWN

Nogales, Ariz., March 21.—(AP)—Federal troops controled the city of Ciudad Obregon, Sonora, Mexico, tonight, reports reaching the border said, after armed agrarians relinquished possession of mills and municipal buildings they had seized earlier in the day as a protest against policies of the local administration.

Agrarian leaders, border dispatches said, agreed to withdraw from the city pending outcome of a petition asking Gov. Roman Yocupicio of Sonora to oust the city administration of Presidente [mayor] Felix Verduzco.

Agrarian leaders claimed Verduzco's administration was hostile to their interests. Ciudad Obregon is a city of 10,000 inhabitants in the center of the rich Yaqui valley.

GERMANY TRIES 22 SOCIALISTS HELD IN 'TREASON' PLOT

Charges Czechs Sought to Revive Party.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 21.—While every German newspaper today published extracts from British papers purporting to convey the impression that England is not willing to protect Czechoslovakian borders in case of an armed conflict, the German courts were busy trying a number of "Marxist traitors." The defendants are charged with attempting to revive the Socialist party in Germany with help from Czechoslovakia.

Twenty-two former Socialist party officials are being tried by the Breslau Court of Appeals for high treason. Proceedings against 20 other Socialists also charged with treasonable relations with Czechoslovakia will be opened before the dreaded Peoples' court soon.

Propaganda Drive Begins.

The biggest election campaign ever held in Germany will start tomorrow when Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, addresses a vast audience in Berlin's Sports palace on the Austro-German plebiscite April 10.

On Wednesday the powerful propaganda apparatus of the Nazis will be geared up to top speed in a nation-wide "roll call" of the Nazi party and its affiliated organizations. Party leaders, Storm Troopers, Schutz Staffelmen [hand picked guards], the Nazi motor corps and the Nazi flying corps will unite in their efforts to line up 50,000,000 Pan-German voters for the plebiscite.

A new reichstag of greater Germany will be elected and Austrians will vote on their absorption into Germany. It was predicted that the new reichstag will hold its initial session in Vienna as a gesture to the Austrians. The meeting probably will be held April 20, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's 49th birthday.

Goering to Visit Jugo-Slavia.

After the plebiscite a number of Hitler's lieutenants will proceed to southeastern Europe in an attempt to consolidate Germany's powerful position there.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering is scheduled to go to Jugo-Slavia to pay a state visit to the Belgrade government. Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop probably will visit Turkey. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, economics adviser, is also expected to visit the Balkan countries.

A law prohibiting the purchase of arms by the general public will be abolished April 1, the official gazette announced. A special permit is the only requirement now for the possession of firearms.

CIVILIZATION 'NOT WORTH SAVING' IN EUROPE — BISHOP

LONDON, March 21.—(AP)—The Anglican [Episcopal] church bishop of Chelmsford says that Europe is more savage than in 1,000 years and that such civilization is "not worth preserving." Writing in the diocesan chronicle, Dr. Henry A. Wilson observes that "a civilization which can give birth to shameful persecution of Jews," and to a "lying dishonesty, which makes a mock of treaties and agreements, is a civilization not worth preserving. It won't require a war to kill it; it is dying, if not already dead, in more than one European country."

GERMANS RESENT BRAZIL'S BAN ON NAZI ACTIVITIES

Berlin Foreign Office Calls Ruling "Amazing."

BERLIN, March 21.—(AP)—Anti-German measures in Brazil today drew the dissatisfaction of the German foreign office organ. Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz called "extremely amazing" action taken "against Germandom," especially in southern Brazil.

"It may be hoped," it said, "that President [Getulio] Vargas shortly will be able to establish conditions which will permit Germans and their organization to develop quietly and without disturbance, and that unnecessary friction be avoided."

Brazilian Leaders Mum.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 21.—(AP)—Brazilian government officials tonight declined comment on diplomatic tension developing with Germany as a result of suppression of Nazi activities in South America's largest nation.

Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha said the less said the better concerning the Berlin foreign office's dissatisfaction with President Getulio Vargas' ban on Nazis.

The president last week reiterated his determination to permit no Nazi activity among the 155,000 Germans in Brazil and rejected a protest made by Karl Ritter, the German ambassador.

The president and other officials of his authoritarian régime, which abolished all political parties, considered that Nazi activities in southern Brazil transcended their asserted cultural program and were in fact political activities.

When Nazi headquarters were closed in the states of Santa Catharina, Parana, and Rio Grande do Sul, the government said its action was based on the political ban decree of Dec. 3.

"If national parties must be abolished, foreign parties also must go," the government said.

PERSONALTY TAX LEVIES FOR 1937 CUT 141 MILLION

15,489 Complaints Heard by Appeals Board.

The county board of tax appeals announced yesterday that it had reduced by $141,019,379 the $780,496,637 personal property assessment for 1937 made by Assessor John S. Clark. The reduction eliminated approximately half of the $283,000,000 increase in the 1937 total assessment over that for 1936.

A compilation issued by the board showed that in hearings on 15,489 complaints against the 1937 assessments it had sliced $145,201,774 from the original assessments and had ordered increases totaling $4,182,395.

A preliminary report issued simultaneously by Clark placed the total reduction made by the board at $146,240,337 and the net reduction at $142,323,411. Clark's compilation showed that the board cut 44 per cent off the $309,278,936 assessments recommended by the assessor against the complaining taxpayers.

Fuel for Controversy.

The big reduction widened the breach in the controversy between Clark and the two board members, Emmett Whealan and Paul Drymalski. Clark asserted that the board made improper and arbitrary cuts, and the board members declared reductions were necessary to correct errors and unjust assessments made by Clark.

The board, in a recapitulation of the reductions and increases it ordered, issued the following tabulation showing reasons for changes:

REDUCTIONS.
Duplicate assessments	$ 8,541,553
Improper penalties	29,485,067
Nontaxable stocks and bonds	47,986,220
Improper assessment of capital stock	13,283,300
All other reductions	45,905,644
Total reductions	$145,201,774
INCREASES.
Increases on assessors' recommendation	$ 2,816,408
Increases made by board	1,365,987
Total increases	$ 4,182,395
Net reduction	141,019,379

The board stated that of the total reduction $7,076,879 was recommended by Clark and that he agreed to an additional $9,761,898 of the decreases.

Confirm Security Assessments.

The board upheld Clark in assessment of securities owned by holding companies maintaining their main offices in Chicago, but incorporated in other states. The board confirmed most of the 30 million dollars of valuations assessed against 33 companies. The largest was an assessed valuation of $10,028,151 against the Standard Gas and Electric company.

Following is the board's summary showing by townships the 1937 personalty assessed valuations as originally fixed by Clark, the final figure after making changes ordered by the board, and a comparison with the final 1936 figures:

U. S. Marine in Peiping Faces Robbery Charges

PEIPING, March 21.—(AP)—Private Matthew Mannherz of Bristol, Pa., member of the United States embassy marine guard here, today faced a general courtmartial on charges of armed robbery and absence without leave. A Chinese watchman identified Mannherz as one of a gang who raided the premises of the former Russo-Asiatic bank in the embassy quarter on the night of Dec. 21 and carried off a quantity of jewelry.

Japanese Trapped

(Story in adjoining column.)

Chinese guerrilla forces and Red armies operating within Japanese occupied areas (diagonally shaded) yesterday claimed to have cut off 40,000 Japanese troops in Shansi province from their supply bases by raids on communication lines. Chinese Reds asserted 6,000 Japanese troops were hemmed in the elbow of the Yellow river (indicated by arrow) by the raids.

CHANGE OF HEART ABOUT ALIMONY FREES HUSBAND

When the doors of the Circuit court bull pen closed behind him yesterday, Frank Mendys suddenly had a change of heart, borrowed a blank check from Norman Becker, his wife's attorney, and paid the $80 support money he was in arrears. His wife, Mary, 39 years old, 951 North Oakley avenue, showed recently that Mendys, who is an official of the Alcott Spring company, 2522 South Western avenue, has an income larger than he had admitted. His separate maintenance payments were then increased from $25 to $35 a week.

But he made no payments at all after that, Becker told Judge Thomas J. Lynch yesterday. Judge Lynch ordered Mendys to jail for contempt, but when the prisoner changed his mind about paying, Judge Lynch released him.

Norway Asks $13,000,000 for Extra Defense Plans

Trapped by Chinese Red Troops Behind Lines.

BY JAMES D. WHITE.

WITH THE CHINESE RED ARMY IN CENTRAL CHINA, March 21.—(AP)—The commander of the Chinese Red army today asserted 40,000 Japanese troops in southern Shansi province were cut off from their supply bases and in greatest danger of defeat since the Chinese-Japanese war started.

The commander, Gen. Yu Chengtsao, drew a grave picture of the Japanese military position in Shansi where their forces have been moving south toward the Red capital, Sian.

At his field headquarters in central Hopei province, south of Peking, Gen. Yu also recounted a series of victories in the last month which put the Japanese in a precarious position. His headquarters are behind the lines Japanese columns have thrust farthest southward into Central China.

Food Dropped from Planes.

Japanese troops in southern Shansi have been fed for the last six days with food dropped from planes, Gen. Yu said. Their mountainous communication lines eastward along the Peking-Hankow railway were cut by 30,000 Chinese troops.

In two places behind their Shansi lines Chinese troops of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek cut another railway, leaving the Japanese severed from all supply bases.

Three Japanese transport columns, attempting to take supplies to the beleaguered army, were annihilated as they struggled through Shansi mountain passes lined with snipers.

Meanwhile, Gen. Chiang's armies were reported to have recrossed the Yellow river northward in four places pushing back Japanese attempting to unite their conquests in North and Central China.

Report 1,700 Japanese Killed.

The Shansi fighting has resulted in killing 1,700 Japanese in the last two days, Gen. Yu said. He listed three recent victories in southern Shansi below Taiyuan as responsible for the Japanese casualties. He said 200 Chinese troops were killed in the same engagements.

At the farthest tip of Shansi, where the great elbow of the Yellow river bends, a separate force of 6,000 Japanese was reported hemmed in with all communications cut.

All foreign missionaries were denied permission by Japanese authorities to enter Shansi, and two foreigners who came out of the province said the Japanese told them to "keep your mouths shut."

Japs Halted at Grand Canal.

SHANGHAI, March 22.—[Tuesday.]—Chinese defenders at two points on the south bank of the Grand canal today were fighting off Japanese attempts to cross and cut the Lunghai railway near Suchow in southern Shantung province.

The Chinese already had dynamited bridges across the canal. A Japanese cavalry force yesterday tried to ford the canal, but was turned back by machine gun fire after suffering heavy losses. Light artillery failed to budge the Chinese and today the Japanese brought up their big guns in an attempt to break down enemy resistance.

The Japanese, as the result of their heavy drive of recent days, had reached Hanchwang, twenty miles north of Suchow. Twenty-five miles to the east another force had reached Taierhchwang.

The Hanchwang drive, which had moved southward along the Tientsin-Pukow railroad, was still harassed by Chinese guerrilla forces making flank attacks.

CATHOLICS LOSING RIGHTS IN AUSTRIA; NAZIS JAIL PRIESTS

(Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.)

BERLIN, March 21.—The Catholic church of Austria suffers a heavy loss through automatic expiration of the Vatican's concordat with the Vienna government which went much further than the German concordat. The Catholic church of Austria will lose widespread internal juridical privileges and many other advantages enjoyed under the Austrian treaty which the German concordat does not provide.

Reports are reaching Vienna of measures against the Catholic clergy, which was the most solid pillar of the former régime.

These reports announce the detention of several bishops by Storm Troopers, searches of upper Austrian monasteries, notably that of St. Florian, where arms and anti-Nazi pamphlets allegedly were found, and the arrest of several priests in the same province.

SWISS VOW FIGHT TO LAST DROP OF BLOOD IF PERILED

Proclaim Duty to Guard Passage of Alps.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 21.—(AP)—The Swiss parliament today roared unanimous approval of a government declaration that Switzerland would defend her independence "to the last drop of blood" if her neutrality were violated.

The declaration came in a statement, read before a joint session of the legislature in German, French, and Italian by three ministers of the confederation cabinet, in which Germany, France, and Italy were said to have assured Switzerland her neutrality would be respected.

Delegates Shout Approval.

Delegates of the national council and the council of states stood and shouted approval of the government's warning that the Swiss would fight if the promises were broken.

The statement covered the policy with which the government received German annexation of Austria. Rudolf Minger, president of the confederation, had summoned both houses to hear it.

Reading in German, Johannes Baumann, chief of the departments of justice and police, said:

"The sentiment for unification of the German and Austrian peoples, which already was a contributing cause to one war, has just triumphed.

Strengthens Swiss Position.

"This change in the map of Europe has strengthened rather than weakened Switzerland's position. Her neutral stand is more important than ever before.

"We have received assurance from all sides that none of the three neighbors wants Switzerland to disappear. It is our secular mission in Europe to guard the passage of the Alps, neutralizing parts of our neighbors' frontiers."

The statement said that against "any attack against our independence" Switzerland would "oppose an unshakable, unanimous determination to defend independence to the last drop of blood."

FRENCH WORKERS AND EMPLOYERS UNITE TO REARM

PARIS, March 21.—(AP)—France's employers and workers joined in a pledge to the government today to help speed up the nation's arms production to meet the European war threat.

A government spokesman said all workers' and employers' organizations, including the powerful General Confederation of Labor with 5 million members and the equally potent Confederation of French Employers, were parties to the agreement.

The employer and worker groups, long at loggerheads, were said to have agreed to bury the hatchet in the face of the need for united action to bolster the nation's security. Announcement of the agreement followed a series of conferences among Premier Leon Blum, his defense ministers, military, air, and naval advisers, and leaders of the workers' and employers groups.

PUT ON THE SPOT, SENATE REJECTS ECONOMY PLEA

Goes on Record Against 10% Cut in Costs.

was made without regard to the reorganization bill, which had been under consideration by his committee for four months.

"I stated on the floor of the senate," Byrnes continued, "that after investigation I found the savings I advocated would be impossible, and therefore I would not offer my resolution."

"My memory may have failed me," remarked Senator Borah, dryly, "but I seem to recall that one of the great political parties, in 1932, promised to reduce the cost of government by 25 per cent."

Recalls Roosevelt Pledge.

Senator Byrnes recalled Mr. Roosevelt's promise and acknowledged that the costs of government have been increased from 3½ billion to 8 billion dollars a year, instead of being decreased by 25 per cent. But, he said, it was the fault of congress.

"How can you reduce expenditures if congress will not reduce appropriations?' he asked.

"In 1932, we promised that if we obtained control of congress and the administration, we would reduce expenses of the government by 25 per cent," said Senator Bailey. "At that time the expenses of government were about 3½ billion dollars.

"Now, in 1938, in another election year, we report back to the people that far from keeping that promise, we have increased the regular expenses of the government to 5½ billion dollars, and the extraordinary expenses of the government to 2 billion dollars more and the total to 8 billion dollars.

"When a modest amendment is offered here to reduce the regular expenses by 10 per cent, we are told by advocates of the bill representing the administration that such a thing is not to be thought of and is altogether impossible and not intended."

Pleads for Balanced Budget.

"In my opinion, if in 1938 congress had balanced the budget, the country would be prosperous today, and the number of unemployed would be less than three or four million," Senator Bailey continued.

"The mistake we made—a profound mistake, and it must be corrected—was to place the whole American fabric, with all its structure, banks and businesses, workers and people, on a basis of borrowed money. That is not a substitute for work. That is not a means of recovery. That is not a source of wealth.

"It is a serious question, what the American people will do so long as 12 or 15 million persons depend on handouts from the treasury. People who are receiving checks from the government are not in a position to pass on the question of taxation and balancing the budget. They want the easy money, and the more of it the government gives, the more it will have to give.

Stride Toward Socialism.

"We are taking money out of the treasury every day which goes directly to 15,000,000 people over 21 years of age, all of whom can vote. I do not wish to deny them the vote, but it is in the very nature of men that they will vote for the side from which they get direct benefit. It also is in the nature of men that if they see a group getting benefits, they will say 'Why may we not get those benefits?'

"It is a simple proposition. Some one says it would throw people out of a job. Very well, the United States government never was founded, never did exist, does not now exist, and never will exist, to provide jobs for people.

"We will reach the point where the taxpayers will find the burden so great they will throw up their hands and say 'Let us get on the government, too.' Every one will get on the governmemnt. That is the creeping movement of Fabian socialism."

Bootblack 50 Years

Dunato A. Meccia, age 64, who has shined shoes in the wholesale district for 50 years.

Donato Antonio Meccia, 3438 Lexington street, yesterday received a fine gold watch. On the back of it was inscribed—"To Tony: For 50 Years the Shine Master of America."

The watch, together with a box of 50 cent cigars, was given to Tony by the clothing firms of Franklin street, along which he and his black shine kit have been a familiar sight since 1888, when, as a boy of 14, he made his own black box and set forth crying—"Shine, mister?"

In the interim, Tony said yesterday, he has raised ten children and has seen eight of them married; paid for his home and become the friend of many prominent men, including the late Julius Rosenwald.

"Always Tony with a smile," he said, explaining his success. "If you got the troubles, leave it at home. If sometime you get outside something don't concern about you, don't tell. Always the 100 per cent shine."

GRANTS $50,000 TO COMMISSION CALLED RACKET

Congress Tells Bloom This Is the Last.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—Congressman Sol Bloom of New York, whose hobby is sponsoring the celebration of historical events at government expense, today wrung from the house an additional appropriation of $50,000 for his United States constitution sesquicentennial commission.

Bloom, director general of the commission, heard a warning, however, that no more money would be forthcoming for this particular commission and members privately said that they would vote no more funds for any of the New Yorker's various boards and commissions. Congressman Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] repeated his charge that Bloom's celebration of the anniversary of the constitution had been converted into a racket.

Today's appropriation made a total of $360,000 that has been authorized to be drawn from the treasury for the constitution commission.

FIVE IN PAINTERS' UNION SEIZED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's police yesterday arrested five officials of the painters' union in the headquarters of painters' district council, No. 14, at 1446 West Adams street.

They were seized on warants charging assault and battery. Melvin Aspen, 36 years old, 821 Wilson avenue, a union painter, said he was beaten and thrown into the street last Thursday when he complained that either the union or a contractor owed him half a day's pay. He retaliated by breaking windows in the building.

Those arrested are Arthur Wallace, secretary-treasurer; Frank Mathia, 4727 West End avenue, and Nate Garel, trustees, and Charles Youngblood, 2227 Monroe street, and James Dungan, 3116 Lowe avenue, business agents.

A WIFE BEATER GETS 400 DAYS TO LEARN LESSON

Last Friday morning Mrs. Eva Ladford, 38 years old, of 1844 Jackson boulevard, paid a fine and obtained the release of her husband, John, who was in the Bridewell for wife beating. On Friday night the husband went home drunk and beat her again. On Saturday she had him rearrested.

Yesterday in the Des Plaines street court Mrs. Ladford appeared with both eyes blackened and her body marked by welts. She showed Judge Samuel Heller a two foot strap which she said her husband had used to beat her.

"It was self-defense, your honor," said Ladford. "She hit me first. I had to protect myself."

"I wish I could send you to a whipping post," said Judge Heller. "As it is I can only fine you $200 and costs and let you serve it out." This will amount to more than 400 days.

Drops Extortion Charge Against Frank R. Thomas

At the suggestion of the government, Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday dismissed an indictment charging Frank R. Thomas of Park Ridge with sending extortion letters to R. G. Lamberson of Oak Park, a director of the Great Northern Life Insurance company. On Feb. 1 a jury trying Thomas was dismissed after it was unable to agree. Thomas previously was acquitted of a similar charge.

Leaning Smokestack

Workmen anchoring broken half of smokestack to lower half atop Juvenile home yesterday after wind had bent it in middle.

The upper half of the 48 foot smokestack atop the Juvenile home, 2246 Roosevelt road, was bent to a forty-five degree angle yesterday by the wind. Workmen braced the damaged section of the stack to prevent it from tumbling either into Ogden avenue or through the roof of the building and prepared to cut it down today. Weight of the whole stack, said Alfred J. Barry, superintendent of the home, is about seven tons.

The two top floors of the six story building were evacuated.

A detail of police closed nearby streets to auto and street car trafic in the afternoon, but during the rush hour last night some trafic was allowed to proceed when the shoring of the old pipe had progressed to a safe point.

BANDITS SWAP TOOTHACHE FOR A DENTIST'S $15

While Dr. Harry Pevsner was curing a toothache for one of two men who entered his office at 3101 West 63d street last night, the second produced a pistol. Two more men then came in. They took $15 from the dentist, ransacked his office, wired him, gagged, to his own chair, and vanished. A woman across the street saw him there and called police.

Similar methods were used by three men who entered a bus at the 81st street and Calumet avenue terminal a short time later, stole the money changer with its contents, and tied the driver, Sam Erbendruth, on the floor of his bus.

APPROVE FEEDER BUS SERVICE TO WEST OAK PARK

Extension of the Chicago Surface Lines' North avenue service to the western limits of Oak Park was authorized by the Oak Park village board last night. No tracks will be laid, the extension, of about three-fourths of a mile, being by feeder bus.

The street car tracks at present run four blocks west of Oak Park's eastern boundary line in North avenue, which forms the village's northern boundary. The extension will be a money saver for Oak Park passengers, who now pay an extra fare to ride on an independent bus line between the western boundary and the street car terminus.

REP. L. M. LONG WINS A WELCOME IN EVERY TOWN

His Political Mail Isn't Answered in Vain.

[This is another in a series of informal sketches of major candidates for state offices in the April 12 primary.]

BY PERCY WOOD.

At least one of the state candidates in the primary war always has his personal delegation to meet him in the downstate counties where he is campaigning. This is proof that Lewis M. Long of Sandwich, Democratic congressman-at-large and a candidate on the Igoe-Campbell slate to succeed himself, hasn't been answering his political mail in vain.

Lewis M. Long.

In addition to replying to letters, he has kept a card index which he carries with him and each night, his caravan mates say, Long writes ahead to some of those with whom he has had correspondence and who live in or near towns on the tour itinerary for the next day or two. The result is that a group turns up which is primarily interested in Long because he has manifested an interest in them.

The Art of Courteous Reception.

This personalized campaigning fits the congressman well. Long resembles Col. A. A. Sprague in height and features and he is adept in the art of courteous reception. Tall and genial, he speaks in a rather low voice, devoting most of his talks to the national picture in the "loyal to Roosevelt" vein which the Igoe-Campbell, Chicago indorsed candidates have adopted as their slogan.

Illinois elects two congressmen to represent the entire state because of the failure of the legislature to remap the congressional districts since 1901 when the present twenty-five districts were created.

Representation in the lower house in Washington is based upon population and Illinois has grown sufficiently in the interim to merit two more seats, which were alloted. But there still were only twenty-five districts so the new congressmen had to win election from the voters of the whole state.

Keeps Telegraphers' Card.

Long was born in Grundy county, but has lived twenty-five of his 53 years in Sandwich, in De Kalb county. For many years he was the station agent and telegraph operator for the Burlington railroad and still keeps his card in the Order of Railway Telegraphers. Eight years ago he was admitted to the bar after taking pre-legal training at the University of Illinois and receiving his degree from the John Marshall Law school. He was nominated for county judge in 1934 but failed of election.

Long was mayor of Sandwich when placed on the slate backed by the Cook county and state central Democratic committees in 1936 for congressman-at-large. He was sponsored for the post by an astute downstate leader, John P. Devine of Dixon, former speaker of the house of representatives. During that campaign, Long and one of his Republican opponents, Rodney H. Brandon of Batavia, debated the worth of the Roosevelt administration in Winchester, Ill., where Stephen A. Douglas once lived. Congressman Long likes to talk politics and one of his running mates says that listening to him is equivalent to attending night school on the Illinois situation.

Former Newspaper Boy Surrenders on Tax Charge

Abraham Zimmerman, 37 years old, recently indicted for evading income tax payments of $65,000 for 1929-'30-'31, surrendered in Chicago yesterday and was released on a $20,000 bond. Government agents said he had a gross income of $411,916 for the three years from a national lottery. Formerly a Chicago newspaper boy, he is said now to live near Trenton, N. J., where he is under indictment on a charge of transporting lottery tickets in interstate commerce.

MRS. INEZ WIEBRECHT.

Mrs. Inez Wiebrecht, 24 years old, a clothing model of 1901 South Cuyler avenue, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Thomas J. Lynch from her husband, Arthur, 29 years old, a salesman. Mrs. Wiebrecht originally charged her husband with cruelty, but when her case was about to be called for hearing a month ago, she went to New York.

Returning unannounced, according to her attorney, Saul Epton, she did a little sleuthing and found her husband with a Miss Mary Roe. Though that isn't the young woman's real name, Mrs. Wiebrecht changed her charge from cruelty to adultery. The couple were married in 1933 and separated in 1936.

COURTNEY'S MEN SEEK GAMBLING RACKET BOSSES

Seizure and questioning of gambling house keepers and owners will continue until enough information is obtained to unmask the higher ups who are protecting them and enabling them to operate, declared State's Attorney Courtney yesterday.

Bookmakers and gambling house proprietors have been brought in systematically for questioning since last week by state's attorney's police. The information obtained will be filed and assembled for study, Courtney declared.

Six men arrested yesterday in two handbook raids on the near north side were released after questioning by state's attorney's police.

POLICE SCANDAL CASE DELAYED UNTIL APRIL 4

Judge Michael G. Kaspar of the Felony court yesterday continued until April 4 charges against Detectives Frank McKune and Earl Flannery of aiding a prisoner to escape. Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford said true bills voted by the grand jury are expected to be returned soon as indictments. The detectives were suspended pending an investigation of charges that they freed two men arrested as robbers on Feb. 26.

YOUTH HELD ON GUN CHARGE.

Theodore Budnik, 19 years old, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $5,000 by Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman on a charge of shooting at his stepmother, Mrs. Frances Budnik, 2343 North Monticello avenue, and at two policemen.

VAN NUYS OPENS FIRE ON STATE HOUSE MACHINE

Charges Beer Privileges Corrupt Officials.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—(AP)—United States Senator Frederick Van Nuys unleashed today a bitter denunciation of the Indiana state administration and intimated he would ignore the June Democratic convention as a route toward reelection.

Outlining plans to run as an independent, the senior senator from Indiana said he had amassed evidence detrimental to the statehouse machine which has decreed another party leader would be the Democratic nominee for Van Nuys' post.

Beer Importer's License.

Van Nuys said he would substantiate charges that the Townsend administration is prostituting local government and law enforcement through the grant of beer privileges to public officials.

"I can name one city in which a company was organized to receive a beer importer's permit," he asserted. "The criminal court judge, sheriff, chief of police, prosecuting attorney, and city attorney were given a majority of the stock in this organization.

"This was done in consideration for the promise they would deliver intact a complete delegation to any one who [governor] Clift Townsend names for United States senator," he added. "And the company has paid at least one fat quarterly dividend."

Will Name Officials.

Van Nuys said he would make the name of the city and the officials public later in a series of radio addresses.

The senator and the Townsend administration became unfriendly following Van Nuys' vigorous opposition to President Roosevelt's proposal to reorganize the Supreme court.

OPEN BOY SCOUT CAMPAIGN WITH $100,000 AS GOAL

The Chicago council, Boy Scouts of America, started its annual campaign for contributions yesterday with $100,000 as the official goal, it was announced by Stephen Y. Hord of the brokerage firm of Brown Brothers, Harriman & Co., chairman. John F. Fennelly of Glore, Forgan & Co. will aid Mr. Hord as general vice chairman of the drive.

Actual solicitation will not begin until April 11, but preliminary canvasses by a loop committee will be made for a week before that date.

Money received will cover the major cost of year round Scout activities by more than 21,000 Chicago boys. It also will maintain operations at nine summer camps and three all-year camps.

Although Mrs. Mary Schultz, 25 years old, charged that her husband, Stanley, a WPA worker, beat her and ordered her and their two day old child from their home at 1911 West 17th street Sunday night, she pleaded with Judge Samuel Heller in Fillmore street court yesterday not to send him to jail."

"Let him go, please," she sobbed, when Judge Heller hinted at imposing at $200 fine to be worked out in the Bridewell.

"I'm sorry I was mean, judge," Schultz said. He embraced his wife and child and kissed them. Judge Heller placed him on six months' probation and the Schultz family went home.

ARMY COLONEL OUSTED IN 1936 WINS NEW TRIAL

Convicted of Accepting Fee for Lobbying.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 21.—[Special.]—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia today ordered a new trial for Joseph I. McMullen, former colonel and one time chief of the patents section of the judge advocate general's department, who was dropped from the army in May, 1936, upon conviction on charges of having received fees for lobbying. The case was remanded to the District court for a new trial.

The Court of Appeals reversed the cashiered army officer's conviction on the grounds that trial evidence was confusing as to where and how the alleged compensation was paid to McMullen. He had been charged with having accepted a fee of $1,500 from the Cuban-American Manganese corporation in 1934 for services in connection with the corporation's efforts to exempt Cuban manganese from import duties in the 1933 revenue act.

He was sentenced to a jail term of six months and to pay a fine of $1,000.

Prior to his conviction in the District court, McMullen had been found guilty of breach of honor by an army court-martial in that he accepted two round trip railroad tickets to California from Joseph Silverman Jr., trader in army surplus goods.

The point arose in connection with an insurance suit by Edward L. Kaufman, tavern owner at 2147 South Halsted street, against Lloyd's of London, involving the official time of a holdup. Kaufman lost.

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

THE FICTION OF FINALITY

By CALEB

THE notion of endings, conclusions to things, is only an apparent one. Individuals die, but the race lives on. December thirty-first is followed by New Year's. Winter blows cold and the sun sets; but spring and sunrise unfailingly return.

The notion that a great store has learned all there is to know about storekeeping is fiction of purest ray serene. Eighty-six years in business—international reputation and international trade relations—millions of annual sales volume—stupendous purchasing power—numerous company-owned mills and factories, and hundreds of buying representatives in all the world's supply nooks — why shouldn't a store of such proportions have mastered long ago all aspects of successful merchandising?

Why? Because everything connected with people or with places on this planet must obey a tyranny as old as gravity itself—the tyranny of Change. Try to think of something that does not change and you find only one perfect example to end your search: Change!

Opening our doors at nine-thirty this morning, then, means the beginning of another day's "business clinic." Lessons will be learned from customers today as they have been learned here since our doors first opened.

Selling goods is a really simple matter, compared with the fine art of serving people—people who all are unlike as individuals. And it is this unlikeness—in mood of the moment, in temperament, in nationality, in age and sex and means—which becomes the real object of study for us all, from the executive to the deliveryman at your door.

Out of this study come many paragraphs still unwritten in the standard texts on retail merchandising. Weather conditions, news flashes, sudden veerings of fashion, unexpected vogues, an old custom re-established, trends in color, an overnight song hit—the list of change and chance elements that invade a store's best-laid plans is surprisingly long—and elusive.

So, the idea that there is a finality, a routine cut-and-dried sameness, to the conduct of a metropolitan store is pure fiction. The "final" is forever beyond our reach. We are "forever incomplete." And it is because we sense so keenly this fascinating challenge that we more than welcome the counsel and criticism which customers often pass on to us voluntarily.

9 LOSE DRIVING PRIVILEGES IN SAFETY COURT

3 Jailed, 4 Fined, and 2 Put on Probation.

Three motorists were sentenced to jail yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude of the Safety court for faulty driving, four were fined, and two were placed on probation. All lost their driving privileges for varying periods.

Seven were punished for reckless driving. They were:

RULE BROWN, 35 years old, 2926 Warren boulevard, 30 days in jail.

One Put on Probation.

Michael Rooney, 32, of 1651 Van Buren street, was fined $10 for leaving the scene of an accident, and Harold Noble, 27, of 2241 Gunderson avenue, Berwyn, was put on probation for a year for driving while intoxicated.

Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the Boys' court, sentenced Chester Mikolazewski, 20, 1800 Grand avenue, to twenty days in the Bridewell for reckless driving. He was arrested Sunday after a thirty mile chase in which police fired a dozen shots.

Klem Foremiller, 47, 937 Eastwood avenue, was sentenced yesterday by Municipal Judge J. M. Corcoran of Evanston to 15 days in jail for driving while drunk.

Judge John Gutknecht of the Trafic court yesterday fined Walter Olson, 23 years old, 5461 Blackstone avenue, $100 after his fourth arrest for speeding since Sept. 11, 1936.

Chased by Police Car.

Robert Hladik told Police Magistrate Frank Pavek of Berwyn yesterday that the reason he was speeding on March 9 was because he was carrying $800 and he thought the automobile pursuing him contained bandits because it had no license plates.

Magistrate Pavek continued the hearing until Monday. Hladik, who lives at 4121 Raymond avenue, Brookfield, at first said he might ask for warants against the Berwyn policemen for not having state vehicle licenses, but decided to drop the matter on his attorney's advice after the latter pointed out he would have to sue the city because the policemen were acting as its agents. The policemen said the squad car was new and had not been equipped with plates at the time.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., March 21.—[Special.]—Harold Best, 15 years old, went on trial today as a result of the strange slaying of his 11 year old sister, Mildred, last June 4. The boy is on trial for delinquency. Under Wisconsin law he is too young to be tried for murder.

The boy's attorney, Carl N. Hill, forecast surprising disclosures. "We will prove," Hill said, "that the cause of this murder lies at some other door." Hill pointed to the mysterious death of the Best children's uncle, Ora Shaw, with whom they lived, only two weeks after Mildred was shot. Shaw's body was exhumed a month after his death and State Toxicologist F. L. Kozelka said he died of poison.

A jury of three women and nine men was selected to unravel one of the most tangled crimes in the state's history.

REROUTE TRAFIC ON OGDEN AVE. FOR VIADUCT JOB

Ogden avenue trafic near Cicero avenue will be rerouted tomorrow when work will start on the new $800,000 Ogden avenue viaduct over Cicero avenue and the Burlington railroad embankment. The work, which will be completed in two years, is under the supervision of the state highway department.

Westbound trafic will be detoured at Cicero avenue over 28th street to the junction of the main thoroughfare, and eastbound vehicles will be routed over 30th street at 54th avenue, Cicero, to Cicero avenue and back to Ogden avenue.

The Thomas J. McQueen Construction company of Forest Park will begin the work of building concrete piers and abutments. Within two weeks trafic on Ogden avenue east of Cicero avenue will be rerouted.

TRUCK KILLS INSANE WOMAN.

Kankakee, Ill., March 21.—(AP)—Mary Henry, 47 years old, who escaped from the Kankakee State hospital for the insane last night, was killed today when struck by a truck on U. S. highway 45 near Clifton. She was committed to the hospital from Chicago in 1932.

PENNY IN HAND, GIRL IS KILLED BY TRUCK IN STREET

Darts in Front of Machine Near Home.

With a penny in her hand, Virginia McKennon, 6 years old, 3742 South Kedzie avenue, started yesterday toward a neighborhood store to buy a balloon. She never reached the store. She was run down and killed almost in front of her home by a motor truck driven by Joseph Mioczek, 20 years old, 3427 38th place.

He said Virginia darted in front of his truck, giving him no chance to stop. The penny, which was found on the pavement near her body, had been given to her by her mother, Margaret, wife of Paul McKennon, a switchman. The McKennons have two other children.

Two Killed by Train.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Luther, farmers of La Porte, Ind., were killed last night when their small motor truck, loaded with oats, was struck by a Chicago bound Monon railroad passenger train at the Lincoln highway crossing in Dyer, Ind. The Luthers, who were both 30 years old, were driving east. Luther apparently failed to see the flasher signals which witnesses said were working. The truck was smashed.

The body of a woman killed by an automobile at Narragansett and Bloomingdale avenues Sunday night, was identified yesterday as that of Mrs. Nellie Sheil Granahan, 42 years old, 188 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, widow of Philip Granahan, a stationary engineer. Her sister, Mrs. Peter J. Finan, 1507 Rosemont avenue, made the identification. The driver of the car was William Bachman, 21 years old, 5623 Bernard street.

Unidentified Victim Dies.

An unidentified colored youth, about 19 years old, died yesterday in the County hospital from injuries received Saturday in front of 4111 South Ashland avenue, when he was struck by a hit and run automobile driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday the automobile toll in Cook county since Jan. 1 was 195. Of this total 156 were killed in the city limits where 3,652 were injured within the same period.

Mrs. Irene Gaffney, 52 years old, 2723 Warren boulevard, suffered a skull fracture last night, the result, she later told police, of being struck on the head with a heavy bottle by her husband, John Gaffney, 45 years old. Gaffney, a novelties salesman, is being sought by police. Mrs. Gaffney was taken to the County hospital.

THREE KIDNAPERS OF DRY CRUSADER DIE ON GALLOWS

Toss of a Coin Gives One 34 Minutes of Life.

Moundsville, W. Va., March 21.—(AP)—Three men were hanged in the state penitentiary here tonight, the first to pay the extreme penalty in West Virginia for kidnaping. James Travis and Orvil Adkins, each 25 years old, fell through the trap together and Arnett A. Booth, 46 years old, a world war veteran, was hanged 34 minutes later.

Trap Fails First Time.

The trap under Adkins dropped prematurely because of a mechanical defect before the noose was adjusted, plunging him into a concrete pit beneath the gallows. Dazed, he was placed on a stretcher and handed back through the trap. On the gallows he stood erect beside Travis, the nooses were adjusted, and the two dropped to their death.

The three, all from Huntington, W. Va., were convicted of abducting Dr. James I. Seder, elderly anti-saloon crusader, who was held captive eleven days and died of exposure.

Pray, Then Toss for Turns.

The kidnapers prayed with a prison chaplain as the hour for their execution neared. They went to the gallows in new black suits. The gallows has only a double trap, and a toss of a coin decided which two of the three went first. Booth won the toss and thirty-four minutes more of life.

Dr. Seder, who was 79 years old, was held captive in an abandoned mine. While his captors were away he escaped, but died four days later of pneumonia. A $50,000 ransom was demanded but never paid.

BANKER WULLER GETS 15 YRS. FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Danville, Ill., March 21.—[Special.]—George Wuller, the father of eight children and former cashier of the Belleville Bank and Trust company, was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment today upon his plea of guilty to ten counts of embezzlement.

Wuller, 48 years old, was accused of taking $190,000 from the bank, which was closed Jan. 26 and placed in receivership last week. Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley sentenced him to five years on each of the ten counts in the indictment, ordering that the first three terms run consecutively and the others concurrently.

A voluntary bankruptcy petition was filed in Wuller's behalf before his appearance in court. His liabilities include $190,000 due the bank's receiver and $94,500 in stocks and bonds owned by the Rev. Henry Althoff, Belleville bishop.

ALIEN IN U. S. 11 YEARS SEIZED ON CHARGE OF FRAUD IN STOCK SALE

On the charges of a woman domestic, 39 years old, Karl Princic, 36 years old, was arrested yesterday on orders of Eugene O'Connor, chief of the blue sky division of the state's attorney's office, and was charged with fraudulent stock sale. His accuser, Miss Hannah Johnson, who is a cook at 179 Lake Shore drive, stated he had sold her thirty shares of stock for $570 and had given her fake certificates. She also charged that Princio had borrowed $250 and that the total, $820 represented her life savings.

The prisoner, an Austrian, has been in this country eleven years without making an effort to become a citizen. O'Connor reported after an investigation. He notified the United States immigration authorities.

TRAINS DELAYED BY BRIDGE BLAZE IN EAST CHICAGO

Fire which attacked the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railway bridge over the Grand Calumet river in East Chicago last night temporarily disrupted train service. For two hours it was necessary to shuttle passengers by bus across the nearby Cline avenue bridge. After the fire was extinguished it was found that the east tracks were still usable and two-way schedules were established on those tracks. It is hoped to repair the west tracks today. For a time it was feared the entire bridge would be out of service for several days.

2,000 IN 2 DAYS ATTEND MUNROE HOME AUCTION

Wealthy matrons and shop girls were among the bidders yesterday as auctioneers started the task of stripping $50,000 worth of furnishings from the home of Charles A. Munroe at 1234 Lake Shore drive before the building is sold. In two days 2,000 persons have meandered through the sixteen room red brick house, which was built for Robert Todd Lincoln, son of President Lincoln.

Mr. Munroe, former vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, lives in Greenwich, Conn., and has visited his Lake Shore drive place only occasionally since 1924. He made a profit of $4,000,000 in the sale of a St. Louis utilities company.

The Chicago home was opened for the debut of a daughter, Josephine, six years ago, and a year later for the funeral of Mrs. Munroe, the former Rhea Logan. Gerald Grant of Grant's art galleries, auctioneers, said that Mr. Munroe wishes the furnishings sold before April 1 to avoid the continued payment of personal property taxes here.

FICTITIOUS COMPETITION.

Fred W. Sargent and Patrick Joyce, presidents of the Chicago and North Western and Great Western, respectively, painted a depressing picture of railway prospects at a recent appearance before a senate committee on rail finances. It seems clear to these gentlemen that federal financing must supplant private support of the railroads in the near future. Admittedly, this would constitute a long step in the direction of government ownership of railroads, dreaded by a majority and favored by practically nobody.

While there is no doubt that these officers were giving the senators their best opinion, it is also true that they represent railways that are, in a sense, orphans. The North Western has a main line to Omaha, where connection is made with the Union Pacific to form the overland route to the Pacific coast. Doubtless this section pays well, but the main line to the Twin Cities is not so fortunate. The connections at that point are the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, and these roads would favor the affiliated Burlington. The rest of the system consists of branches, which, while indispensable to a large farm territory, collect little overhead traffic so necessary to railway health. It is almost superfluous to add that the Great Western is in much the same situation as is the North Western.

All of these factors were taken into consideration when THE TRIBUNE published its original plan for regional consolidation of the railways of the United States. No railway can live on the local traffic that originates along its lines and offer the same rates as a competitor which carries a heavy backlog of overhead traffic. Consequently, there will be weak roads and strong roads in the same territory as long as regional consolidations are frowned upon and the preservation of fictitious competition remains a public shibboleth.

The situation is precisely the same as formerly existed when there were multiple gas corporations, telephone companies, and street car systems in every city, and numerous telegraph lines between the cities. Public benefit from parallel railway lines disappeared years ago. The present duplication of service is one of the principal railway ills. The transportation act can be rewritten so that it will facilitate or even coerce regional consolidations. Then, if the racketeering reparation sections are removed and a measure of rate control restored to the carriers, our railway problem will be well on its way to solution without any government financial assistance other than RFC loans. The present depressed condition of the industry is entirely due to too much rather than too little government attention.

A MISCHIEVOUS PROPOSAL.

Hard cases make bad law is a proverb perpetually illustrated. The latest instance is the proposal of a law to punish individuals who pay ransom. We cannot recall a worse law. A parent who refused to pay a ransom in the hope of saving his child would be little less than a monster. No jury would ever convict under such a law. It would add to the agony of the innocent individual who is caught in the terrible toils of a kidnaping with some one dear to him in danger, but it would seldom, if ever, restrain him, and he would never be punished for breaking it. We have had too many unenforced and unenforceable laws. The theory that this one would, or could, discourage kidnaping by preventing, or even discouraging, the payment of ransoms is obvious nonsense and the law would be both futile and mischievous. Ransom money is the object of almost all kidnaping, but the crime must be checked by practicable means.

MR. HOSFORD ADDRESSES AN ENVELOPE.

Chairman Hosford of the coal commission has resigned again. His reasons for desiring to get out are not stated, but as the job of fixing the price of all the soft coal mined in this country is an impossible one to carry out satisfactorily, he cannot be blamed for quitting. The problem of establishing prices which will be fair at once to labor, to the owners of efficient and inefficient mines, and to all classes of customers would be too intricate for a commission composed of archangels.

Whatever Mr. Hosford's reasons may have been, the manner of his resignation deserves comment. Mr. Hosford was appointed to his post by the President of the United States. Naturally his letter of resignation is addressed to the President but it was "given to Senator Joseph Guffey [D., Pa.] for delivery to the White House." Maybe Mr. Hosford couldn't remember the street number.

To the judicial mind that wouldn't prove that the coal commission is in reality a political perquisite of Mr. Guffey, as was jocularly suggested in the senate the other day in the debate on civil service; but it doesn't prove the contrary, either. It has been stated repeatedly that the commission was set up to give certain coal fields a break or, as the economists would put it, a competitive advantage over rival producers in other areas. There is evidence to show that Mr. Guffey of Pennsylvania has more than one senator's share of the patronage of the commission. TRIBUNE readers are familiar with the fact that Illinois, which was given no representation on the commission, suffered severe discriminations in the price lists recently withdrawn under fire. It was noted at the time that among the regions which proclaimed their complete satisfaction with the commission's prices were certain ones in Pennsylvania which Mr. Guffey and John Lewis of C. I. O. had reason to remember kindly. Senator Lewis of Illinois is authority for the statement that Mr. Roosevelt is determined to appoint another Guffey man to succeed Mr. Hosford.

Somebody ought to ask Mr. Hosford why he didn't send his letter directly to the White House. The answer might prove interesting.

PUT THE CCC IN THE ARMY.

The CCC was organized by the army after it had been created by law. The army officers were required to be circumspect. Although they were to give these young men enrolled from families supported by the government the advantages of their own military training, they were not to extend that training to the camps of which they took charge. One of the C's was civilian and that was the controling factor. The officers leaned over backward to keep military discipline and appearance out of the CCC.

Anti-army pacifists who oppose military training in the schools, who oppose the civilian training camps and nearly all defense provisions, were satisfied when they saw that nothing was being done to make the CCC youth of any value to their country if an emergency should require them. The young man enrolled in the CCC is better paid than the young man who enlists in the army and he isn't under any obligations.

New defense appropriations are to run over a billion dollars and it is said that not only the navy but the army must be increased if the United States is to have security in the world as it is today. In the CCC there are some 250,000 or more young men of military age and fitness, paid by the government and under the direction of army officers. Supposedly they are conditioned by outdoor life and work. Why shouldn't they be taken into the army? Military service is an obligation of citizenship. We do not regard service as degrading or discipline and training as useless.

The country is paying for a number of army divisions and not getting them. The army can be expanded without additional expense by incorporating these young men and by taking in any other militarily fit man who is now drawing governmental subsistence.

ADOLESCENT CRIMINALS.

Officer Leo B. Sheehan commented the other day in the Voice of the People on the wave of juvenile crime. His conclusions seem to have been based on extensive observation and experience. Mr. Sheehan has had college training in education. Before joining the force he served as a playground instructor. Now he has a policeman's opportunity to see and study youthful criminals. He ought to know what he is talking about.

He concludes that the schools are largely to blame. The reaction from old fashioned repressive school discipline has gone too far. "The new ideas of bringing the school to the child, of not stifling thought, of encouraging self-expression, of bringing about independence and confidence in the child, sound well when read, but the results of such theories in practice are these adolescent criminals."

Mr. Sheehan might have gone further. These theories not only read well but, when applied by intelligent, well balanced teachers, promote a sense of responsibility in the child. There is no absence of order, no disregard for the rights of others, no egotism run wild in a good modern school. The trouble is that the newer theories, if they are to work well, require superior teachers. In the hands of the ordinary product of the ordinary normal school the newer ideas in pedagogy tend to become all sail and no anchor. The old discipline is abandoned and nothing is provided to take its place. The training of the child's intellect as well as its character suffers in consequence. Hence the remedial reading classes in the high schools to teach children what they didn't learn in the grades and hence, also, the adolescent criminals about whom Mr. Sheehan writes.

FOOTBALL AS A GOVERNMENT FUNCTION.

Is football in a state university an essential government function? Thus far the University of Georgia and the Georgia School of Technology have sustained the contention that it is and the federal government has been unable to prove that it isn't. The new solicitor general, Robert H. Jackson, has filed a brief in the Supreme court asking for a decision.

If the universities in playing football are not "engaged in the performance of an essential government function of the state" then the two Georgia universities owe about $5,000 on their ticket sales of 1934 as taxes to the federal collector. If football is an essential function it cannot be taxed when played on state university grounds. Huey Long made it an essential function at Louisiana State, and led the band and the cheering section.

A dissenting judge, as the case went up, pointed out that the schools do not give credit for football hours nor do they make participation in the game a prerequisite to graduation. They do, however, give scholarships to outstanding players and train graduates for coaching as a profession.

In September, October, and November appearances might lead the judicial mind to the conclusion that football is the supreme government function of the state and other universities. It is what makes higher education higher.

Editorial of the Day

REBEL ESPOUSES PHONETICS.

[New York Times.]

Bernard Shaw at 82 says that part of his fortune, after he is gone, may be devoted to propagating a better knowledge of English phonetics. The thing sounds whimsical and paradoxical and Shavian and all that. Here is a revolutionist who has been in the turmoil of the world for fifty years, knocking heads and institutions right and left. He is tough-minded enough to accept Stalin and Mussolini. But he does not leave his money to finance a college for the training of social incendiaries or dictators. He wants to preserve the purity of the English spoken tongue.

It sounds fantastic, but it is really quite credible. A language lives long after the conquerors and uprooters and putschists and totalitarian busybodies are dead and gone. Long after their work has crumbled into dust the stream of a living language, bearing on its bosom the real treasures of civilization, flows on. At the age of 82 a man is apt to feel this strongly.

Brothers-in-Law of Dollfuss.

Chicagoans who are following events in Austria with more than ordinary interest are the three brothers of Mrs. Englebert Dollfuss, widow of the slain Austrian chancellor, Ernest, Paul, and Theodore Glienke. Ernest, who lives at 2256 Leclaire avenue, is a butcher and came to Chicago some fifteen years ago. He has had no direct word from his sister since a cable that announced her husband's assassination. The Glienkes have photographs of Dollfuss taken at the time he was a family friend and a suitor of their sister's.

HARBINGER.

The wind came out of the south today,
Bright strands of birds in her hair,
The laughter of winter-freed brooks in her throat,
And a snapping of fingers at care.

The wind came out of the south today,
Her passing a gay lilting tread;

Helen J. Goede.

IT IS ETIQUET for symphony orchestra members to stay in their chairs no matter how many encores the solo1st chooses to play. This sometimes is a little hard on Vaclav Jiskra, first bass with the Chicago Symphony, who suffers considerably from rheumatism. Last week when Nathan Milstein was the guest artist, he played the Chaconne by Bach for his last encore. The minutes went by—five, eight, ten, twelve. Bass Player Jiskra suffered agonies and groaned in his chair because his rheumatism was worse than usual. When Milstein made his final bow to tumultuous applause and left the stage, Jiskra hunted up Dr. Stock in his dressing room. "I suppose next time he will play Bach's 'St. Matthew Passion' for an encore," he grumbled.

Overheard

—In a hotel lobby, woman to older man, "Darling, won't you please tell Paul here"—indicating younger man—"that we're getting a divorce so he will pay some attention to me."

—In the Key club, man who had just written a $175,000 income tax check, to woman companion, "Have you got $3 cash I can borrow to pay the check?"

INCIDENTAL INFO. The man with the sensitive hands, the amazingly blue but small eyes, the monocle and the German haircut, who lighted one cigaret after another at the Tavern club breakfast Sunday was Alexander Kerensky. His hosts, the Raymond Redheffers. "You in America have two friends," the former premier of Russia said, and replied, after looks of inquiry, "the Atlantic and Pacific oceans." . . . Purchasers of small mechanical barking dogs at the south end of the Michigan avenue bridge yesterday were gypped. The vendor was a ventriloquist, Richard Revell discovered. . . . All the extra noise and gayety at the Normandy restaurant Sunday evening was because Actor Tom Powers was giving a party for the "Julius Cæsar" company and friends. . . . The Greek proprietor of a delicatessen store was mixing mint juleps in the back of his shop to celebrate St. Patrick's day. The Greek colonel of the Emerald Isle, do you suppose? Marguerite Fenwick asks. . . . A distinguished looking elderly gentleman tossed his hat nonchalantly into Washington street Saturday and walked into a hat store. . . . Georges Enesco, famous Rumanian composer and conductor, arrived at the Blackstone yesterday, accompanied by Mme. Enesco. Mme. Enesco, in America on her first visit, is a lifelong friend of Queen Marie, is retiring, modest and in such fragile health that their stay will be a quiet one.

Along the Illinois.

Catfish season opened down along "the river" on March 1. Men and boys are along the banks and bridges in increasing numbers daily with long poles and lines. If a boat is to be had, the fishermen go out in midstream and fish for channel catfish, most delectable of all river pisces. Yesterday in Beardstown, old, old river front town, we had it for dinner with pan fried potatoes, and the cook had rolled the pieces in cornmeal before frying. . . . Here in Pittsfield we had roast guinea hen for supper—dinner is at noon—and there was cornbread on the table—not your fancy corn sticks but good sized squares that could be spread with sweet butter and apple butter.

Fields are green with winter wheat, oats are sown these two weeks, plowing begins for corn, and onion sets and cabbage plants are behind crates of chicks in all the grocery stores.

THE ARTISTS' UNION GALLERY on East Superior street—the Rotonde of Chicago, without the Bohemianism of the famous Paris artists' gathering place. Half the artists of Chicago wander in on Saturday afternoons for talk and refreshment—Spanish Julio de Diego, with the pale dark skin and longish black hair; Norman MacLeish, medal winner of the current Art Institute show; Frances Badger, muralist; Edward Millman, who at the moment is doing murals at the Lucy Flower school, lone man working among hundreds of females; Sculptor Sidney Loeb; Charles Biesel and his wife, Frances Strain; Shepard Vogelgesang; Jan Fabion, winner of a Ryerson traveling scholarship, wearing a full light beard; Aaron Bohrod, Art institute prize winner. Others than artists drop in—the head of a firm of art publishers; a young archæologist from Oriental institute; George Thorpe, new state director Federal Arts project; two Chicago gallery heads; Meyer Levin, just back from Spain—his wife remained in Spain in charge of a loyalist hospital unit; Rudolph Salazar, Mexican consul, to see the Mexican pictures that are the current exhibit; Sam Harper, University of Chicago professor. Prettiest of the artists' wives—Mrs. Julio de Diego. Only unconventional attire—Constance Moran's colorful Mexican costume.

WARTS AND THEIR REMOVAL.

Of our many skin blemishes, warts annoy their possessors out of all proportion to their size. On the whole these affairs are seen in childhood and many a youngster can boast of a dozen or more on the backs of his hands. They may appear singly or in clumps, and now and then ten or more will form in an almost straight line as though tracing the course of a nerve filament. Those occurring on the soles of the feet may become especially troublesome if much walking is indulged in, and there seems to be some relation between warts, a thin-soled shoe, and active exercise.

As far as is known they arise because of an infection with a filtrable virus, the exact nature of which is an enigma. Only the top layer of the skin is involved. Whatever the cause may be, it serves as a sufficient irritant to bring about a heaping up of the outer cells of the cuticle and a change in the blood supply.

On the assumption that there is a stimulus to the external cells of the epidermis, possibly originating in the digestive tract, the first step is to regulate the bowels carefully. If the patient is overweight the diet is so modified that some poundage will be lost. Now and then a saline cathartic, such as magnesium sulfate, is used every two or three days.

Numerous methods have been devised for the removal of these nuisances, such as burning with acid or strong caustic, rubbing with an irritating oil, charming them away by hypnotic influence or other hocus-pocus, surgery, and X-ray or radium.

If mechanical dislodgment is resorted to, it is possible to anesthetize the area, using a fine, sharp hypodermic needle and then scraping the growth with a sterile instrument. Various cauterizing agents also are utilized, such as zinc chloride, potassium hydrate, trichloracetic acid, etc. Twenty per cent of salicylic acid also will destroy tissue and bring about a breaking up of the horny mounds of cells. Internal remedies include protiodide of mercury or arsenic. Occasionally sulfarsphenamine [a combination of sulfur and arsenic] is curative, some authors reporting successful results in more than half of their cases.

Recently a new plan of treatment has been suggested by J. G. Hutton. It consists of stopping the blood supply to the lesions. A few drops of sugar dissolved in water [50 per cent] are injected into the base of the wart with a very fine needle. Care must be taken not to penetrate the true skin. If pain ensues it means that the needle has been introduced too deeply and not immediately under the base of the mass.

Following this procedure the blood within the capillaries is squeezed out and, in consequence, a small whitish region encircles the excrescence. Within a few days the hill of cells becomes dry and hard, with a marked decrease in size, and in about two weeks it separates from its underlying structures and can be washed off with soap and water.

The method of treating plantar warts with the whirlpool bath is quite satisfactory. This requires a special apparatus. The hands or feet, as the case may be, are immersed in whirling hot water, the temperature as high as the patient can stand. The part affected should remain submerged for at least an hour. After a few soakings of this character they may extrude themselves from the surrounding tissue, later being picked off or scrubbed away.

Spontaneous disappearance of these tiny tumors is not unusual shortly after the victim reaches adult life. Unless they are unsightly or are likely to become irritated it may be well to ignore their presence.

GALLSTONES.

E. T. R. writes: What are the symptoms of gallstones? Is there any cure for this disorder? Does it often cause cancer, heart trouble, kidney trouble, or kidney stones?

REPLY.

Characteristic symptoms include pain in the right side just below the ribs which is quite intense and radiates through to the back and upward to the right shoulder. Attacks come on periodically and may cease within a few hours. Contraction of the gall bladder is stimulated by the feeding of fats and for this reason a nonfat diet is usually prescribed. If at the same time the gall bladder is infected with bacteria, other organs may become diseased, particularly the kidneys. No drug will dissolve gallstones. If an X-ray examination shows their presence surgical removal may be required.

NEED MORE REST.

F. L. writes: I am in my teens. I have been troubled with an overwhelming sense of exhaustion. However, when I am out with my friends, I am full of energy. I do not stay out late more than 3 or 4 nights in a month. Can you explain my difficulty?

REPLY.

Quite easily. When a party is on you may feel no sense of fatigue. In other words, you are responding to stimulation. When you are at home you relax and suffer the typical reaction which comes to every one after spending an excess amount of energy. You need more rest and sleep. I am assuming, of course, that there are no signs of a systemic disease such as tuberculosis.

EXECUTOR OF ESTATE.

Peoria, Ill., March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If two heirs of an estate are both named executors of said estate in the will [1] can one heir sell any part of said estate without the other heir's signature on said sale?

2. Would those papers be legal without such proceedings?

3. If an agreement is accepted by both heirs at all right the day will was read, isn't that agreement in the estate forever until estate is settled? M. C. O.

1. The executors do not necessarily have anything to do with the real estate, but the will might explicitly give them rights in the real estate or sale of the real estate might be necessary in order to pay debts. Subject to these contingencies, the beneficiaries could sell such interest as they have, but as a practical matter they would not be able to obtain the full market price.

2. A conveyance by one heir would be legal as to the share of that heir or beneficiary.

3. In general, an agreement as to real estate should be in writing. We advise the employment of an attorney.

HE KNOWS HIS RAILROADS.

New York, March 16.—Owners, debtors, employes, amateur economists of press and school, rivals and above all politicians have had their say as to what is the matter with the railroads and offered catholicons from consolidation to government ownership. In the deluge of printers' ink that has been spread on newsprint the fellow who uses the carriers in passenger service has been as vocal as the proverbial bivalve. As a showman, my interest in land transportation is vital. Are the railroads to continue to serve as they have for a third of a century in my personal experience, or are they to be debauched to the level of Surplus Jim's postal disservice with its curtailed service and porcine establishments?

The unions, recalling their easy victory over the viscous vertebrated Wilson in 1916 and his vote courting son-in-law four years later, are not going to stand for any alteration of wage scales or working conditions that will afford economies. Their sponsorship of the seventy-car train bill now before congress is but an instance of the aid the labor organizations are giving the politicians in the drive for government ownership.

Consolidation of competing lines is only one step removed from government ownership. Theoretically consolidation would work vast economies. Passenger train service could be reduced, money losing dining car service eliminated and the large staffs of passenger and freight agents tossed into the discard. But, says the Great Mahatma of Krum Elbow [nee Crook's Paradise] in his pronouncement of yesterday, all the losses of jobs will be compensated for. Is it to be understood that the ex-railroaders are to be pensioned off at the expense of the taxpayers or is our Cagliostro going to find jobs for them which he was not able to do for ten million others?

How private monopoly as the result of consolidation works out is evident to a traveler who has occasion to journey between Seattle and Portland. Three railroads have pooled service. Four trains are operated daily each way. The most important frequently carries fifteen to eighteen cars including the equipment from and to points east and south of Portland. There is no lounge car. Over a double tracked line, with easy gradients and no extreme curvature, speed averages 38.6 miles per hour. Between Dallas and Houston with five lines operating independently and fighting for business there is a battery of twenty-six trains, two are the second finest day trains in America and four make the 249 mile run at the rate of 36.8 miles an hour.

Between New York and Boston, in one of the densest passenger traffic zones in the country, the best the New England railroad monopoly can do over a terrain as flat as the top of a billiard table, is 50.9 miles per hour, and that with only four trains. Between the Twin Cities and Chicago, almost twice the distance, over a much more rugged landscape and with half the drawing population, four trains negotiate the run at the rate of 66.3 miles an hour and eight make the trip in six hours and thirty minutes. Competition made the amazing Chicago-St. Louis and Chicago-Denver and Chicago-Los Angeles-San Francisco-Portland services.

For some time, the fastest regular passenger runs on the North American continent were between Toronto and Montreal. Then the politician operated government road compelled its privately owned rival to pool service. The result was precisely what was to be expected.

Leave the solution up to a jury of shippers and travelers who did business with the carriers during the régime of Messrs. McAdoo and Hines and it is safe that the verdict would be return to the travois and birchbark canoe sooner than endure another siege of politico operation.

There is an answer. Being predicated on common sense it is too Utopian to believe that our masters, the politicians, would give it heed. If realty tax payers were relieved of the burden of building streets and highways and those who use them made to pay the full cost, on precisely the same basis as railroads pay for property, building, maintenance and taxes; if the airways made their just contribution to all publicly endowed facilities; if the waterways stood their share of the cost of deepening Salt Creek or maintaining a lighthouse at Pilot's Point, if all this came to pass there would be no railroad problem.

Stress has been laid by our eminent statesmen on the lurking value in time of war of air lines, waterways and rubberized facilities. Are they more vital than the railroads? The argument has as much validity as the myth that race tracks are conducted to improve the breed of horses.

From their inception the railroads have been choice material for the exploitation of demagogs. It would be naïve, indeed, to harbor the hope that our current breed of rabble rousers will seek an honest and sane conclusion.

IS PARCEL POST TOO CHEAP?

Chicago, March 18.—Each year the deficit is increasing on the handling of parcel post, due to low rates being charged on short hauls. In some cases the government's rate is one-half the rate charged by its competitor, the Railway Express agency. A package sent by parcel post goes through the same movement as one sent by express, namely, picked up by motor trucks, and delivered same way, put on same trains, and handled en route by clerks paid the same and in some cases more than the railway express. Their contract with the railroads is an ironclad affair, and the postoffice has preferred space on all trains, which costs more. The express agency charges yield a fair profit, to which they are entitled. With the above facts, it is easy to understand why the government loses money on parcel post. It cannot yield a fair return on the very low rates it charges. In addition, they are throwing thousands of men out of work each year in the competing lines, while the volume of parcel post is increasing steadily, and so is the loss in revenue, which is added to the 38 billion we owe already. Moral: Take the government out of business.

COMMUNISTS AT ANN ARBOR.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 13.—The wording of the caption of an article in this SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE, concerning the student senate election at the University of Michigan, might very easily lead to erroneous inferences. It leads one to believe that we here at the university are communists. But witness, of the 1,708 votes cast, only 57 went to the single communist candidate. Surely these few do not present a cross-section of the campus. The vast majority of us are true Americans, believers in democracy. However, as in government in general, the minority often barks loudly. The bite isn't bad, though, and the nation need not worry over her students.

6670 AND RED.

Chicago, March 17.—People who lose their tempers at every trivial annoyance should watch the policeman at the corner of Polk and Clark directing traffic and trying to get the many trucks always in a hurry, in their places. I believe the freight station at this point is one of the busiest in the city and it takes a man with the disposition of Officer 6670 to make life worth while trying for in this city of ours. There is another one at this same corner whose number I have not obtained, but he has nice red hair and the same qualifications. More men for the force like these.

The legislative monstrosities of the New Deal congress from the Blue Eagle up to Senator Byrnes' bill to reorganize our government according to the whims and fancies of F. D. R., make the New Deal congress, 1933-'38, loom up like a veritable Frankenstein!

From Across the Sea

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Even zoo authorities here are planning air-raid precautions. They are afraid a stray bomb might turn loose the deadly snakes, the lions and the tigers to provide new dangers for the rest of the city.

"We had a certain amount of excitement during air-raids in the great war," a zoo official said, "but fortunately no bombs actually fell inside the zoo.

"The nearest thing to a catastrophe occurred one night when some spent fragments of shrapnel rained down upon the rockwork of the Mappin terraces [artificial cliffs built for the mountain goats and sheep]. This scared the mountain sheep and ibex and for some time the frightened animals paced wildly over the rocks. But none jumped out."

To keep their large assortment of venomous snakes from being turned loose accidentally, the zoo's directors are considering having splinterproof steel shutters installed so they could be slid across the heavy plate glass fronts of the cages.

Some animal lovers have been worried about protecting the animals against gas. But zoo officials say there is no ure trying.

A local air raid precautions officer has been consulted, one of the officials stated, "but the fact is there is very little we can do."

"None of the animals would tolerate any sort of gas mask," he said. "Not even the chimpanzees, who take their tea at a table like children and learn to wear caps and other articles, would keep masks over their faces."

What really worries the staf is the danger of high explosives that might wreck cages and let enough wild beasts escape to populate a jungle roaming about in London.

There are two tunnels and a couple of other concreted underground shelters that the staf could use. As far as keeping the animals under control goes, they are putting their trust in quick work by the keepers. Every available man will be put on duty in case of a raid.

But there still is a good chance of some peaceful Londoner meeting a cobra or a lion in his front garden if a few well-placed bombs ever land in or near the zoo.

BAGDAD'S CHARM GONE WITH DAYS OF MAGIC CARPET

Capital of Caliphs Fades in Modern World.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BAGDAD, Iraq.—[By Air Mail.]—From Jodhpur, the "white city" of India, to fabled Bagdad, which has lost all of its charm of antiquity, is a flight of 1,964 miles.

Routed from bed at 5 a. m. for a 6 a. m. takeoff, we fly in darkness for a while, then dawn breaks on the Thar desert, a waste of rock and sand. Our first stop, for breakfast and refueling, is at Karachi, India, on the Arabian sea north of the mouth of the Indus river.

The city of 265,000 population is modernized. Many women in the streets in bright yellow, green, and pink dresses lend some color to the somber brown buildings. Many are Parsees descended from the Persians.

Gate for Air Trafic.

Karachi is the western gate of India for all air trafic. Near the airdrome is a large dirigible hangar and mooring mast. Leaving Karachi we see the Manora Head reef which extends several miles out to sea with a lighthouse at the end.

The next gasoline stop is at Djask, Iran [Persia]. It is a hop of 600 miles, mostly over the blue Arabian sea and the Gulf of Oman. Djask is nothing but a gassing station for the air lines. There is no airport and no improvements. The planes land in the desert.

From Djask the line cuts across the southern boundary of Persia, then over the Persian gulf for 725 miles to Basra, Iraq. Most of the land flying is over exceptionally rough and rocky mountains of about 1,000 feet elevation—over many sharp and jagged peaks and deep canyons.

Water Stands on Field.

Basra is a town of 40,000 made prosperous by date and oil interests. It has a fine improved airport only fifteen minutes from town. The depot, more like a trunk line terminal, has just been completed. The last lap is 270 miles up the Tigris valley to Bagdad. A storm and rough weather makes blind flying necessary.

Bagdad's unimproved airport is practically covered with water a foot and a half deep in some places. The deficiency in drainage and sewage had been emphasized by recent rains.

Once famed for fairy tales, an evil spirit apparently has taken possession of Bagdad. There is no magic carpet of mythical fame; in fact, they do not even make carpets. The city of 360,000 has fallen behind its neighbors in progress. Accommodations for visitors are obsolete.

Model T Fords, overloaded burros, and flocks of goats are plentiful in the streets. There is, however, much charm in the many old fashioned phaetons drawn by pairs of Arabian horses.

Main Bridge on Pontoons.

The Tigris river, at one place 275 yards broad, flows through the center of the city. There are few boats and little evidence of trade shipping. The only bridge across the river is on pontoons, but a modern one is being started farther downstream.

The streets are mostly alleys, passages, and covered bazars. There is only one main street. Most of the buildings are two stories with the second floor projecting out over the sidewalk.

A mosque which attracts many pilgrims is the one containing the tomb of Sheik Adbul-Kadir, a semi-saint. The Mohammedan sanctuaries in Iraq are closed to unbelievers.

The present city of Bagdad was founded in 763 by the great El Mansur, the second caliph of the Abbaside dynasty. The city grew to great importance during the next few hundred years. In the early days all shipping on the Tigris called at Bagdad and the main caravan routes bearing eastern goods for Europe passed through.

Sacked by Mongols.

Pilgrims to sacred shrines came and went. Art, science, and commerce flourished under the rule of the caliphs, the spiritual heads of the Mohammedans. The decay started when rulers moved the seat of government for a time to Samarra.

The finish came with the Mongol invasion in 1258. The Mongols not only destroyed Bagdad, but by systematically destroying irrigation they made a desert out of a fertile farming valley. Neither the city nor agriculture has fully recovered.

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS $17,500 AWARD TO WOMAN

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday affirmed a judgment granting damages of $17,500 to Miss Helen Witton, 37 years old, of 1745 West 91st street, from Edward J. Nelson, a real estate dealer. Miss Witton, English born, once was social secretary to Mrs. Gustave F. Swift. She charged that on a promise of marriage, Nelson, who is 44 years old and lives at 1668 West 92d place, seduced her, then deserted her to marry another woman when he learned she was to become a mother.

The Appellate court decision, in which Justice William H. McSurely dissented, held that the trial of the case before Judge John T. Cummings of Kewanee, sitting in the Circuit court here, was fair. Justice David F. Matchett delivered the opinion, with Justice John M. O'Connor concurring.

TELLS HOW INDUSTRY IS JOINING CAMPAIGN TO CONTROL SYPHILIS

The United States Public Health service has been successful in persuading a large number of companies to institute syphilis control without jeopardy to their employés, Dr. Albert E. Once the employer realizes that medical treatment renders the syphilitic worker non-infectious and workers realize they will not be discharged if found infected, industrial testing programs are readily accepted, said Dr. Russell.

DUE FOR FINAL PAPERS, HE GETS 90 DAYS IN JAIL

Nick Chekovich, 722 West 17th street, was to have appeared in the federal court today to obtain his final papers as a naturalized American citizen. Instead he appeared yesterday, under somewhat different circumstances.

On a plea of guilty Judge Philip L. Sullivan sentenced Chekovich, a Russian, to 90 days in jail for aiding Andrew Moah, 713 West 16th street, in the manufacture of counterfeit dimes. Moah was sentenced to one year in prison.

Because this criminal record gives him a bad character Chekovich will never be a citizen. Assistant District Attorney A. Bradley Eben said that he cannot be deported. He has been here more than five years and under the law to be deportable he must be convicted of two crimes involving moral turpitude.

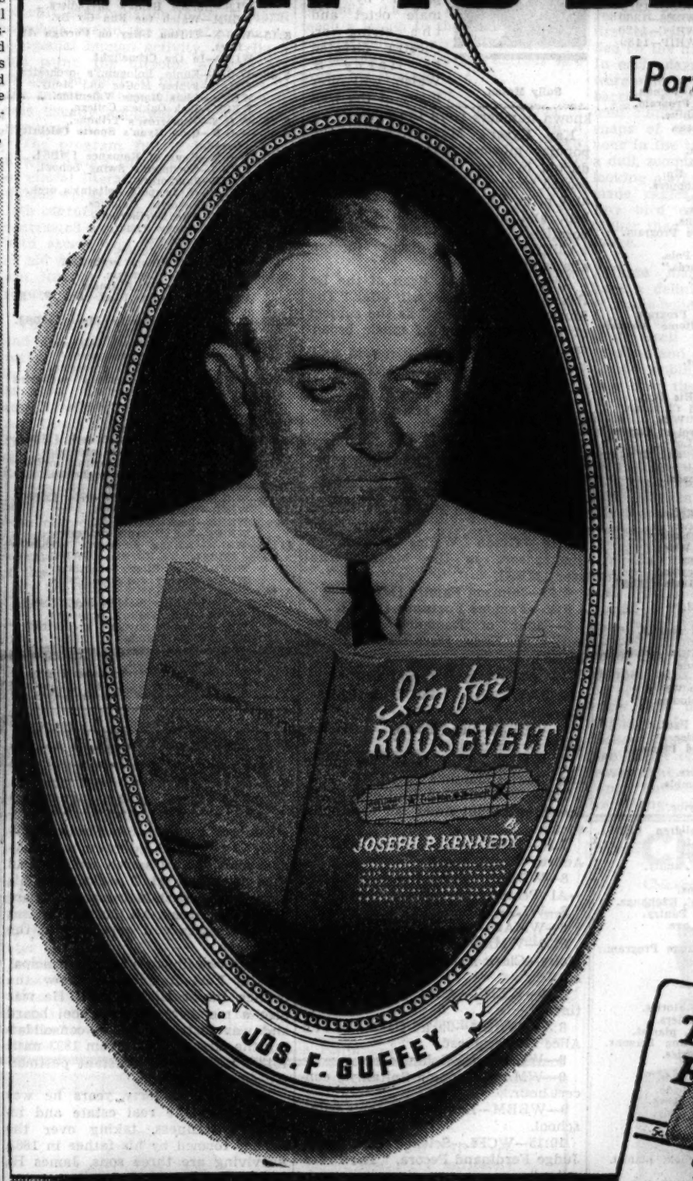
HOW TO BE BOSS

[Portrait of a 1938 Model]



In the Democratic party, no man except the President has wielded more power than Pennsylvania's Senator Joseph F. Guffey, the man who kidnaped 2,000,000 votes from the Republicans in '36. By a simple order, he made one man Speaker of the House, another Majority Leader—and the White House listened when he spoke. What sort of man is Boss "Joe" Guffey? How did he rise to power? Will he keep it? With him—or even without—will his "organization for service" dominate the party's convention in 1940? THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

NOTES TO RADIO FOLKS, CANTOR, HITLER, ET AL.

Also to Mr. Wrigley and Amos and Andy.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Personal postcards to:

PHILIP K. WRIGLEY—Your last minute decision to change your new show's name from "Sing and Swing" to "Just Entertainment" was probably a sound one. Plenty of listeners don't go for swing. The recent controversy over jazzing folk songs has raised the question of whether swing may not be on the wing. Your new show featuring Jack Fulton, the Andrews sisters and Carl Hohengarten's music really is just entertainment. That is more than can be said of many programs that make far more extravagant claims.

EDDIE CANTOR—Who is Edgar Fairchild, the lad who is to be your new orchestra leader? We haven't heard much about him out here. Understand Benny Goodman and Walter Woolf King will be guests on the first of your new series along with your regulars, Deanna Durbin and Bert Gordon, the Mad Russian.

STROUD TWINS, CLARENCE AND CLAUDE—Many a listener tells us that you need a new line, now that spring is here. How about freshening up your stuff a little.

AMOS AND ANDY—Congratulations on rounding out ten years of network entertainment. You have shown the same resourcefulness lately as you have through the years by picking up "Genevieve Blue." She has given the program a new lift. And Andy's line, "Buzz Me, Miss Blue" is today almost as good a laugh getter as "I'se Regusted" was a decade ago.

JEANETTE MacDONALD—Thanks for a half year of good radio entertainment. With Jack Benny on the air the same hour you have been you have done an exceptional job not only as a singer but as a radio hostess. Your program this year has been one of the few new ones emanating from Hollywood that has not been shot through with picture ballyhoo. For that listeners are grateful. May you return next fall.

TED WEEMS—That's a colorful title you have for your new song, "Three Shiftless Skunks Are We." But is shiftless the best adjective for a polecat? Back in our trapping days "cocksure" was the word that was most often used to describe their attitude.

ADOLF HITLER—Just after your address on the short waves from Austria the other day a local listener made a swift switch to the French short wave station to catch their comment, if any. The French were serenely indifferent. They were presenting Johann Strauss' [he was a Viennese] "Die Fledermaus," with Lucienne Boyer as the soloist!

MAKE 4 CHANGES IN PROPOSED SET OF 31 U. S. STAMPS

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley shuffled his forthcoming presidential stamp series today and shifted four former White House occupants to lower postage denominations. There still will be 31 stamps in the series, but these changes were announced:

Originally planned 35 and 40 cent stamps will not be printed. Instead there will be a 21 cent stamp to meet the need for registered letters calling for receipts and registered air mail letters and a 24 cent stamp for registered air mail letters calling for return receipts.

The change means that William McKinley's portrait will appear on the 25 instead of the 35 cent stamp; Theodore Roosevelt on the 30 instead of the 40; Grover Cleveland on the 21 instead of the 25, and Benjamin Harrison on the 24 instead of the 30.

WIFE WHO SLEW N. Y. POLICEMAN IS ACQUITTED

New York, March 22 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A Bronx County court jury early today acquitted Mrs. Patricia Ryan of a murder charge of slaying of her policeman husband, Michael, last Oct. 31.

The verdict ended a four week trial of the frequently hysterical 21 year old mother of two children, who had admitted shooting her husband in their bedroom. She offered a plea of temporary insanity due to brutal treatment at his hands.

Mrs. Ryan, on the verge of collapse, was helped into the courtroom by three attendants. As the foreman reported she moaned and half fell into the arms of her attorney and attendants. She left for her father's home, where, her attorney said, her children were waiting.

VALUE OF JUDAH ESTATE PLACED AT HALF MILLION

The estate of Col. Noble Brandon Judah, war hero and former ambassador to Cuba, was valued at $500,000 yesterday in a petition for letters of administration filed with Mitchell G. The bulk of the estate is to be held in trust for his two adopted daughters, Ann Patterson Judah and Katharine Patterson Judah.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—A communications commission examiner made a favorable recommendation today on the application of Sherman V. Tell Betrothal of Mary Wood, Albert Erskine

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. KAY WOOD gave a small tea yesterday afternoon in her Elm street apartment to announce the engagement of her only daughter, Mary, to Albert de Wolfe Erskine Jr., elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert de Wolfe Erskine of North State street. The wedding is planned for early April. Miss Wood and her mother, formerly Mary Ripple, and her brother, Kay, spent several years in Peiping, China, after Mary had finished school in Greenwood, Md., but they have been back in Chicago for three or four years.

Miss Wood is an unusually attractive young woman and her many friends here are glad she is marrying a Chicagoan. Young Mr. Erskine was educated at Andover and Yale, where he was graduated in 1930. His brother, John, is married, and so is his sister, Marion, who is Mrs. Paul Fenimore Cooper of Cooperstown, N. Y. Mrs. Cooper will come to Chicago for her brother's marriage.

Miss Cynthia Wilson Is Bride in South.

Of interest to their many friends here is the announcement Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Nellis of Magnolia Springs, Ala., are making of the marriage last Saturday of her daughter, Miss Cynthia Wilson, to Eugene B. Simmons of Foley, Ala. The bride attended the University School for Girls ir Chicago, and Miss Dow's school at Briarcliff, N. Y.

Mr. Simmons is a graduate of Tulane university. He and his bride will make their home in Alexandria, La., where he is engaged in business.

Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis will give a party Friday afternoon for her grandniece, Nancy Dickson, daughter of Mrs. A. L. H. Dickson. It is to be a scavenger hunt, with Nancy's brother, Harry, who is at home from the Taft school, acting as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Aldis is spending the winter in Lake Forest instead of at her home in Winter Park, Fla.

A. D. Williamses Parents of Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Williams became the parents of a daughter yesterday at the Michael Reese hospital. They have a son, Albert Jr., who is five. Mrs. Williams' mother, Mrs. Richard I. Metcalf, is here from her home, Ravenna, in Natchez, Miss. Ravenna is one of the many beautiful old homes that will be opened to the public for the Natchez Garden club pilgrimage March 26-April 3.

Mrs. Williams' cousin, Mrs. Howard Peabody, Mr. Peabody, and Howard Jr. are leaving for Natchez this week. Mrs. Peabody goes there every spring to assist her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Learned, in receiving pilgrimage guests at Magnolia Vale, their home, which is one of the show places of the tour.

The garden club pilgrimage dates are set to follow closely the New Orleans Spring fiesta and to coincide with the time the Mobile Azalea trail is at its loveliest. Mrs. Joseph B. Fleming and her daughter, Lily, who is at Goucher college, plan to see the Azalea trail and to tour Natchez' famous homes during the latter's holiday. They also will visit in Pass Christian, Miss. Mrs. Proehl Jaklon and her mother, Mrs. Fred Gerlach, are others who plan to make the pilgrimage.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. DeLong and their two elder children, Elizabeth and Mary, and their niece, Sarah King, are leaving Saturday for Natchez to spend the children's Easter holidays there.

Denmans to Give Ski Movie Party.

The Lawrence Denmans are planning a ski movie party for April 6, probably at the home of his parents, the Burt J. Denmans, in Wilmette. The younger Mr. and Mrs. Denman have just returned from a holiday at Sun Valley, Idaho, where they secured a film of Engen, the famous skier.

At the moment Mrs. Denman is occupied with plans for a dance recital by Harry Hamilton on Sunday afternoon, April 3, at the Studebaker theater, which will benefit the Park Ridge School for Girls. Mrs. Denman and Miss Eleanor Lippincott, who went to Sun Valley with the Denmans, are on the junior board of the school.

Another board member, Mrs. Hugh Bridegroom, has just returned from four weeks of golfing at Palm Beach. Yet another member, Miss Betty Archer, is occupied also with selling tickets to another benefit, a tea-dance the Connecticut college alumnae are giving April 16 at the Vassar House restaurant.

Mrs. Hamilton Noyes Jr. [Adelaide Atkin], who also is on the board of

Iridescent Hose Ace Decoration for Springtime

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Beauty for the ankle lines, or what's new along hosiery row! With the first spring tweeds and pastel wools, nothing could be more decorative than stockings to add to the gayety. Iridescence still makes the best records. Copper and sun tan tones of a good blazing glory are grand buys and street chiffons as well as the sturdier finds feature these tantalizing tints.

What's new and likely to start plenty of talk are the net hose that boast a diamond shaped mesh a good quarter of an inch in area. They are fishnet affairs made in Czechoslovakia, each knot in the mesh tied by hand and the net itself a lisle thread. This all may sound a bit dizzy, but you have to see them on the ankle to appreciate the smartness they achieve.

One runproof idea worth the money. Two shades are obtainable, copper and black. You wear them with tweeds, the new suede clothes and suits and inwardly gloat over the knowledge that you're a good block ahead of the parade.

With the daytime skirts higher than ever before, you'll wear decorative clox, to slenderize as well as flatter your legs. All the masculine spectators are voicing their complete approval of such good looking ideas. You can find the new spring assortments in all street colors as well as dress parade shades.

In the same shop, you'll find two new shades, navy blue, as thin and misty as a film, and a stunning gray for the shoppers that insist upon a real gray tone [ask for "mist"]. For the girls with small budgets the big find of the week is dancing stockings as thin as a breeze, with a trick new foot pattern cut way out for revealing sandals, in a new color called "peach." The price: a few pennies over a dollar!

Echaniz Plays His Piano with Vigor, Honesty

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With spring fingering the curtains and blowing warm blasts [and a steamship whistle or two] through the window, the members and guests of the Musicians Club of Women gathered yesterday afternoon in the Arts club, on the second floor of the Wrigley building, to hear a piano recital by José Echaniz.

This is the young Cuban who during his eleven years of activity in the United States has won a wide following by the vigor and honesty of his interpretations and [no less important] the simplicity and likableness of his personal character. All of these qualities he demonstrated yesterday in a program which began with Bach, Beethoven, and Haydn, went from those classical figures to Chopin, and ended with a generous modern group.

The Bach and Beethoven boasted a fine austerity of tone and a general reticence of delivery. Likewise the Haydn, although austerity was here carried beyond its necessary limits and resulted in a certain tonal hardness and coldness which the composer, I believe, would be the first to decry. We have little reason to believe that Haydn, if he could be granted an opportunity to hear the modern piano with its wealth of resource, would demand that his own works be denied the color and sparkle which the instrument's myriad improvements make possible.

In the Chopin group Mr. Echaniz introduced into the timeworn B-flat minor scherzo enough tonal variety and rhythmic interest to make the familiar measures glow again with something of their old brightness. A waltz and the two G-flat studies [the one from Opus 25 played with less lightness than most exponents of the "Butterfly" étude demand] led to a fine clangorous performance of the great Opus 53 Polonaise.

The pianist exposed himself to bitter attack by offering the Schubert A-flat Impromptu as an encore and by playing it in a manner which seriously compromised the direct, naïve, open hearted quality of this simple, songful music. An excessive number of tempo changes and a touch of unnecessary showmanship in the final statement of the theme succeeded in partially removing the good aftertaste which the Chopin group had left in the mouth.

Epigrammatic bits by Shostakowitsch [1938 spelling], delicately articulated little pieces of Poulenc, and a tremendously virile performance of an excerpt from "Petrouchka" were features of the final group. Among his encores Mr. Echaniz offered the de Falla "Fire Dance" [there seems to be a law now requiring the inclusion of this piece in every piano recital] and an intoxicating little Cuban dance with a subversive, rhumbalike movement.

Cain Banishes Robot Style of Choir Concert

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Chicago A Cappella choir and its director, Noble Cain, have decided to look at their undertaking from a new slant. When they gave their first Orchestra hall concert of the season last night some new wrinkles were immediately apparent to the eye and ear, and others were explained in a foreword in the program book.

For the first time in its public history the choir did not come onto the stage robed like overgrown acolytes. Putting aside the pseudo-ecclesiasticism that has for several years given a slightly fraudulent look to most choral concerts, the men wore good honest tuxedos and the women wore what Miss Seeger will doubtless rebuke me for calling semi-formal dresses—nice, giddy, long skirted, short sleeved affairs.

Enlivened by this informal start the choir did not sit rigid in the interval between its songs, as though rigor mortis had already set in, but smiled and chatted affably with one another. I am sure the rest of the audience was as charmed as I by this open confession that a choir is not wholly composed of sanctimonious, sourpuss robots.

These were some of the outward tokens of Mr. Cain's new and praiseworthy determination to bring choral concerts within the pale of ordinarily congenial human activity. To clinch his point, the director allowed his singers to refer to printed copies of the music if they wished, though it was usually apparent that they did not need to.

The program, full of interest, cut a wide swath through several fields of choral literature. A group of religious works from the 15th, 16th, and 18th centuries was followed by a well contrasted sequence of modern pieces, both sacred and secular; a number of old madrigals; three stately modern Russian motets, and a closing request group.

The choir retains the purity of tone and the agility of precision of execution that have given it a high place in Chicago music since its founding in 1930. Giovanni Gabrieli's great antiphonal eight voice motet, "Jubilate Deo," was superbly sung, and Palestrina's "Sicut Cervus" was an appealing argument for the great Renaissance church composer.

Bach's big motet, "Sing Ye to the Lord," was less persuasive, delivered with clipped phrases and percussive accents in a tempo far too fast to reveal either the letter or the spirit of the music.

My heartfelt apologies to Pearl Appel and Ruth Alexander, whose brief duo-piano recital I reached at 9:20, just in time to see the satisfied faces of departing customers.

Water Buffalo May Permit Scientists to Expand Leprosy Study

CAIRO, Egypt, March 21.—(AP)—A possibility of studying leprosy through animals was advanced today before an international congress on the disease.

Dr. Victor Heiser of New York, president of the International Leprosy association, told the congress that scientists in Java reported they had found leprosy occurring among water buffaloes.

It was said the disease took a form similar to leprosy in humans.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Gulliver's Travels.

Hollywood, Cal., March 21.—Yesterday I watched the strolling players making a picture on one of the major lots. There were hundreds of extras in the scene, yet, to get silence, all an assistant director had to do was bellow, "Quiet-t, please." Too bad that a lether lunged assistant director can't climb to the top of the mountains that encircle this place, cup his hands, and call to the rest of the world, "Quiet-t-t, please," as they do on the motion picture sets. For the world is too full of noises—speeches, the tramp of armies on the march, cannons, noise of battleships sliding down the ways, cries of unemployed. "Quiet, please." If it were only that simple in real life.

Hollywood, in other words, has accomplished more than Geneva. Here you see Aryans and non-Aryans, Germans, Jews, Poles, and Lithuanians working together at peace. They fight only to make better pictures. Their worst quarrels are confined to story conferences. At the academy dinner, Italian Frank Capra turns the gavel over to Britisher C. Aubrey Smith. A Jew pays tribute to the support of a German assistant. Left to themselves in this land, as individuals, nationals forget old racial feuds and become good friends. Hollywood's daily experience might teach a lesson to the chancelleries of Europe, but I'm afraid that dictators deliberately stir up old hatreds and probe old wounds.

The inhabitants of this section of the world live an ideal life, in a world of make believe. Like children playing with dolls, they dress up today as Marie Antoinette, tomorrow as Abe Lincoln, the next day as Pasteur, the following day as Mary Queen of Scots, and sell these fanciful portraits to a world that is sick of reality and seeks refuge in illusion. Those who are not dependent upon Hollywood live on the earth, and yesterday I visited them to see how the other half of California lives.

The mountains through which we traveled were astir with song. The trees seemed to sway to the rhythm of it, and long before we reached the town of San Bernardino, we were aware that a great festival was in progress. Winds coquetting on the valley floor brought the clash of cymbals, the squealing noise of the reeds and the shuffle of thousands of dancing feet. In the distance, what seemed to be a swarm of fireflies proved, close up, to be lanterns in the public thoroughfares, and silken banners swayed in the wind. The dwellers of San Bernardino were paying honor, as is their custom, to the oranges which grow on their trees.

Truly, this is a land of gold. These oranges have golden skins; there are nuggets of gold in the earth; by day a golden sun hangs in the sky, and at night, a golden yellow moon nudges aside the fleece of clouds; if you drill deep into the ground, there is a black gold which the natives call oil.

Distant winds bring the roar of cannon, and the blurred chop of machine gun musketry, but in this peaceful land men are still naive enough to hold a festival in praise of their oranges. Several leagues distant, at Pasadena, the natives parade in praise of their flowers, at the Tournament of Roses. Westward a league, at Hollywood, I've seen famous men and women gather over a banquet board to honor the strolling players who have given the greatest enjoyment to the world in the preceding twelfth month, indicating their praise with golden statuettes. The missionary priests who enriched this soil with their blood left a heritage of peace and beauty.

As if jealous of this good, golden earth, Mother Nature has attempted to wall it off from the rest of the world. Those who would seek it out from the east must cross a parched desert and then scale mountains that tower into the sky. Those who would reach it from the west must conquer first the salt desert which is identified on the maps as the Pacific ocean. In early days, only the great eagles were able to fly above and across the barriers which nature threw up, so men cunningly copied the form and shape of the great eagles. At any hour in the twenty-four you can hear a dull, zooming roar in the skies, and looking aloft, you can see these man-made eagles, traveling faster than any bird can travel, and soaring higher than even the greatest eagle's range.

These man-shaped silver eagles have a definite part in this empire of make-believe. Each time one of these great planes pauses here to refresh itself with a deep draft of gasoline and oil, and whirrs into the skies, climbing higher and higher to pass over the mountains that block off the east, aboard it are hundreds of cans of undeveloped film. Film that is so sensitive to light that the images of the strolling players have been etched upon it; so acute to light that their voices have been imprisoned on it. In dark rooms in the east, this film is developed and shipped to every corner of the globe.

In Barcelona, while war planes were dropping death from the skies, films from Hollywood were being exhibited in Barcelona theaters. In Vienna, when Hitler's despoilers goose stepped through the streets, Hollywood film was being projected on Vienna screens—for the strolling players talk louder and more compellingly than dictators, and in every language. In any world plebiscite, Mickey Mouse would win more votes than Hitler or Mussolini, for history proves that dictators can win everything but—affection; can capture everything—but hearts.

Good Morning!

Observe now an air spun comedy drama whose warp and woof are the varied marital difficulties confronting the Lynn Conways.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway are both employed—which is the fact at the bottom of all the trouble. You see the mister doesn't want the missus to work. He's landed a plenty paying job in New Bedford and he desires his pretty wife to accompany him there and be just the little woman at home. . . .

But no! Mrs. Conway, a successful theatrical agent, loves her work and wishes to remain in New York. "We could spend week-ends together," sez she to her husband.

Again, but no! Mr. Conway will have none of such an arrangement. . . .

Plenty of todo ensues. . . . A separate maintenance suit follows. And then, guess what? . . . Ever hear of a lady's being ordered by the court to contribute to her husband's support? . . . An uncle tries to pour oil on troubled waters, but it takes a good old-fashioned thunderstorm to, well, said she cryptically, to perform what the picture will reveal.

"The First 100 Years" is really fun. Miss Bruce and Mr. Montgomery are a pleasing team, and they are abetted in great shape by a fine cast.

The story is nothing that will make history, but dialog is pretty clever, staging and photography are nice, and direction was apt. Too, the piece is brief.

See you tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS.

Karen Gilbert meets Gordon Stone returning after eight years in prison. Gordon was framed by Karen's ruthless uncle and guardian, Lyn Gilbert, owner of Bar B B ranch, and his foreman, Curt Ford. Gordon joins Jack Turnbull, who is in hiding after trouble with Gilbert. Gilbert raids a posse of Bar B B riders after them, headed by Cheyenne. Karen gets a friend, Kay Ferguson, to take her to Gordon. She warns him in time to fight off the posse and escape. Gordon, suspicious of Gilbert's niece, refuses to thank her. To punish Karen Gilbert threatens to make her marry Firkins, his secretary, and confines her to the ranch.

INSTALMENT XIV.

A NEW START.

Jack Turnbull moved to the edge of the butte's bald top and looked down through the fringe of pines to the roll of hills below. They were far up in the Silcote range, in a country rarely traversed by riders, but their enemies knew these fastnesses as they did their own faces in a looking glass.

His gaze swept a wide stretch of wooded land waves and detected no stirring of life. None the less danger might be lurking in some hidden pocket of the great bluff, creeping closer to take them unaware. He strolled back to the campfire to renew an interrupted argument. Stone squatted on his heels, a frying pan in his hand.

"I've kept my mouth shut too long, Gord, because of that none-of-yore-damned-business way of yours," Jack said. "Well, the silence stuff is all off. It's a hell of a lot of my business, since I'm in this jam with you. I'll talk turkey from now on. You've got to shake off the shadows you lived under in the pen. You got a rotten deal. Forget it. Wipe it off the slate. Make a new head start."

His friend squinted round at him, ducking his head to keep the smoke out of his eyes. "Where am I to make this new start—back in the penitentiary, after Gilbert has put me there a second time?"

"He aims to put you there or under the ground. Me, too. Both of us are in bad. The News-Times will come out with a lot of stuff backing up the stories they have already run about us being desperate outlaws and killers. But everybody in Barranca knows that Lyn has a strangle-hold on the News-Times because he holds the mortgage. This whole thing will be hashed out by the citizens, and a right smart percentage of them will be on our side if we give them a chance."

Stone tossed the flapjacks and put the frying pan back on the rocks which encircled the wood coals. "Make oration some more, Jack," he drawled. "How do we give them this chance?"

"First off, yore main purpose in life oughn't to be revenge. I don't blame you for feeling that way, but it won't buy you a thing."

"Have to differ with you on that," dissented Stone. He moved the coffee pot to a flat rock close to the fire and emptied the flapjacks into a tin plate. "Chuckaway, fellow. Come and get it . . . for this reason. My one chance to beat Gilbert is to prove that I was framed by him and Curt Ford to save their own bacons. If I try to act like a pious Christian I'm done for. That's a cinch."

"I'm not denying you've got to get the goods on them. What I'm kicking about is yore attitude to other folks. Take the way you treated Miss Karen when she came out to the cabin to save our lives. You were plumb downright mean to her. It won't do. We can't make the grade unless we have the friendship of a lot of people. Lyn has built up a big front for himself, but in doing it he has made enemies a-plenty. Unless you're just a plain darn fool you'll try to get the backing of those who hate him. We've wounded three Bar B B men between us. Our only out is self-defense. If folks go sour on us it won't be worth a damn."

Gordon Stone poured himself a second cup of coffee and stared down at it. "You're right, Jack. I'm a darn fool and can't help it. When I was in trouble before nobody lifted a hand for me. They let me be railroaded through. I won't ask a thing of any of them."

"There wasn't a thing any of them could do for you. Lyn fixed it not only so he had an open and shut case but so Barranca believed you guilty. What would you expect of the people? Even yore uncle thought you killed Harrison Brock."

"He'd known me all my life and thought I was an assassin," Stone said bitterly.

"He's been sorry for it since, though he's too stubborn ever to say so," Turnbull went on. "We got to admit that you and I did a lot of hellin' around together those days. 'The crowd we ran with turned out a pretty bad bunch. Yore uncle had some excuse for quarrelin' with you."

"How d'you know he's been sorry since?" Gordon demanded.

"He gave me a job later. It was because I had been yore pal."

"So you say."

Gordon nodded, gloomily. "I know you're right, Jack. Give me the devil. I deserve it. Far as my uncle goes I'll have to stand pat. But I'll do my best with other folks. I'll dig up a smile like a politician and turn it on when you tip me the wink."

"Good. We'll start out by writing a letter to the Courier that tells our side of this business. Hatfield heads the opposition to Gilbert. Maybe he will publish it. If he does, you can bet half the people in the county will wish us well even if they feel Lyn is too strong for them to come out and say so publicly."

"Much good that will do us," Stone said with a sardonic grin.

"No can tell. It might." Jack looked across at his companion coolly. "One of these days you and I might be on trial before Mr. Lyn Gilbert's court for murder. Two-three honest citizens are liable to slip on the jury. If public opinion is back of them they stand pat for acquittal . . . maybe."

"You're right as usual, Jack. Trouble is, any letter we write will only tell what we claim to be true. I've got to turn over a rock and dig up facts if we're going to blow Gilbert and Ford off the map. . . . If I could find out where Linc Conway is living. I've always had a hunch that little cuss knew plenty about the killing of Brock. He did some talking just before the trial, then shut up like a clam and claimed he didn't know a thing. My idea is that Gilbert got to him."

"I've got another notion in my coconut, too—that Linc lit out because he figured he knew too much to stay healthy here. He's at Carbondale, Pete Milan says. You remember Pete, the little cobbler?"

"I'll run down to Carbondale and look him up," Stone decided. "You'd better come along with me. We'll slip away unnoticed and let Gilbert's warriors hunt the hills for a pair of desperate outlaws who aren't there. What say?"

"I say bully. The sooner the quicker."

"We'll get that letter off our chests first, then cut through Starlight Pass and strike the railroad at Tie Siding."

"Suits me fine," Jack agreed. "It will be swell to sleep on a mattress instead of a Tucson bed for a change."

Gordon agreed that it would.

At Carbondale Stone discovered that Lincoln Conway was herding sheep for the Little and Bronson outfit. After some telephoning he learned the man he wanted could be found in charge of a bunch on Squaw Creek. The two friends rented a car and drove out to find him.

The sun was setting in a splash of brilliant colors when the travelers saw a gray blot on the red landscape.

"Sheep," Stone grunted.

A dog passed around the herd. A movement like the wave of a restless sea agitated the mass. It poured forward toward a corral entrance.

The herder watched them approach. He was a small man with a limp. The two men descended from the car and moved toward him.

"Hello, Linc, oldtimer!" Turnbull sang out.

The little man stared. "Well, doggone my skin, if it ain't that no 'count pilgrim Jack Turnbull. I ain't seen you since—hell, since about six years ago. What in heck you doing here?"

"How about my friend?" Jack asked. "Doesn't he come into this reunion?"

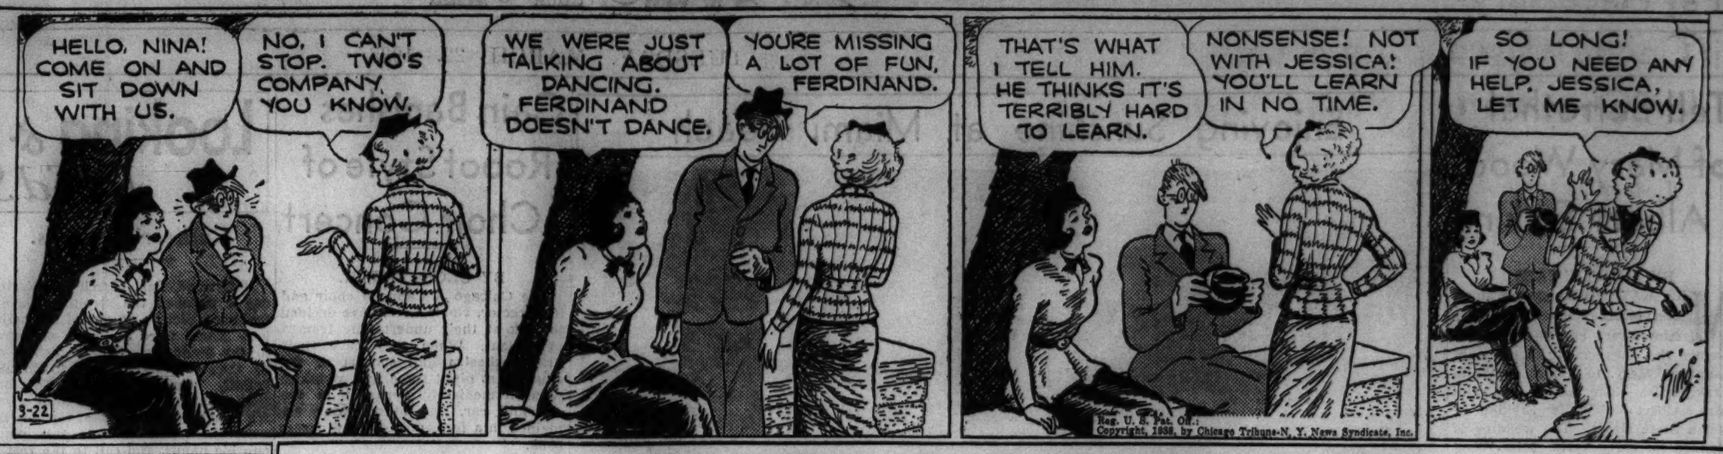
GASOLINE ALLEY—THE CLINIC



WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Tempus Fugit

According to CULBERTSON

A REMARKABLE HAND.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Generally speaking, contract hardly can be said to be a humorous game, although, of course, it often leads to comments or repartee that is laugh-provoking. Once in a while, however, a hand turns up which seems to contain within itself the germ of hilarity. Such a one was the hand described below, which I saw played in a recent New York duplicate game.

East, dealer.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diam'd	1 heart	1 spade	3 hearts
Pass	4 hearts	4 spades	Double
Pass	5 clubs	5 diam'ds	Pass
Pass	5 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding requires plenty of explanation, perhaps more than I can give it. First, I had better explain that all four players are considered either expert or near expert. East is known to do considerable "psyching" and in this hand his partner became afraid that the opening diamond bid had been a psychic. This impression grew as North and South showed more and more strength. West could not know that South's overcall was entirely distributional and that he held only one queen. South, after he had bid one heart, was in the awkward position of having a lion by the tail. When his partner raised to three he thought that his extraordinary distribution might see him through to game, and anyway he was afraid to pass, one short of game, since this would be an arrant confession of weakness. Despite his four spades South did not feel equal to leaving in the double of four spades and, in taking it out, prepared his defense against further East-West bidding by bidding his blank club suit. He knew that North never would let him play a minor suit in match-point duplicate and thus there was no great risk in bidding the clubs. West, realizing that there was no chance that the opponents would play at clubs, did not waste breath on a double, choosing instead to raise the diamonds. South, having prepared his defense against a higher contract [at least, so he thought] now bid five hearts as a sacrifice. By this time the opponents were completely at sea. West, more certain than ever that East had "psyched" originally, and East, when the bid came around to him, feeling that he could not make a move without great danger.

It was not the fact that East-West were outbid so much on this hand, and that they could have made no less than seven diamonds by proper play, that struck me as funny. It was the remarkable outcome of the five heart contract.

West, apparently feeling that East was very short of clubs, opened the club ace! Declarer ruffed, entered dummy with a trump, and led the club queen through East. The latter attempted to conceal his king by ducking, but declarer merely discarded a diamond. The club jack was then led through, covered, and ruffed. Dummy was reëntered with a heart and the club ten provided a discard for declarer's other diamond. West meanwhile had foolishly discarded two spades. Now, when the heart jack was led and overtaken by the queen, and a spade was led toward dummy, West put up the ace and belatedly led a diamond. Declarer ruffed, cashed the spade king, and conceded another spade to West's queen. Declarer's last heart and the eight of spades provided the fulfilling tricks.

Considering that an original lead of the ace of spades, a spade continuation with a ruff by East, and a diamond return would have defeated the contract three tricks before the declarer even took the lead, I thought this was a remarkable and hilarious hand.

Stubborn Boy May Possess Fine Qualities

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Stubbornness. What do you mean by it? Of course you can say "Stubbornness? Why, everybody knows what stubbornness is."

And yet, when you get right down to defining it, it isn't easy to make clear exactly what it is. In fact, it's that way with lots of words we use all the time. Don't you notice that frequently when one of your teen age children looks up from her reading and asks, "Mother, what does this word mean?" You would have been sure, an instant before, that you knew exactly what the word meant; but now. . . .

So it is with the word stubbornness. You might call your little daughter stubborn, and I might say she was simply so keen about something that it was all she could see in the world at the moment. I would call her "intense."

Or a mother might call her little son stubborn and a person looking on might see that the child's natural desires were constantly balked and would perceive that he was not stubborn, but merely that he resisted in self-defense.

And take fathers. One might call a son of 15 stubborn because he refused to do as his father wanted and go to college, while another under the same circumstances would realize that the boy was not stubborn but simply determined not to go because he knew college was not for him and he had other aims for himself.

So in beginning to try to deal with the trait of stubbornness it's well for parents to think about what stubbornness really is and be sure they are not confusing it with determination or intense desire.

This subject will be continued tomorrow.

In substituting cocoa for chocolate in a recipe it is well to take into account the fat content of chocolate and to make up this by the addition of butter or other shortening, especially in baked goods.

Cocoa is made from chocolate after about half of the fat has been extracted. A fourth cup of cocoa plus one-half tablespoon fat is the generally accepted proportion to use for each square of chocolate in making substitutions.

Cocoa has batter thickening power similar to that of flour, so when it is substituted for chocolate in a cake or cookie recipe this fact must be considered. Usually a part of the flour is omitted and the cocoa does substitution duty not only for chocolate but for a portion of flour as well.

This simple chocolate cake recipe illustrates what I mean. It is relatively easy to make substitutions in a plain cake batter, but we are flirting with failure when we monkey around with a more complex cake.

Simple Chocolate Cake.

[One loaf, 8 by 8 by 2 inches.]
[With Chocolate.]

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
1 beaten egg
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

[With Cocoa.]

1½ cups sifted cake flour
½ cup cocoa
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup butter plus 1 tablespoon
1 cup sugar
1 beaten egg
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, and add dry ingredients except sugar. Sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly and add sugar gradually. Cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add chocolate at this point [cocoa should be sifted with dry ingredients]. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in a greased loaf pan at 350 degrees for an hour or until done. Frost with boiled or uncooked icing or with chocolate butter frosting.

In a cake such as chocolate sponge it is best not to try to substitute, for cocoa in such a large amount would throw the batter out of proportion, necessitating a complete revision of the recipe.

Chocolate Butter Frosting.

¼ cup butter
2 cups confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
Milk to give a spreading consistency
[about 4 teaspoons]

Cream butter. Add half the sugar gradually, blending it in well. Add vanilla, salt, and chocolate, and mix well. Remaining sugar and the milk may be added alternately until the mixture reaches a spreading consistency.

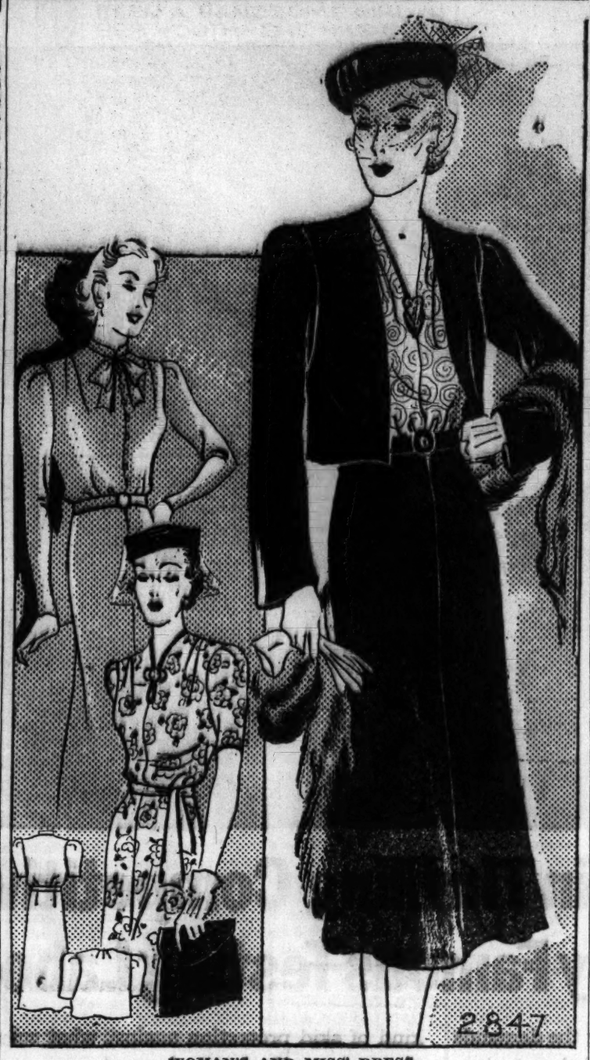
English Actor to Lecture at Mundelein College

Robert Speaight, English actor who played the leading role in T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral" in both England and America, will lecture at Mundelein college at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Speaight also will read lines from this play which will be the subject of his lecture.

Flattery in Each Slim Line



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

There is flattery in every slim line of this frock. The sketch at the right illustrates how chic the costume may be for the matron. A skirt and bolero keep the tradition of dark colors for the illusion of slimness, with the top of the frock following the current fashion trend toward life and gayety. The V neckline is soft and distinctive. You may wear a pretty clip at the bottom of the V, harmonizing gloves, and carry your fur piece. No smarter afternoon outfit has been seen in a long time.

If your figure is rather slim or just pleasingly plump you may like the two versions sketched at the left. One has a high neckline with self-material ties. Buttons accent the front of the bodice. All the lovely spring pastels will make up beautifully. If you prefer prints, you may like the version below. It has a V neckline with contrasting binding, and a soft sash does fashion duty at the waist.

Style No. 2847 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material, with 1¾ yards of 35 inch contrasting.

With so many of our beautiful coverlets coming from Virginia, it is only natural that we should be interested in the pieced block, "Jamestown Square." This is one of the old designs with an historic background, having been pieced for the first time in 1839 in yellow, blue, and white. The particular yellow material which composed the quilt was imported from England, and the residents of the town considered it to be of the "finest dimity." This pattern is one of the few popular small squares, measuring only 10 inches when completed. The entire quilt is composed of pieced blocks and set together to form an all over design. A nine inch border and half inch bias binding finish the coverlet.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

This is one kind of a spring tonic, administered in beauty salons, that you should take if your silhouette does not do justice to the new spring clothes. Corrective exercise is one of the best of beautifiers for the fat, the thin, and the weary.

With every woman in the country spring clothes conscious, a beauty writer has a golden opportunity to mount the soap box again and plead the cause of what she thinks is one of the best of all beautifiers—exercise!

When you get right down to the basic beauty and fashion facts you must realize that your posture and your silhouette are vital to the success of your clothes. The most stunning spring suit that ever came out of Paris can be a total loss if you're too fat, too thin, or if you carry yourself like a limp vegetable.

Corrective exercise, if it's properly supervised and if you don't cheat on the home routine, will do wonders in making you a finer figure of a woman. Combine it with massage, if you can, or with special body treatments for your individual needs and you'll be virtually made over in a surprisingly short time. You should see some of the figure transformations that are being effected every day in good salons! You'd be envious and your conscience would nag you for not placing yourself in the similar happy circumstances.

This is a perfect time to start your figure correction. It's neither too hot nor too cold and then there is always the spring yerning to renew your energy. Exercise calms the jittery, builds up the skinny sisters and makes the plump lean. When you improve your muscle tone you give yourself a beauty treatment of profound importance. And, of course, you do more justice to your new clothes. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Praises Exhibit of All-Illinois Water Colors

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The third annual water color exhibition sponsored by the All Illinois Society of the Fine Arts has opened in the third floor corridor gallery, Stevens hotel. It is a delightful show, colorful, light and gay. There are landscapes, still life and portraits of all kinds and types. Modernism is in the minority and the attractive picture is plentiful.

At either end of the exhibit is a one man show. With one of these we have been concerned already, but the other is new, a group of paintings in tempera colors by Henry Brandt. Mr. Brandt reminds one of the old school German; he paints with a soft brush and obtains a rather blurred and placid effect. "Old Homestead" and "Spring Flowers" boast the most vitality. The paintings have charm and will appeal to a romantic type of mind.

In the water color exhibition a palm must go to Charles Longabaugh for his three brilliant paintings. "Hickory Nut Time," "Fisherman's Front Yard" and "Market Street, Monday" are stunning. Another palm should go to Julia Sulzer Griffith for her gorgeous studies of boats, "Sails" and "Gloucester Square." Clay Kelly has laid himself open to abundant praise for the excellence of his painting in "She's Through" and "Lake Front."

Adam Emory Albright shows a most delightful study of two children, done in exquisite pastel shades, "Potted Flowers." "Rainy Day," by Lyn E. Arent, gives us a fascinating sky over an intriguing farm. Nina K. Griffin offers a decorative composition, "Hyacinths and Pansies," and William H. Eppens is responsible for the little duck in "Quack! Quack!"

Physical Beauty Seldom Adequate; Charm Important

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright; 1938; By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Appearance is of secondary importance both on and off the screen. That may seem a strange thing for a motion picture actress to say, since pictures are primarily pictorial, after all, and I don't mean there are other things more important," says Gladys Swarthout.

"A beautiful woman who lacks poise, for instance, is like meat without salt. Nobody cares for any.

"Charm is more lasting in its effect than beauty. Those who have charm can succeed in anything. Everybody likes them no matter how they look.

"It isn't possible to get by on the face alone, not for long. There never was a face pretty enough to make up for an absence of charm, poise, and personality. I happened to be present when the dancing director of one of my new pictures was picking dancing girls. Two girls who stood side by side presented an interesting contrast. One of them was much the better looking, judging strictly by form and feature. But the other girl was more attractive. She had a personality which impressed itself warmly upon me at a glance. She looked vital, interesting, intensely alive. And she had the nicest smile, a genuine, unaffected smile.

"When the director came to those two he chose the latter girl without a moment's hesitation. Afterward I asked him why. He said: 'I'd pick a girl with a smile like that every time in preference to a greater beauty and a better dancer who gave me a "stage" smile.'"

NEW KIND OF TIRE

Here's the Evidence

from America's Largest Independent Testing Laboratory

"Both regular and also the premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers were submitted to a series of exhaustive road tests made over a three months' period by us, to determine their resistance to skidding and wear, with the following results:

"NON-SKID—The new Goodrich Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread gave greater skid resistance than any other tire tested, including those tires listed at from 40% to 70% higher in price.

"MILEAGE—The Goodrich Silvertown gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in its own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth.

"BLOW-OUT PROTECTION—Despite the severe nature of these tests, no Silvertown blew out or failed from any cause, while two tires of other makes failed."

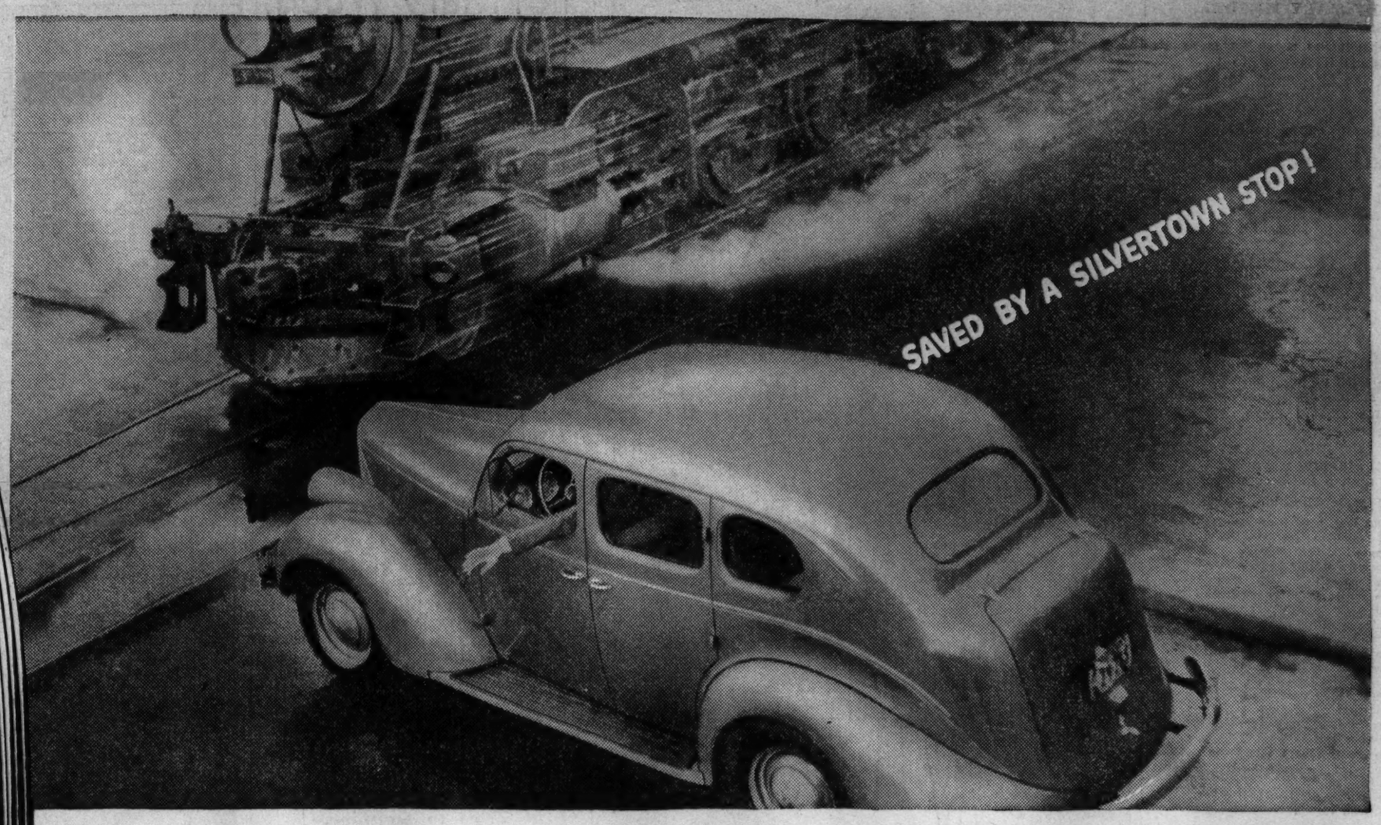
PITTSBURGH TESTING LABORATORY

PITTSBURGH TESTING LABORATORY · ANALYSIS INSPECTION TESTING RESEARCH · ENGINEERS AND CHEMISTS



Wins Hands Down in Thrilling Competitive Road Tests Conducted by Famous Testing Laboratory!

AGAIN Goodrich makes tire history! Meeting the demands of millions of motorists for greater protection against skidding, Goodrich engineers have perfected a remarkable new kind of tire that conquers wet road skid dangers in a sensational way.

In exhaustive road tests made by the impartial Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory, largest independent testing laboratory in the country, against regular and premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers, no tire tested, regardless of price, came up to this new tire in non-skid action.

These severe tests, made over a three months' period, also proved that the Silvertowns gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in their own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth.

The new Goodrich Silvertown is really two great tires combined in one! For inside the tire is the famous Golden Ply protection against high-speed blow-outs. And outside is the Life-Saver Tread which takes care of the skid problem as it's never been taken care of before . . . gives you a new kind of skid protection against what scientists now call the "hazard zone" of motoring, where a slippery film of water makes complete command of your car almost impossible.

The new Goodrich Life-Saver Tread has a truly amazing action on wet, slippery pavements. Its never-ending spiral bars, acting like a battery of windshield wipers, sweep water from under the tire, force it out through deep drainage grooves. Thus you constantly have a dryer, safer road surface for the rubber to grip.

No Extra Cost

Come in for a free demonstration that will give you one of the greatest motoring thrills you've ever had. You'll never know what the word STOP really means until you've felt the grip of this new Silvertown on a wet road.

Remember, this new skid-protected Goodrich Silvertown also has the famous Golden Ply protection against blow-outs. So you get two great life-saving features—AT NO EXTRA COST!—to say nothing of 19.1% greater non-skid tire mileage—which means you get EVERY SIXTH MILE FREE!

2 GREAT LIFE-SAVING FEATURES—YOURS AT NO EXTRA COST!

LIFE-SAVER TREAD WORKS LIKE A BATTERY OF WINDSHIELD WIPERS

—Its never-ending spiral bars sweep the water right and left—force it out through the deep drainage grooves. Thus, with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns on your car, you constantly have a dryer, safer road surface for the rubber to grip—in all directions. You'll stop quicker than you've ever stopped before.

GOLDEN PLY PROTECTS YOU AGAINST HIGH-SPEED BLOW-OUTS!

Every new Goodrich Safety Silvertown is built with the famous Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist internal tire heat. By resisting this heat, the Golden Ply gives you real protection against dangerous high-speed blow-outs.

SCORE 11 RUNS ON 15 HITS OFF CHICAGO LEFTY

Vaughan Leads with Two Homers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 21.—The Cubs were hot again today, but not long enough to make it count. They set about their exhibition chores in noble fashion and acquired a respectable lead. Eventually, however, they exploded with a somewhat sickening thud to succumb before the Pittsburgh Pirates, 13 to 4. It was the first defeat experienced by Charley Grimm's performers, who previously had spanked the White Sox, the local Angels, and the Pirates.

Arky Vaughan.

So many departments went weak on this occasion that Boss Grimm couldn't muster a smile after the third inning. His hitters, who had been on a batting spree for three days, suddenly collapsed. In the last six innings they produced only two hits, both tainted. Their fielding wasn't exactly startling although errorless, and the pitching was horrible. The Pirates made 18 hits.

Root Does Well.

Charley Root started, because Curt Davis, the original nominee, hadn't recovered from an ankle injury suffered yesterday during practice. What happened to Charley can be excused. It is a bit early in the spring for a 39 year old arm to function. Root worked for four innings, during which there were only two runs on three hits, although numerous line drives were flagged. Then Clyde [Lefty] Shoun was sent forth and in five innings the Pirates harvested fifteen hits and eleven runs, probably by way of proving that there are days in which they refuse to be suckers for southpaw pitching.

The Cubs suffering would have been less if Arky Vaughan hadn't insisted on showing off. The shortstop, who would have been a Cub if the Pirate bosses had listened to reason during the winter, hit Root for a homer in the second inning. In the fourth he singled after a mate had walked, the mate eventually scoring. And in the fifth, when Shoun was trying to get warmed up, Vaughan hit another homer. This one occurred with two on and rounded out the last of two five run barrages against the slim southpaw.

Lefties Stop Cubs.

The real painful feature of the whole show, at least as far as Cub hitters were concerned, was that

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 21.—Several of the more reliable baseball writers predict that George Stainback, who was purchased by the Cubs as a rare prospect in 1934, will be sent back to the minors within the next two months if he doesn't get better results with his bat swinging. . . . In his first year with the Cubs he hit .306, but in the three subsequent campaigns checked in with .255, .173, and .231. . . . Jack Dempsey is an expert bouncer. . . . He ejects disorderly customers from his 8th avenue restaurant so smoothly that the offenders seldom realize they are getting the bum's rush. . . . Chicago's Golden Glove fighters were invited to dine with the Chicago club of New York after their intercity match at Madison Square Garden tonight. . . . The hosts included some of the most widely known newspaper and magazine editors and writers in the United States. . . . Dorothy Poynton Hill, Olympic diving champion, is coming to the front as a ranking golfer. . . . Playing in a foursome with men several days ago Mrs. Hill clinched the match with three men's pars in a row. . . . Ted Lyons is giving up ping pong. . . . He says there is another player in the Sox camp, John Rigney, who is too good. . . . Lyons plans to manage him. . . .

Gene Tunney is the only New Yorker ever to win the heavyweight championship. . . . Paavo Nurmi's advice and friendly interest prompted Gunnar Barlund, conqueror of Buddy Baer, to become a fighter. . . . Bill Musick, brother of Jim Musick, Southern California full back a few years back, will report for freshman football at U. S. C. next fall. . . . Doyt Morris, recalled from Albany by the Athletics, is the tallest third baseman in the major leagues. . . . He stands 6 feet 3½ inches in the shower. . . . Football coaches who worry about their schedules might consider Cincinnati's plight. . . . The Reds' first seventeen games this spring are against the Cubs, Cardinals, Pirates, and Giants. . . . The Giants' clubhouse in Baton Rouge is said to be the finest New York writers ever have been thrown out of. . . . Glenn Cunningham has run a mile under 4:12 thirty-one times.

Believing it a call of wolf,

HAWKS OPEN CUP PLAYOFF TONIGHT ON MONTREAL ICE

Americans Meet Rangers in New York.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Four National Hocky league teams, championship aspirants who were found unworthy of their own league title, but who may yet achieve world supremacy, begin play in Montreal and New York tonight in professional sports' most unusual competition. It is known as the Stanley Cup play offs, deriving its name from $50 worth of battered silverware forty-six years old.

Only in hocky is it possible for a team to finish sixth in a season's pennant race then go on to become champion of the universe and, what is more remarkable, be accepted as the rightful ruler. No explanation is available, or necessary, beyond the fact that sell out crowds will see the Chicago Blackhawks play the Canadiens in Montreal and the Rangers battle the Americans in New York tonight and other capacity gatherings will greet the remainder of the play off games.

Wing Fans Disgruntled.

Chicago, although you will hear in Detroit that it was the miserable showing of the Red Wings, rather than any display of strength by the Blackhawks which earned it a play-off berth, believes itself to be good enough at the moment to whip the Canadiens in what is termed the C series.

Both teams finished third in their respective divisions. The teams return to Chicago Thursday night. The series will be decided, as is the B series involving the two second place New York teams, on a best two out of three basis and each game must continue to a conclusion with sudden death overtime.

Toronto's Maple Leafs and the Boston Bruins, winners, respectively, of the Canadian and American division races, will begin their five game series for the Prince of Wales trophy, emblematic of the league championship, Thursday in Toronto. The winner of this series will meet the survivor of the B and C series for the world championship.

They've Won One, Anyway.

The Blackhawks have won only one game from their opponents of tonight, suffering two lickings in three games in the Stadium and managing to earn two ties while losing once in Toronto during the regular season. The record is typical of this year's Blackhawk machine. It has been an in and out club, as witness the fact that it lost twice at home, where it normally should be expected to win, yet in Toronto, where the Maple Leafs were the favorites, it was nosed out, 2 to 1, after tying twice by scores of 2 to 2.

Chicago chances of reaching the final series can be evaluated only on the promise that the Hawks will play the hocky that characterized their last three home games. It was superb. Later, on the road, however, they lapsed.

Hawks Can Be Good.

The most rabid Hawk enthusiasts gather encouragement from their favorites' previous showings in the playoffs. In 1933, when the Hawks finished second with fifty-one points, fourteen less than they were able to pile up this year, they defeated Toronto in the first series, eliminated the Rangers, largely through the remarkable goal tending of the late Charley Gardner, in the second series, and carried the league champion Canadians to five games before being beaten.

The following year they again finished the regular season in second place in the American divison with fifty-one points, winning twenty of their forty-eight games. They eliminated the Canadiens in the first series, beat the Montreal Maroons in the second and won the world championship by conquering the league champion Detroit Red Wings in four games in the final series.

Putting a Wallop Into a Great Boxing Show

West Rallies After Losing First Four.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Golden Gloves champions from the west representing THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE stormed into Madison Square Garden here tonight and before a crowd of 19,388, whipped the champions of the east, 9 to 7.

After trailing 4 to 0 the western standard bearers got mad. They slammed the daylights out of the team presented by the New York News Welfare association during the late hours of the night.

It was the first victory ever scored by an invading team in the intersectional matches of which this was the eleventh. The score in the intersectional matches now stands Chicago 6, New York 3. The teams fought to an 8 to 8 deadlock on two other occasions.

Chicago Clinches Victory.

Showing surprising strength in the featherweight, welterweight, and light heavyweight divisions, the westerners not only overcame the long early lead New York had rolled up against them, but had clinched the victory with still one bout to be decided.

It was fortunate that Lloyd Montgomery, the Arkansas football player, who came into the Chicago Tournament of Champions as a member of the Nashville team, had whipped Abner Powell, giant New York colored boy, in the first of the heavyweight matches. Otherwise the score might again have been tied at the finish because the east's other heavyweight, Curtis Sheppard, caught the nod of the officials after his bout with the western champion, Dan Merritt, in a decision that could have been given to either fighter.

Every battle was a thriller. The fighters were so evenly matched that only one knockout was scored during the sixteen bouts. However, despite the lack of knockouts, the Garden was filled with flying gloves which had lots of steam behind them.

Beckwith Scores K. O.

Booker Beckwith, colored 160 pounder from the west, delivered the knockout wallop. It came in the third round of his battle with the New Yorker, Danny Cox.

The crowd, highly partisan for New York during the early struggles, finally came to realize that it was gazing upon a western team that was making the gamest uphill struggle in the history of Golden Gloves fighting. The cheers during the great Chicago rally were all for the boys from the west.

The greatest fight of the night was between two Irish kids—Jimmy O'Malley of Chicago and Phil Shea of New York.

They had the huge Garden throng up cheering for three full rounds. Apparently the fighters didn't know there was anything else to do but stand in the center of the ring and slug.

Shea Lands Punches.

It didn't look so good for O'Malley in the first round. Shea, rugged railroad switchman from Brooklyn, hit more often and delivered the stouter punches in that session. A

CHICAGO JOCKY HURT IN SPILL AT TROPICAL PARK

Miami, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Two jockies, Johnny Jaekle of Buffalo, N. Y., and Bill Wimmer of Chicago, were injured in a four-horse spill in the last race at Tropical Park today.

Runamuck, running on the inside as the field rounded the last turn, stumbled and fell in the path of the horses that were trailing. Genaibi, Fidelis, and Starwick all crashed into the fallen horse and went down.

Jaekle, riding Fidelis, suffered a broken leg and Wimmer, up on Genaibi, a broken collar bone. H. Simmons and B. Hacker, who rode Runamuck and Starwick, respectively, were shaken up. Hacker, whose home is in Manchester, Ky., was sent to the hospital to be examined for possible internal injuries.

Bonura Tips Off Garner About Big Sox-Senator Deal

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Vice President Garner wondered for a moment today if the United States had suddenly acquired a 97th senator. He received this telegram: "Remember you got your wish. I am a Senator now."

He finally remembered. He once told Zeke Bonura that he'd like to see him in a Washington uniform. Last Friday the Washington Senators obtained the first baseman from the Chicago White Sox.

Bewildered White Sox Get Day Off to Ponder Three Defeats

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 21.—The White Sox had a day off today but no one around the camp referred to the recess as a well earned rest. Three lickings from three teams in successive days hardly placed the Sox in the light of being rewarded by the vacation.

Tomorrow there will be no rest, for the White Sox must confront the Cubs in the second of the sixteen game touring Chicago city series. The South Siders must win to even the series, for the North Siders handed them a 5 to 1 beating in the opener last Friday.

It Is Getting Serious.

This defeat wasn't looked upon as such a grievous matter, but things since have become serious, inasmuch as the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Sox Saturday, 4 to 2, and the Los Angeles Angels, 13 to 2 victims of the Cubs Saturday, yesterday soaked the Sox, 9 to 8, in Ontario, Cal.

Despite the fact that the heat is on somewhat, Manager Dykes is not ready to produce his best pitching. Tomorrow he will start his star rookie, Bill Cox, and will back him up with Jess Dobernic and George Gick.

Expect Kuhel Tomorrow.

The White Sox infield, as it will face the barrier in the 1938 pennant race, will be completed some time before noon Wednesday with the arrival of Joe Kuhel, the new first baseman, from the Senators' Florida camp.

Jack Stahl, 25 year old Detroit bowler, created the first major upset in the American Bowling congress tournament in the Coliseum yesterday by scoring 713, the highest series of his career. The total carried him into second place in the singles division.

Stahl, who clustered strikes for games of 242-256-215, nearly was prevented from bowling by a series of minor misfortunes. His car broke down en route to Chicago. He boarded a bus, but finally chartered a plane in South Bend to reach Chicago in time for his scheduled series. The troubles encountered during his journey left him so upset that he scored a humble 505 series in the five man competition. But in the singles event he found the range from the start.

Rolls Out of Turn.

In the last frame of the third game, Stahl rolled out of turn, and left the No. 6 and 10 pins standing. The shot was recalled and he planted the next ball squarely in the 1-3 pocket, struck again, and then crossed the head pin for a Brooklyn strike. The break added eighteen pins to his total.

Buzz Wilson and Fred Taff, St. Louis, took the spotlight from defending champions and former champions when they blasted out a total of 1,292 to take the lead in the two-man event.

Taff Has 699 Series.

Taff carried the load with a 699 series, a wobbly number ten pin refusing to fall on his last shot. He opened with 247, increased his string of strikes with 258, and closed out with 194. Wilson pounded along with 184, 211 and 198. He drew a round of applause from the crowd as his first ball in tenth frame left the 5-7 railroad and Wilson neatly converted it into a much needed spare.

Scranton, Pa., bowlers crashed the column of leaders when William Jones took third place in the all-events on 1,897 and Polly Tomek reached the fifth spot on 1,886. Polly joined with his brother, George Tomek, to take over fifth place in the doubles on 1,273. Jones, in moving in with all-events leaders, had 579—635 and a 683 in the singles, which was good for eighth place.

RESULTS OF INTERCITY GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

112 POUNDS

William Speary, New York, beat Kenny Lottman, Chicago [3].

The crowd set up a tremendous cheer when Speary's tournament record of five knockouts and three decisions was announced. Speary comes from Philadelphia.

Lottman fought carefully and for two minutes was on even terms with the sharp hitting Speary. Then Speary shot a left hook which landed squarely on Lottman's chin and the Chicagoan went down for a nine count. He staggered up, clinched and weathered the round.

For two minutes of the final round Lottman kept pitching but then a short right uppercut staggered Kenny. Lottman recovered and stood toe to toe with Speary until the end. Speary won the decision.

ALTERNATE

In the first round Carroll rushed Cavalieri and scored repeatedly with left hooks to the head and right hand counter punches. Walter boxed cautiously and while he frequently blocked the New Yorker's punches he lost the round by a large margin. A sharp left to the jaw at the bell was Cavalieri's best blow of the round.

Cavalieri attacked in the next round and three times in the first minute he rocked his opponent with solid right hand blows to the face. The New York flyweight held on in the clinches. In a neutral corner Walter was soundly punched around the body but he finished this round with an advantage.

Each boy fought furiously in the last round, but Cavalieri's timing of punches, half of which missed, gave Carroll the chance to counter with vicious uppercuts, which didn't miss. It was a slam bang battle, one of the best in the eleven years of inter-city competition. At the end, with Cavalieri tired and a slight cut over his left eye, the decision was given to Carroll.

118 POUNDS

CHAMPIONSHIP.

John Aiello, New York, beat Frank Kainrath, Chicago [3].

Kainrath and Aiello put on the first slugfest of the night and the thousands came to their feet cheering frantically as first Kainrath had his opponent on the ropes with vicious right hand blows and then was caught flush by one of Aiello's hard rights.

They came back for the second round to keep up the punching. In the first ten seconds Kainrath slipped and went to his knees for no count. They exchanged a series of blows and then fought clear across the ring in a semi-clinch. They followed with a continuous barrage in which there was no more difference between these champions than the thickness of a sheet of paper. Again the crowd applauded continuously between the rounds.

Kainrath forced Aiello across the ring at the start of the third round and for one minute outboxed him. Then the New Yorker landed a firm punch and momentarily took the play, but Frankie still had the range.

Kainrath finished the stronger. The decision, accompanied by the first boos of the evening, was given to New York.

ALTERNATE.

Eddie Forsner, New York, beat Clayton Johnson, Chicago [3].

Forsner's left-handed attack seemed to bother Johnson in the first round, although Clayton landed the cleaner and harder blows. Forsner's rushing and his right-hand jabs offset the sensational flurries.

Forsner's rushing and clinging tactics slowed up the tempo of the match in the second round, but on one rush he was met by Clayton's left hook which, although landing on his chest, dropped the New Yorker in the center of the ring for a two count. Neither inflicted any damage after this.

Johnson apparently had an advantage in the third round, but his cautious style of fighting didn't appeal to the officials. It was a close bout and Johnson's sharper blows and one knockdown apparently were overshadowed by Forsner's blind rushes.

126 POUNDS

Eddie Dempsey, Chicago, beat Tony Saraullo, New York [3].

Dempsey was faster with a short left hook inside of Saraullo's defense, but when the New Yorker forced the attack he scored with accurate lefts to the head. The first round, well fought, was even.

Dempsey gave a splendid exhibition of boxing in the last round and he hammered out points as he stepped in and out of range. Tony showed effects of the pace in the last minute and the decision was awarded to Dempsey.

ALTERNATE.

Jack Simmons, Chicago, beat Willie Smith, New York [3].

Smith used both hands with wildly flung gloves in the second round. It was spectacular and also tiring on both opponents.

Simmons had the bout under control in the last round, scoring with lefts to the face and right-hand counter-blows. In the last fifteen seconds Smith rallied with rushing right swings, most of which missed their mark.

135 POUNDS

CHAMPIONSHIP.

Steve Kukol, New York, beat John Benna, Chicago [3].

Both lightweight champions are of Czechoslovakian extraction, and in the first round it seemed as if they were fighting for the championship of the homeland as well as Golden Gloves' greatest honor. They traded punches with abandon and frequently with alarming inaccuracy.

The same program was continued in the second round and the failure of either to inflict decisive punishment had the crowd demanding action. Kukol held on and then was warned for hitting after the bell which ended the second round.

Kukol livened up in the final round. He still held after delivering one blow but he slowed Benna up until it seemed as if he were willing to clinch. The decision went to Kukol.

ALTERNATE.

Milton Bess, Chicago, beat Richard Cramar, New York [3].

In the opening round Bess demonstrated convincingly that he was the master of the New Yorker at boxing. He hammered Cramar viciously in the last few seconds of the round.

Bess tired in the next round and started holding, although he still hit punch for punch with Cramar. The New Yorker plunged ahead, swinging his right hand with each assault. Bess held even more in the third round and, while he once rocked Cramar with a right to the jaw, his holding and lack of aggressiveness almost cost him the decision. His cleaner blows brought him the decision.

147 POUNDS

CHAMPIONSHIP.

James O'Malley, Chicago, beat Phil Shea, New York [3].

The fighting Irish stirred the crowd as they slugged punch for punch in center ring. After this furious rally O'Malley gradually asserted his mastery, despite Shea's longer reach, by a lightning left to the face and an occasional right cross.

O'Malley went on easily until half way through the second round when Shea caught him a solid blow on the jaw during an exchange and staggered the Chicago champion. Shea followed up but O'Malley came back strongly as the bell rang.

The battle was furious in the last round and a give and take scrap until O'Malley nailed Shea solidly with a right to the jaw. O'Malley then chased the badly dazed Shea around the ring. Shea, however, lasted to the end. O'Malley was the winner.

ALTERNATE.

Marvin Liddell, Chicago, beat Vince Gallotto, New York [3].

Liddell's opponent was the third southpaw New York had sent in to the ring, but the Irish-Indian lad measured him for a series of right-hand blows to the face which forced Gallotto across the ring. It seemed, momentarily, as if Gallotto would be knocked out, but he rallied to hold on until the round ended.

Gallotto rallied in the second and soon proved he could take punishment, but the bell saved him as Liddell shot home right after right to the face and Gallotto fell against the ropes near a neutral corner. Liddell was tired from his punching.

The third round was a repetition, with Gallotto taking a licking, but bringing the throng up cheering as he gamely went on to finish. Liddell won the decision.

160 POUNDS

CHAMPIONSHIP.

William Addison, New York, beat Joe Benna, Chicago [3].

Addison, far slower and more awkward than Benna, kept away by his inept weaving. Twice, however, Benna clipped him smartly on the side of the head and thus had a slight advantage in the first three minutes.

Addison was the better in a slow second round but just before the bell Benna landed the hardest punch of the bout.

The ringsiders kept up a constant chorus of advice as it became apparent the bout would go to the man landing the last punch. The boys held, punched at any target, and finished vigorously in center ring. The decision was awarded to New York.

ALTERNATE.

Booker Beckwith, Chicago, stopped Danny Cox, New York [3].

Danny Cox was substituted for Warren Jones by the New York coach. He said it was a case of mistaken identity. Cox or Jones, it was all the same to Beckwith for the first two rounds. He thumped Cox around the ring, carried the fight to him, and once had the New Yorker clinching and holding in a neutral corner.

The match was slow compared to several which had preceded it, but the charge was leveled at Cox for retreating.

Beckwith finally caught up with Cox and sent him to the floor with a right for a nine count. Cox came up to be greeted by another right and he went down again for a nine count. The referee stopped the fight. The time in the third round was 1 minute 53 seconds. It was a technical knockout.

175 POUNDS

Linto Guerrieri, Chicago, beat Gus Alexander, New York [3].

Alexander, with his desire to fight in close and Guerrieri, who favored a free wheeling right uppercut which thudded now and then to the New Yorker's jaw, took the stage. Round one was about even. Starting the second round Linto went after Alexander's head and the New York man was warned for holding.

Guerrieri then cracked Alexander on the chest with a smack heard throughout the garden. His right hand smacks to the body had Alexander quite tired of it all before the third round was over. The decision was awarded to Guerrieri and Chicago was assured of at least a tie.

ALTERNATE.

William Muldune, Chicago, beat Bobbie Smith, New York [3].

Muldune couldn't get a good shot at the weaving Smith in the first round. Muldune twice hit low as he tried for the body. In the second round Smith bored in continually with his head down and used this as a defense while he punched wildly to the head and body. Smith also was guilty of holding.

Both were so tired at the end of round two that neither could have hurt the other if he had connected.

Round three was the same, with the boys holding each other up. Muldune, in the opinion of the officials, had an edge and was given the decision.

HEAVYWEIGHT

Curtis Sheppard, New York, beat Dan Merritt, Chicago [3].

Sheppard was the aggressor in the first round, but Merritt was the more powerful and, with jolting rights to the face, kept the New Yorker at a distance.

Merritt walked into a straight right in the next round to break the monotony of his short lefts to the head and occasional overhand rights. Both tired and clinched frequently. Dan whacked the New Yorker lustily near the end of the round.

Merritt swung and missed but Sheppard failed to follow up. The Chicago champion pressed closer and rallied in the final thirty seconds. The officials awarded the decision to Sheppard.

ALTERNATE.

Lloyd Montgomery, Chicago, beat Abner Powell, New York [3].

Powell carried what seemed to be the more dangerous punch but Montgomery's counter jabbing to the face probably scored many points in the first round.

Montgomery staggered Powell briefly with a right to the head as the second round opened and followed with a sharp left. Powell jabbed continually and kept Montgomery at a distance. These jabs made the fight an even choice at the end of two rounds.

Montgomery's condition decided the bout in the third round, for he had the power and endurance and Powell faded. Powell was rocked by a right and fell into the ropes. Although he came out and lasted the round without a knockdown, the decision was Montgomery's.

The Best Fighters of Two Great Cities

Moon Mullins Wins Decision Over Cabello

Tony Cianciola, Milwaukee middleweight, won an eight round slugging match with Nick Nickolson of Indianapolis in a bout preceding the windup. Cianciola, protégé of Ernie Fiegal of Minneapolis, scored a knockdown in the first round and another in the fifth.

Tommy Pallatin, South Bend 139 pounder, scored a one round knockout over Billy Morgan, in the opening contest of four rounds Owen Woods and Johnny Rock went to a draw.

Al Nettlow, 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight champion, will be in quest of his thirty-second victory in thirty-eight appearances as a professional in an eight round bout with George Van Der Hayden, also a Golden Gloves product, in Milwaukee auditorium tonight. The show presented under the auspices of Tom Andrews, includes two matches of ten rounds between Jackie Wilson, Pittsburgh featherweight, and Sammy Angott, Louisville, and Jimmy Belmont, Pittsburgh middleweight, and George Black, Milwaukee. Johnny [Twin] Helstrom, Rogers Park lightweight, is paired with Henry Huerta, Peoria, and Harry Booker, south side lightweight, with Larry Greb, Milwaukee, in contests of six rounds. . . . An amateur show will be held this evening in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Two of the scraps will involve Eddie Lander and Andy Canal, and Willie Kline and Joe Rozano, Davey Miller will referee.

PLATAK TAKES FIRST MATCH IN A. A. U. HANDBALL

Memphis, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—Joe Platak of Chicago began defense of his National A. A. U. handball championship tonight by defeating Eddie Sloan of Charlotte, N. C., 21 to 13, and 21 to 3.

Platak's third round opponent, George Di Re of Evanston, Ill., eliminated Louis Byall of Memphis, 21 to 12 and 21 to 10.

From the start of the second round until the finish the story was different. It was Irishman Shea who was rocking on his feet as O'Malley's rights and lefts were scorching his chin.

In the last seconds of the third round Shea was glassy-eyed, holding on and completely befuddled. O'Malley got the verdict and it was this triumph which tied the score at five all after Chicago had appeared to be so hopelessly beaten earlier in the evening.

A Slugging Match.

Another battle that stirred the crowd was the one between Chicago's Capt. Frank Kainrath and New York's Bantamweight Champion John Aiello. This also was a slugging match. It was the most even battle of the night. The officials had to return a hairline verdict in order to give it to Aiello. Kainrath's blows appeared to carry more power but they couldn't down the eastern Italian.

Kainrath's defeat buried the Chicagoans under a 4 to 0 score. The issue of the westerns appeared to be hoplessly lost.

Then it was that the plucky westerners got started. Jackie Simmons of Kansas City whipped Willie Smith, a colored boy from South Carolina.

Eddie Dempsey from Davenport, the western featherweight champion, hammered Tony Saraullo, New York's champ, all around the ring, to carry away the title in that division. Saraullo was the more rugged but those choppy rights and lefts tossed out by Dempsey were always landing on the New Yorker's chin and nose.

Milton Bess Wins.

A third straight western victory came when Milton Bess of Indianapolis soundly thumped a colored kid from Georgia. The handful of Chicago rooters were screaming wildly by this time. Their joy was chilled somewhat when Steve Kukol, New York's lightweight title holder, mauled the western champion, John Benna of Terre Haute.

That sent New York into a 5 to 3 lead. The confident New York crowd thought it was all over then but the shouting and the celebrating.

They found that the situation was entirely different a few minutes later. The west's Indian welterweight Marvin Liddell from Oklahoma City, met a rough, tough customer in New York's welterweight alternate, Vinco Gallotto, a machinist. It was take one to land one all the way. Late in the second round it looked as though both boys were ready to fall to the canvas to be counted out. This didn't happen. They walloped away at each other all through a spectacular third round with the Redskin slightly in front when it ended.

Then O'Malley Wins.

Next came O'Malley's triumph. The score was tied. Then Booker Beckwith of Gary sent the westerners to the front when he knocked out Danny Cox from Washington, after a minute and 53 seconds of fighting in the third round. Beckwith, who was substituted into the Chicago lineup after Cornelius Young, the middle west champion, had suffered a broken rose in training, out slugged his foe all the way and was always in front.

The western team was assured of at least a tie before the matches in the heavyweight division had even started. Then Montgomery's victory clinched it.

SOY BEANS LEAD CHICAGO WATER BORNE EXPORTS

Crude Petroleum Second Among 1936 Cargoes.

Soy beans, which in the last few years have become one of Illinois' principal crops, comprised the chief cargo for foreign export by water from Chicago in 1936, Knud Nielsen, chairman of the foreign trade committee of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, said yesterday in disclosing the results of a survey made by the committee. Crude petroleum was second. The largest item of import by water was newsprint from Canada. Results for 1937 are not yet available, Nielsen said.

"Water-borne exports from Chicago in 1936, according to reports just received from the United States department of commerce, amounted to 241,950 cargo tons," Nielsen said. "Imports amounted to 308,457 tons. [A cargo ton is 2,240 pounds.]

Most of Cargoes to Canada.

"The heaviest export from Chicago consisted of 91,875 tons of soy beans, principally to Montreal. Crude petroleum to the amount of 71,982 tons was exported to Toronto. Coke totaling 48,215 tons was shipped from Chicago, principally to Toronto.

"Metals and manufactures exported from Chicago amounted to only 13,670 tons, showing that the chief movements by water, both export and import, consisted of agricultural products and basic materials. Chicago imports of metals and manufactures amounted to 27,604 tons, principally from Canadian ports, but including 1,756 tons from Belgium and 1,250 tons from Norway.

"Grain to the amount of 93,188 tons came into Chicago by boat, the greatest amount from Port Arthur, Canada."

Nielsen said that of 6,813 tons of provision imports into Chicago, the largest single item, came from Stavanger, Norway.

131,056 Tons of Newsprint.

For the entire Great Lakes, cargoes destined for foreign ports totaled 5,482,082 tons and imports from abroad totaled 1,441,120 tons, Nielsen said. Coal was one of the principal export items, most of it going to Canada. Ashtabula and Toledo, both in Ohio, shipped 1,173,412 and 1,567,370 tons, respectively.

The record of water borne foreign business for middle western Great Lakes states for 1936 was as follows:

	Exports.	Imports.
Illinois	241,950	308,457
Ohio	4,436,026	294,809
Michigan	323,397	376,818
Indiana	6,108	2,002
Wisconsin	457,733	390,478

U. S. PRESSES FOR A MEXICAN TRUCE ON OIL

American Reported Held by Workers.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—The administration pressed today for a modification of Mexico's expropriation last week of 400 million dollars' worth of foreign oil properties, including American owned companies.

Secretary Hull.

During a long telephone conversation with Ambassador Josephus Daniels at Mexico City, Secretary of State Hull expressed this government's serious concern over the possibilities that may arise from the seizure.

He also told Daniels of his hope that some adjustment of the differences resulting from the expropriation might be made on the basis of fairness to all concerned.

Silver Program Unaffected.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said, meanwhile, that the expropriation had not affected the treasury's purchase of Mexican silver. He added the treasury had agreed to buy another 5,000,000 ounces of Mexican silver in March, the same quota that has been taken for more than a year.

Hull indicated the United States had hoped, prior to the expropriation order, that the Mexican government would adopt the usual course of a government receivership, instead of taking over the properties bodily. Hull's hopes of receivership rather than expropriation was based on the idea that under a receivership the ownership of the oil properties would remain with the American interests involved. There would be also an accounting under a receivership.

American Reported Held.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, March 21.—(AP)—An American and two Mexican oil company executives were reported held prisoner today by Tampico workers in the first disorders developing from President Lazaro Cardenas' expropriation of the foreign petroleum industry.

Tampico advices said Edward Borrego, American superintendent of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey refinery there, and the Mexicans were held "within a building" by workers demanding payment of back pay. Company officials here said they knew of no pay due.

Meanwhile, the possibility Mexico would take a leaf out of Germany's bank book and institute a system of "blocked pesos" was suggested.

No Dealings in Exchange.

Foreign exchange dealings were suspended by the Central Bank of Mexico at the same time that expropriation of the $400,000,000 foreign oil industry was announced last week. Other banks followed suit.

Tonight, however, the Central bank authorized a "free" market to let the peso "seek its natural level." Luis Montes de Oca, director of the bank, advised private banks they could buy and sell pesos at their own risk until the Central bank decided to peg the currency.

It was reported private banks tomorrow would sell United States dollars at the rate of one to 4.25 pesos and buy them at the rate of 4 to 1. The peso was quoted officially last Friday at 3.60 to 1.

May Set Two Rates.

While long lines of Mexicans paraded past windows of the Bank of Mexico exchanging currency for silver coins, banking quarters said it was understood the government contemplated establishing two rates for the peso-dollar exchange eventually.

One, probably in the neighborhood of 3.60 pesos to the dollar, would be for the purchase of prime materials and heavy machinery for Mexican industry, it was said.

The other would be considerably higher, for the purchase of luxuries and sending capital abroad for "unnecessary purposes."

Says Industry Is Functioning.

From Vicente Lombardo Toledano, chief of the Confederation of Mexican Workers, came a report the oil industry was "working like a clock."

The first job of the new seven man petroleum board, jointly representing the government and labor, appeared to be to find foreign markets for Mexico's oil.

Oil men said 17 per cent of the world's tanker tonnage was "free"—not owned or leased by the 17 United States and British companies involved in the expropriation move. Mexico would have to count on some of that 17 per cent to transport her oil to foreign purchasers.

An unconfirmed report said the government might seek to attach the Mine Stocks Decline; Fear Mexican Loss

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 21.—Pronounced weakness in mining shares today affected other shares with the result that most of the active list showed declines. Trading remained dull around 542,000 shares, against 473,000 a week ago.

Mining companies with Mexican connections were heaviest hit in the general slide among mining shares. The explanation was that they face loss of their properties in Mexico through threatened nationalization of the industry by the Mexican government—similar to the expropriation of oil properties last week.

American Smelting Breaks.

American Smelting was a weak spot throughout the day. The issue opened half point lower and by the close of the session had recorded a loss of 5 points. United States Smelting common also dropped 5 points and the preferred was off 2½ points. Howe Sound fell 5¼ points, Greene Copper was off 4¼, Homestake dipped 1¼, and Kennecott and Anaconda declined fractionally.

The situation with respect to oil companies in Mexico has dampened enthusiasm of traders for petroleum shares and only negligible interest was shown in them today.

Although the dominant factor in week-end news was the apparent lifting of European war clouds, this did not serve to stimulate any exceptional interest in the market, in the opinion of observers.

Farm Group Does Best.

The best tone in industrial shares today was found among the farm machinery makers, where moderate gains served to bolster somewhat the general downtrend. Among these, International Harvester rose ⅜, Fairbanks Morse gained 1⅞, and J. I. Case preferred rose 1 point, but the common was unchanged. Brown Shoe and Food Machinery dropped 2⅜ and 2¾ points, respectively.

Steels were mixed. United States Steel sold around 52 during the early part of the day, but finished at 50⅞, off ⅛. Bethlehem rose half a point.

BUILDING SHOWS GAIN IN ILLINOIS DURING FEBRUARY

Building of all types increased throughout Illinois during February over the preceding month in estimated cost and number of permits, but showed a decline in cost as compared with February of last year, it was disclosed yesterday.

The monthly summary of building conditions prepared by the Illinois department of labor showed 1,085 permits for all types of construction were issued in 132 cities throughout the state in February, with a total estimated value of $3,572,011.

A total of 769 permits was issued in January with a total value of $3,319,939. A year ago 947 permits had a total cost of $4,519,075.

Permits issued for new residential construction in February numbered 154 for homes valued at $979,654. These figures compare with 121 permits issued in January for homes costing $713,655.

HEAVY BUILDING EXPANDS.

New York, March 21.—[Special.]—Contracts for major engineering projects awarded during the first eleven weeks of this year totaled $575,027,000, which was 22 per cent above the previous year and the highest for any similar period since 1929, Engineering News-Record reported today.

3 ROADS REPORT FREIGHT GAINS; TWO HAUL LESS

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Rock Island railroads yesterday reported freight traffic last week was larger than in the preceding week. Slight declines were shown by the Chicago and North Western, and the Milwaukee road. All five had smaller loadings than a year ago, however.

Atchison T. & S. F.	24,541	23,481	37,366
Baltimore & Ohio	37,045	36,964	55,014
Chi. & N. Western	21,197	21,336	27,645

I. C. C. Hearing Begins in Row on Weight of Gas

The interstate commerce commission yesterday began hearings to determine the weight of gasoline. The railroads have been charging shippers on the basis of 6.6 pounds per gallon. The shippers complained that gasoline weighs approximately six pounds a gallon and that the weight may vary because of the temperature of the air and the quality of the gasoline. William A. Basque, a commission examiner, will hold hearings in the Morrison hotel for the next three days.

Wane of War Fear Lowers Wheat Prices

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .85⅞	$ .87½	$1.39⅝
Corn	.39½	.39⅝	1.11⅛
Oats	.30	.30¼	.47
Rye	.60⅝	.63	1.09⅝
Soy beans	.99	1.00½	1.56½

Pronounced weakness in foreign wheat markets, incident to lessened political tension on the continent and continued favorable reports regarding the winter wheat crop in the northern hemisphere, caused a break of about 2 cents in futures on the Chicago Board of Trade early yesterday. May wheat sold at 85¼ cents at one time, a new low on the current movement and within ⅛ cent of the lowest price of the season.

Short covering and commission house buying caused a fair rally later, but closing trades were at net losses of 1 to 1¼ cents a bushel. Losses in other North American markets ranged from 1 to 1¾ cents.

Prices Slump in Liverpool.

Liverpool wheat futures closed 2⅛ to 2¾ cents a bushel lower, with all deliveries selling below $1 and at new lows since July 15, 1936. Australian cash wheat was offered at a decline of 3 cents a bushel in the English market, which resulted in fairly general liquidation by holders of futures.

European demand for North American and other cash wheat yesterday was reported to be extremely small, and only a few scattered lots were said to have been purchased.

Part of the late rally in wheat futures in American markets was due to reports of dust storms in parts of western Kansas.

Corn Sags, Then Rallies.

Corn declined ⅛ to ¾ cent a bushel in the early trading in sympathy with wheat and on a marked increase in country offerings of cash grain for deferred shipment, but rallied toward the last to close unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher.

Houses with export connections were good buyers of corn futures. Europe was said to have taken 500,000 bushels of American corn, paying a slight premium for grain now afloat on the ocean as compared with offers for March shipment, which suggested immediate need of supplies. The country sold 170,000 bushels of cash corn for deferred shipment.

Increased Activity Ahead in Business, Says Roper

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Roper said tonight there were signs of increased activity ahead for business. "There is evidence of resistance to further business and economic decline," he asserted in a radio address. "While an immediate dynamic upturn is not to be expected, factors that now stimulate confidence, coupled with seasonal influences, should augment the rate of activity during the ensuing months."

It's Been a Big Apple Year for Dancers, Also Exporters

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—It's been a "big apple" year for exporters as well as for dancers, the state department announced today. From July 1 to Dec. 31, 1937, exports of American apples totaled 5,275,000 bushels, an increase of nearly 22 per cent over the corresponding 1936 period. Large crops and concessions in fifteen of sixteen reciprocal trade agreements were responsible, the department said.

M'KINLAY IS ELECTED TO NAT. TEA BOARD; REVEALS SALARY PLAN

John McKinlay, former president of Marshall Field & Co., who recently was elected chairman and chief executive officer of the National Tea company, was elected to the board of National Tea at the annual stockholders' meeting yesterday. Judson F. Stone, manager of the McCormick estates, also was elected to the board.

John McKinlay.

McKinley and Stone succeeded T. R. Rasmussen and B. J. Dickens, former directors, who were not candidates for reëlection. Directors of the company who were reëlected were Joseph L. Merrill, W. E. Russel, George Rasmussen Jr., Robert V. Rasmussen, and Frederick H. Massmann.

McKinlay signed a contract early this year for three years as chief executive officer of the National Tea company at a nominal salary and a percentage of profits. Yesterday, in answer to a stockholder's question, he said the "nominal" salary is $25,000 a year. This is in addition to 7 per cent of the first $500,000 of net profits, 5 per cent of the next $500,000, and 3 per cent of all over $1,000,000, for which his contract calls.

DEFENDS SALE OF ALLEGHANY STOCK ABROAD

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Robert R. Young, chairman of the Alleghany corporation, former Van Sweringen railroad holding company, released today a statement from Walter W. Foskett defending the legality of purchase by the Seaboard company, a Bahaman corporation, of certain holdings of Alleghany corporation last September.

Foskett, a West Palm Beach, Fla., attorney and counsel for the Seaboard company, gave his explanation of the deal in reply to charges made by Senator Wheeler, chairman of the senate railroad finance investigating committee, in Washington that the committee had been blocked in its efforts to learn the identity of the buyers of the Alleghany securities.

Foskett's statement said: "Senator Wheeler's committee has been heretofore advised by me that my information is that all persons interested in the purchase of the Alleghany corporation securities from Frank F. Kolbe are British subjects not resident in the United States and that so far as I know there is nothing illegal, irregular, or undesirable for a British citizen to own securities in an American corporation."

Chicago Great Western Orders 4,175 Tons of Rail

The Chicago Great Western railroad yesterday placed orders for 4,175 tons of rail of which 3,060 was awarded to the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and 1,115 to the Inland Steel company. The road also has placed orders for 3,040 tons of tie plates and fastenings.

Steel Output at Best Rate for 4 Months

Steel production in the United States this week is at the highest level in more than four months, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. Mills are operating at 33.7 per cent of ingot capacity, according to institute estimates, the best rate since the week of last Nov. 15, when output was 36.4 per cent of capacity.

This week's improvement was the third in succession and represents a gain of 1.6 points, or 5 per cent, from last week's 32.1 per cent production. Operations were at 29.9 per cent of capacity two weeks ago and had stayed in a narrow range between 29.3 and 31 per cent since the previous 1938 high of 32.7 was reached on Jan. 24.

Holiday Week Set Low.

Operations in the industry reached a 4½ year low of 19.2 per cent in the holiday week at the end of 1937. The low since then was 25.6 per cent. This week's rate is a gain of 14½ points, or 76 per cent, from the year-end low.

Even so, the current rate is the lowest for this time of year since 1933. Operations were at 89.6 per cent of capacity a year ago and at 53.7 per cent in 1936, although floods were damaging Pittsburgh plants. At that time production was at 46.8 per cent at this time in both 1935 and 1934.

Dow-Jones & Co. reported that prospects are good for continued improvement in steel production in the Chicago area for at least another week or two.

Gradual Upturn at Chicago.

Gradual upturns for four weeks have brought ingot production to 31.8 per cent of capacity at Chicago, a gain of 3.1 points from last week, 8.4 points higher than a month ago, and the highest since mid-November.

Steel users generally are reported to have their inventories so low that if their business continues only at present levels they will be forced to buy steel more actively. One leading producer previously had been largely responsible for operating gains, but two other mills stepped up production this week. One producer reported sales last week up 20 per cent from the preceding seven days.

HEARINGS BEGIN ON INSULL CASE LAW FEE CLAIMS

Federal Master-In-Chancery Garfield Charles began hearings yesterday on applications of lawyers, receivers, trustees, and others for fees and expenses in connection with bankruptcy proceedings of the defunct Insull Utility Investments, Inc. One attorney took the stand and began presenting evidence in support of his claims.

Petitions asking more than $500,000 in legal fees have been filed, and a number of other applicants have left it to the court to determine their compensation. Charles, appointed by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, to take the petitioners' evidence, began the hearings in the judge's jury room.

Attorney Louis F. Jacobson, whose law firm represented creditors in the bankruptcy proceedings, was the first petitioner to take the stand. His testimony concerning his work in the Insull litigation is expected to take two or three days.

WHITNEY ADMITS LARCENY WHILE EXCHANGE HEAD

Misused Funds for Several Years.

New York, March 21.—(AP)—Richard Whitney, head of the bankrupt Wall street brokerage firm of Richard Whitney & Co., admitted at a public hearing today that his peculations "presumably" went back as far as 1932—at a time when he was president of the New York Stock exchange.

He said his brother, George Whitney, a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., came to his rescue with a personal loan of $1,082,000 last November, when he was in serious financial straits, but that pyramiding factors led to the ultimate collapse of his firm.

In his testimony Whitney, who was expelled from the stock exchange last week after he had pleaded guilty to two grand larceny indictments, took sole blame for the crash.

Gives Reasons for Failure.

Among the major reasons he cited were:

1. An attempt to "preserve the value" of 139,400 shares of Distilled Liquors corporation.
2. Depreciation in all market securities, including those of Distilled Liquors.
3. Interest charges that had to be paid.
4. Contributions to Florida interests.
5. Failure of Whitney & Co. to earn make much money in its operations.
6. Withdrawal of money for the living expenses of partners in the firm.

Whitney, five times president of the New York Stock exchange, said he borrowed the million dollars from his brother to redeem securities originally in the gratuity fund of the stock exchange. He said he had misappropriated the stock exchange fund, pledging the securities of the Corn Exchange bank for a loan.

Brother Comes to His Aid.

When the gratuity fund committee demanded return of the securities last November, he said, his brother came to his aid.

Whitney denied he was "shielding" any of his associates in the investigation of his firm's irregularities.

Assistant State Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall questioned him closely about the so-called "control account" into which securities from clients' accounts were transferred after it was created on Feb. 16, 1937.

"I know you are not attempting to avoid responsibility," McCall said. "All I want to get at is this—who helped you in this?"

"No one," Whitney replied. "No one in the world had anything to do with opening that account except myself. No one suggested it to me."

The broker admitted that transferring his clients' securities to the "control account" would conceal a possible deficit.

Admits Improper Records.

"That is unusual bookkeeping, isn't it?" McCall asked.

"It was improper," Whitney said, but denied that he set up the control account to hide insolvency.

"That was not in my mind," he said.

The financier admitted that a questionnaire he had filed with the stock exchange early this year concerning the financial status of his firm contained "many, many false statements."

"When were you first pressed for money so that you used securities of customers as collateral for loans?" he was asked.

"Was it as far back as 1932?"

"Presumably," Whitney said.

Whitney's next scheduled appearance was set for tomorrow, when he will be required to submit to a psychiatric examination, a procedure made necessary by his plea of guilty to grand larceny.

Skelly, Other Oil Firms Earn More in Year

A number of oil refining companies yesterday reported higher profits for 1937. Increased earnings also were shown by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., and the Superheater company. Other reports revealed mixed results.

Skelly Oil company, Tulsa, Okla., reported net profit in 1937 of $6,090,546, or $6.06 a common share, against $4,452,514, or $4.42 a share, in 1936. For the fourth quarter of last year, however, indicated net income amounted to $743,606, against $1,911,022 in the preceding quarter and $1,338,883 in the final three months of 1936.

Net income of the Ohio Oil company, Findlay, O., last year amounted to $11,862,104, or $1.31 a common share, compared with 1936 net income of $7,881,571, or 70 cents a share. Indicated net for the last quarter of 1937 declined to $1,547,096, compared with $3,592,654 in the preceding three months and $1,668,590 in the fourth quarter of 1936.

Sunray Nets $950,850 in Year.

Sunray Oil corporation, Tulsa, had net profit in 1937 of $950,850, equal after annual preferred dividend requirements to 42 cents a common share, compared with $550,429, or 26 cents a share, in 1936.

Ford of Canada reported a net profit for last year of $3,773,043, or $2.27 a share, on the combined class A and B stocks, compared with 1936 net profit of $3,358,470, or $2.02 a share.

Superheater company, East Chicago, Ind., had net profit for 1937 of $2,085,989, or $2.30 a share, compared with $899,791, or $1.02 a share, in the preceding year.

Hecla Mining company, whose chief product is lead, reported for 1937 net profit of $1,343,021, or $1.34 a capital share. This compared with net in 1936 of $924,604, or 92 cents a share. The figures do not include any deduction for depletion.

Wayne Pump Profit $1,574,042.

The Wayne Pump company, manufacturer of gasoline service station and garage equipment, reported net profit for the twelve months ended Feb. 28 was $1,574,042, or $5.43 a common share, compared with net of $1,461,201, or $5.04 a share, in the preceding twelve months. No provision was made for federal surtax on undistributed profits.

Evans Products company and subsidiaries, maker of automobile parts and accessories, showed net profit for 1937 of $422,769, or $1.73 a share. This compared with net in 1936 or $737,071, or $3.02 a share.

Net income of the Magma Copper company, including the Magma Arizona Railroad company, in 1937 was $1,456,322, or $3.57 a share, including $25,636 profit on the sale of securities. This compared with net in the preceding year of $1,297,989, or $3.18 a share, including $178,159 profit on securities sales. The figures are before any deduction for depletion.

MAIN FOREIGN MONEYS LOWER AGAINST DOLLAR

Foreign exchange trading was quiet in principal markets yesterday, but several important European currencies declined, more than offsetting the gains they recorded Saturday. The French franc closed .02⅝ of a cent lower at 3.04¾ cents, and the pound sterling finished at $4.96⅛, down 9-16 of a cent. The Belgian belga declined .01 of a cent. The Holland guilder and the Swiss franc recovered moderately late in the day to close unchanged.

Quotations on the Mexican peso again were unavailable as traders awaited developments in the Mexican situation. The Bank of Mexico suspended foreign exchange transactions Saturday in an action linked with expropriation of foreign oil properties.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York reported a new engagement of $532,000 in gold in London for shipment to the Unied States. Forty steel bound boxes containing $3,000,000 in gold bars were unloaded from the liner Queen Mary when it docked in New York yesterday.

NEW OFFERINGS OF 125 MILLIONS GO ON MARKET

First Signs of Life in Many Weeks.

The investment market gave more evidence of life yesterday than at any other time in many weeks, with announcements of several large offerings and prospective offerings. Today's offerings total about $125,000,000 and one of $60,000,000 was announced for April 14.

Morris S. Tremain, New York state controler, said he will sell today an issue of $100,000,000 of New York state short term notes, maturing June 28. Proceeds will be used for general budgetary purposes, but the larger part will be used to make final payments of state aid in support of the common schools, now due. The interest rate will be ¼ of 1 per cent.

Preston Delano, governor of the Federal Home Loan Bank system, announced an offering of $23,500,000 of 5 year 2 per cent consolidated debentures, series D, of the Federal Home Loan banks, due April 1, 1943, at 100. The purpose of the issue, he said, is to refund the major part of $24,700,000 of one year 1½ per cent debentures due April 1, 1938.

Backed by Loan Associations.

Delano said the debentures will be joint and several obligations of the twelve home loan banks and are further secured by the assets of borrowing member savings and loan associations which hold mortgages on more than 1,000,000 urban homes.

The Consolidated Edison company, New York, announced it plans an offering on April 14 of $60,000,000 of debentures, bearing interest at not more than 3½ per cent and maturing in 1953. Negotiations for offering the debentures through underwriters are now in progress with Morgan Stanley and company. Proceeds from the sale will be used to redeem on June 1, $60,000,000 of the company's 4½ per cent debenture bonds at 105.

Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of the board of Consolidated Edison, said at the company's annual meeting in New York that there will be a great demand for utility securities if the federal administration will end its hostility to utilities.

May Issue Common Stock.

He said his company plans to issue common stock this year provided the TVA question is settled and if the administration defines its future utility policy. If these things are done, he said, it would be a small thing for prices of utility stocks to rise to a point which would permit a Consolidated Edison common stock offering.

The Securities and Exchange commission yesterday authorized the American Light and Traction company to sell to institutional investors $3,270,000 principal amount of first mortgage and refunding gold bonds, series B, 5 per cent, due Jan. 1, 1958, of its subsidiary, the San Antonio Public Service company.

The interstate commerce commission authorized the Milwaukee road to guarantee $2,235,000 of equipment trust certificates, series S, to be issued by the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. Proceeds will be used in part to pay for new locomotives and other equipment, details of which previously have been printed. The notes are to be sold at 99.033 and accrued dividends.

Service to Bond Buyers
Adjusted to Today's Need

People not known as investors . . . who buy bonds only occasionally, in moderate amount, as funds accrue . . . have had limited access to bond offerings and sources of investment information these last few years. That is due to factors affecting supply . . . also expense of distributing bonds of investment character. Actual survey shows the condition is quite general . . . not confined to investors in smaller communities or remote localities.

To make comprehensive service again available to bond investors . . . regardless of location or amount of funds . . . we have devised a plan that is simple and convenient . . . affording opportunity to study information leisurely . . . restricted to bonds of investment character.

Our booklet, "'Going to Market' for Bonds" describes this service fully. It will be sent—together with a selected list of bonds yielding an average of over 3%—without obligation, upon request. Write for booklet CT-3X.

UTILITY INDUSTRY FACES WISCONSIN CENSOR THREAT

Advertising Designated as Propaganda.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 21.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin Public Service commission, with its designation of advertising as propaganda, holds a threat of censorship over public utility advertising. The threat is apparent, utility men said today, in the statement which accompanied a recent state-wide questionnaire sent by the commission ordering utility companies to report funds spent for advertising and publicity in 1937.

The report ordered the utilities to specify the amount of money spent for advertising and to name the newspapers and magazines in which the advertising was placed. It also called for copies of all advertisments to be sent to the commission. "Some advertising and publicity," the order stated, "may have for its purpose objectives which make the cost not properly chargeable to operating expenses."

Replies Not Made Public.

The order was headed "Wisconsin utilities propaganda. How handled? What cost?" The commission has not made public the replies to its order, but A. F. Herwig, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Utilities association, today published a summary.

The replies show, he said, that Wisconsin utilities in 1937 spent 1 per cent of their gross revenues for advertising and publicity. "The advertising expenditure was far too little," Herwig declared, "in comparison with the 5 to 20 per cent of the gross sales properly used by many industries for advertising.

"Expenditures for appliance advertising and publicity, now designated in Wisconsin as propaganda, are as necessary in the operation of a public utility as they are in any other business. They are necessary for survival.

Tells How Costs Are Cut.

"Advertising promotes use of the product manufactured, reduces unit selling cost, and improves friendly customer relations just as much in the utility industry as it does in any business."

The commission in addition to calling for copies of advertisments and the names of publications in which they appeared, ordered the utilities to send copies of all hand bills and all stuffers used in envelopes in which dividends were sent to stockholders and copies of advertising stuffers. The utilities also were ordered to report whether a press agent is hired and how much he is paid.

"The utilities do not object to proper accounting for advertising and publicity, but all object to any curtailment of right of free speech in any and all circumstances," Herwig said.

Cites Benefits to Homes.

"Every woman who has discarded her washboard and used an electric washing machine knows that the utility advertising which induced her to make the change has benefited her."

The purposes of utility advertising as listed in the answers to the questionnaire, Herwig said, are: To reduce rates by promoting increased use of services; to increase sales of appliances; to prevent accidents among employés and customers; to promote friendliness between buyers and sellers; to compete with other advertisers for a fair share of money spent for modern necessities, and to emphasize that families can raise their standard of living by increased use of utility services.

Treasury Sells 151 Million Additional Discount Bills

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau announced yesterday that bids had been accepted for about $151,000,000 of treasury discount bills to be dated March 23, for which tenders were asked March 18. A total of $50,099,000 was in 86 day bills and $100,282,000 was in 91 day bills. The average yield on the accepted bids was 0.059 per cent on the 86 day bills and 0.067 per cent on the 91 day issue.

Everyday Economics

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

Prudent Investment Basis.

We have discussed in previous articles the "reproduction-cost value" and "fair value" as bases for evaluating public utility properties in determining rates for utility services. Another theory, that of the prudent investment basis, has been advocated recently by the federal administration for valuing properties.

Actually, the prudent investment basis was first advanced by Justice Brandeis of the Supreme court in 1923, in a minority opinion in the Southwestern Bell Telephone case. Prudent investment may be defined as the actual sum invested in the undertaking when all expenditures have been made in a careful, prudent, and competent manner.

The adoption of this method of valuation, according to Justice Brandeis, would furnish a rate base which "would, when once made in respect to any utility, be fixed for all time, subject only to increases to represent additions to plant, after allowance for depreciation included in the annual operating charges."

Whether the prudent investment basis would work smoothly in practice, however, has been questioned. Difficulties appear probable in deciding who shall determine what expenditures are prudent, and by what standards they should be judged. There also is the question as to when a prudent investment becomes imprudent or an imprudent investment becomes prudent.

Thus, as "fair value" has been criticized as a rate making base, because of difficulty in deciding what is "fair," it appears that the trouble in deciding what is "prudent" gives room for criticism of the prudent investment base.

Dutch to Act with U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, March 21.—The Dutch minister to Mexico has been instructed to act with American and British ministers in attempts to induce the Mexican government not to carry through its policy of expropriating foreign oil holdings.

The Royal Dutch company holds a majority of the stock in the Mexican Eagle field and as a consequence Dutch interests are seriously threatened by the Mexican government's expropriation action decreed last week.

CHICAGO TRADE INJURED

Chicago's business with Mexico, estimated at about $10,900,000 for 1937, has been seriously affected by recent events in that country, including the seizure of foreign oil companies there and suspension of transactions in foreign exchange, Chicago business and trade officials said yesterday.

Many Chicago companies are refusing to ship goods to Mexico. They do not know how or when they will receive payment. Some shippers are reported to have ordered that goods in transit be held before arrival at Laredo.

"The Mexican situation warants careful watching," an executive in the foreign department of one of the largest banks said. "Our customers are calling us daily in large numbers asking what they should do. We are advising them to use the utmost caution in dealing with Mexico under present circumstances."

Market Seriously Affected.

The foreign trade division of the Chicago Association of Credit Men said the credit situation has been seriously affected by the Mexican actions and the association is making a survey to determine the status of Mexican accounts."

T. E. Harris, manager of the foreign trade division of the Illinois Central railroad, said business handled by the road destined for Mexico, either by rail direct or via ship from New Orleans, has dried up since Mexico's latest actions.

There are no separate figures on Chicago's trade with Mexico, but the Chicago Association of Commerce estimates that the volume for the Chicago area is approximately 10 per cent of that of the whole country. American exports to Mexico last year totaled $109,450,000.

Articles shipped to Mexico from the Chicago area include: Agricultural implements, radios, automobile tires, automobile parts, rubber goods, shoes, paper board for containers, and mining machinery and supplies. Imports by the Chicago area include fresh fruits and vegetables and large amounts of garlic.

TRAFIC SLUMP, RISE IN COSTS, CUT C. & O. NET

Income for 1937 Declines More than $9,000,000.

The combined effect of a decline in gross revenues and an increase in operating expenses was responsible for the drop of more than nine million dollars in net income of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway in 1937, the annual report submitted by G. D. Brooke, president, showed yesterday. March was the only 1937 month in which earnings exceeded those for the corresponding 1936 month.

Net income of the C. & O., as previously reported, amounted to $34,562,446, or $4.43 a common share, compared with 1936 net of $43,790,003, or $5.27 a share.

Revenues Drop; Costs Rise.

Brooke pointed out that total operating revenues for the last year of $127,346,701 represented a drop of $8,191,578, or 6.04 per cent, compared with 1936. At the same time operating expenses increased to $72,529,160, up $2,514,670, or 3.59 per cent, for the year.

He reported that securities once bought at a cost of 99 million dollars had shrunk to a value of 15 million.

He said operating expenses included $1,089,688 increases in wages and $1,611,800 representing the approximate increased costs of materials, supplies, and fuel coal. The amounts charged to operating expenses on account of flood damage to properties in the Ohio river valley totaled $854,880. The road's net railway operating income, before interest charges, amounted in 1937 to $34,562,446, against $54,052,873 in 1936.

Scandrett Predicts Loss.

H. A. Scandrett, president and trustee of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, estimated yesterday that the road would incur a net operating loss, before fixed charges, of $30,000 in the first half of 1938. The road had net operating income of $4,362,000 in the first six months of 1937.

Scandrett, who testified yesterday before the interstate commerce commission regarding the Milwaukee's reorganization, said March gross revenues had been running about 20 per cent less than in March, 1937. The recent freight increase would add $5,330,621 to the Milwaukee's revenues, according to estimates of the management, he said.

HOUSE APPROVES INQUIRY ON AUTO SALES METHODS

Washington, D. C., March 21.—(AP)—The house adopted and sent to the senate today a resolution directing the federal trade commission to investigate distribution polices of automobile manufacturers and sales policies of retail dealers. The commission would be required to report to congress in one year on:

1. The extent of monopoly and concentration of control in the manufacturing, warehousing, distribution, and sale of automobiles, accessories, and parts.

2. The extent, if any, to which fraudulent, dishonest, unfair, and injurious methods are employed, including combinations, monopolies, price fixing, or unfair trade practices.

3. The extent to which any of the anti-trust laws are being violated.

EGG CONTRACTS MOVE HIGHER ON BUYING SUPPORT

Buying support in egg contracts yesterday pushed futures prices up ½ cent a dozen, after weakness at the opening, in trading on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. March storage packs closed at 19½ cents, and Octobers finished at 21¼ cents. A steady cash market and renewed speculative interest in storage grades appeared to account for the buying interest, which came in the face of heavy receipts and storings locally.

Butter futures continued lower, closing down ⅛ to ⅜ a pound, with March storage contracts off ⅜ at 26 cents. April fresh standards touched their low point of the season at 27¼ cents, ¼ cent lower. Novembers were down ⅛ at 28 cents. Cash prices held steady.

Consolidated Edison, N. Y., Wins Order in NLRB Fight

New York, March 21,—(AP)—The Consolidated Edison company of New York today carried a step further toward the Supreme court its fight against the national labor relations board. On application of counsel for the utility, Judge Martin T. Manton, in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, signed an order requiring the NLRB to show cause why it should not be restrained from putting into effect its recent order annulling the company's bargaining contract with an American Federation of Labor union.

Investing Firm to Place Large Sum in Mortgages

The Investors Syndicate of Minneapolis yesterday announced that it had budgeted $5,000,000 for investments in home mortgages in and around Chicago during 1938. According to C. J. Ryan, vice president in charge of real estate investments, the company plans to lend $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 in a group of leading cities on residential mortgages this year, of which $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 is being allocated to Federal Housing administration insured mortgages.
